2 Europeans Are Slain By Negro Troops

Violence Erupts In Eastern Congo;
Residents Leaving

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—Violence erupted Saturday in two eastern Congo provinces where rebellious Negro troops killed two Europeans. This first slaying of Europeans by blacks in the current disorders spurred the mass flight of whites from the seething Congo.

U. S. and British consuls in Elisabethville urged their countrymen to get out of Katanga Province, main center of the new disorders, as swiftly as possible.

The Belgians, who granted independence to the Congo June 30, ordered a third company of troops from Brussels to help the Congolese government maintain order. Two companies were flown to the Congo Friday.

ENFORCED

Government officials enforced an uneasy quiet in this capital after a day of disorders, but the U.S. Embassy arranged to send out American women and children for the duration of the emergency. There are about 2,000 Americans in the Congo.

More than 70 men, women and children slept overnight in the U. S. Embassy, where Negro troops tried to break in Friday.

President Joseph Kasavubu and Premier Patrice Lumumba flew to the west coast port of Matadi, where reports said rebellious troops had held up a ship taking Americans back to their homeland. There also were reports of trouble at the port of Boma.

The two leaders were reported trying to calm the mutinous mili-

Ike Mapping Special Talk To Congress

By JIM CALOGERO
NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—President Eisenhower mapped plans Saturday for a special message to Congress calling for completion of his legislative program with a warning against runaway election-year spending.

The summer White House was unable to say at this time, however, in what form the President will get his appeal across to Congress when it reconvenes next month.

There were reports he personally will go before a joint session of the Senate and House. An alternate would be a message read in Congress for him.

In either case he may also go directly to the people over television and radio.

WORK

Commenting on the planned message, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said: "The President doesn't believe Congress has even begun to complete its work."

More immediately on tap for the President is a meeting at the Newport summer White House Monday with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter on the Latin-American situation, particularly the Cuban crisis.

Officially they will discuss a U. S. plan for improving the economic and social standards of the 21 members of the Organization of American States.

Hagerty said the tense Cuban situation is certain to be discussed as well.

Cuba is a member of the group of 21 countries supposed to participate in a discussion of the aid plan at a meeting of economic ministers in Bogota, Colombia, Sept. 5.

Eisenhower was up early today and left by helicopter for a day of trout fishing at the private lake of W. Alton Jones, board chairman of Cities Service.

Mrs. Eisenhower did not accompany the President on his trip, Hagerty said she has been resting and relaxing at the presidential quarters at Ft. Adams.

At a meeting news conference Hagerty said the President feels congressional action is far from complete on his legislative program set forth in State of the Union and budget messages, and in a special message May 3.

Aid Official Is Roughed Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—A U.S. aid official was roughed up and robbed by Congolese soldiers who were supposed to be protecting him in Leopoldville Friday night, the State Department reported Saturday.

The department identified the official as Joseph Leo S. Lawrence, who has been in the Congo for two months studying possibilities for developing a U.S. technical assistance program.

Kennedy Storms Johnson Trenches; Cracks Holdouts

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts breached Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson's Southern ramparts a bit Saturday, apparently cracked a line of favorite-son holdouts, and stormed on toward the Democratic presidential nomination.

Miss Universe Title Won By Miss U.S.A.

Italian Beauty
1st Runner-Up

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Linda Benett, 18-year-old raven-haired beauty from Salt Lake City, Utah, Saturday night became Miss Universe of 1960.

Linda was selected over 14 other semifinalists representing 15 nations of the world. The young Mormon graduated from high school only last month.

Daniela Bianchi, 18, of Rome, Italy was named first runner-up. Elizabeth Hodacs, 18, of Vienna, Austria, was second runner-up.

OTHERS

Others in the top five, in order, were Nicolette Caras of Johannesburg, South Africa, and Maria Teresa Del Rio of Madrid, Spain.

The announcement of Linda's victory caught the crowd of 5,000 by surprise. The five foot six green-eyed beauty seemed stunned for a second, then beamed and moved down the ramp for the audience.

The American girl, third from her nation to receive the title, succeeds Akiko Kojima, 23-year-old picture of charm and grace from Tokyo, Japan.

The judges decision was a popular one but runners-up did not include two beauties who received large ovations from the crowd.

Stella Marquez, brunette from Pasto, Colombia, and Mi Hi Ja Sohn of Seoul, South Korea.

CANDIDATES OVERCLAIMING?

Demo Convention Events Summed Up

By BASCOM N. TIMMONS

Special Correspondent

LOS ANGELES — Saturday has turned out to be a day notable for the waste of a reporter's time and leg power.

The candidates are now all here and the delegates all will have checked in by Sunday night. The candidates are all loudly claiming in fact one suspects they are overclaiming.

Surface indications are that the Kennedy people have the best chances of catching up with their overclaims. This appraisal is based upon the ancient theory that them who has gets. And there is no gainsaying the fact that Kennedy has the most at the start. But he has not got the nomination sewed up yet. In fact there is no doubt some of the Kennedy stitches are very loose.

There is no doubt either that a

Belgian Army Intervenes In Congo Unrest

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Belgian troops have intervened in the Congo to quell the sea of violence sweeping over the former Belgian colony, it was reported Saturday night.

Diplomatic informants in London said the Western Big Three—Britain, the United States and France—jointly appealed to Belgium to send troops to the mutiny-torn Republic of Congo which became independent only in days ago.

The Belgian radio, quoting a message from Kabalo in north-eastern Katanga Province, said Belgian troops intervened from the base at Kamina when infuriated Congolese soldiers began attacking Europeans aboard a train about to leave for safety in

Vote For Davis At Meet Seen

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—If Saturday's plans carry over until Wednesday, Gov. Jimmie Davis should get a favorable ballot from his state's delegation at the Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles.

Times-Picayune staffers reported from the convention city that there was considerable sentiment among Louisiana delegates to nominate Davis for president on the first ballot.

Of course, it was added, there could be a change in plans at the first caucus of the Louisiana delegation Monday.

BULLETIN

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Rebel Congolese troops marching on the Katanga Province capital of Elisabethville have clashed with loyalist troops supported by armed Europeans on the outskirts of the city, the Belgian Radio said Sunday.

The radio, quoting "official reports," said five rebels were killed and six injured during the fighting.

Red Premier Says Russia To Help Cuba

Says Soviets Can Hit United States
With Rocket Power

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev Saturday pledged all-out support for Cuba in its struggle with the United States. The Soviet Premier declared the U.S.S.R. now has rocket power capable of hitting America's heartland if the "Pentagon dare start an intervention" in Cuba.

He said the time of American dictation in Latin American affairs is over and the Soviet Union is "raising its voice and extending a helpful hand to the people of Cuba fighting for their independence."

WARNING

"We must serve a warning that today is not the time when the imperialists robbed and shared the world at their discretion," Khrushchev declared. "We shall do everything to support Cuba in her struggle."

"Now the United States is not so unreachable as it once was. Speaking figuratively, in case of necessity, Soviet artillery can support with their rocket fire the Cuban people if aggressive forces in the Pentagon dare to start intervention against Cuba."

Khrushchev charged American policy seeks to strangle Cuba with an economic blockade.

"We will help our Cuban brothers fight an economic blockade, and the blockade will be a failure," he said.

The warning was made in a blistering speech to a meeting of school teachers in the Kremlin and was the boldest and most direct challenge to the Monroe Doctrine since that cornerstone of U.S. foreign policy was issued Dec. 2, 1823. The doctrine lays down the policy that the United States will not tolerate any interference from powers outside the Western Hemisphere in the affairs of North and South America. It last was challenged by Britain in 1893 over intervention in Venezuela, but London backed away when the United States took a firm stand.

It appeared inevitable that Khrushchev's speech would have repercussions on American domestic policy.

Powers To Get Military Trial, Soviets Report

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union announced Saturday that alleged American spy pilot Francis Gary Powers will be tried by a military court for espionage. The maximum penalty on conviction is death by shooting.

By ordinary standards of Soviet law, this means the trial will be secret and not open to the public, and could mean that the trial already has taken place.

No date or place for a trial was mentioned in a later brief announcement first carried here this evening on a filmed television show.

It said that the investigation of the Powers case had been completed by the State Security Committee operating directly under the Council of Ministers.

This committee has now taken the place of the former secret police and it is highly unusual for it to be mentioned in a public announcement.

Tass reported earlier that an indictment charging Powers with espionage in the U2 spy plane flight over the Soviet Union has been sent to the Soviet Supreme Court.

The TV announcement said an indictment had been handed in to the Supreme Court of the U.S.S.R. and that the court had handed this over to its military division.

This is equivalent to a high-level court-martial by Western standards. No such trial has ever been held in public in the Soviet Union, and it is commonly believed here that Powers' trial will be just as secret as the thousands which have preceded his.

It said that Powers would be tried under Article 2 of the law concerning criminal responsibility for state crimes. The announcement then inserted in brackets the word "espionage."

Boy Survives After Niagara Falls Plunge

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (UPI)—A 7-year-old boy protected only by a life preserver was swept head-over-heels over Niagara Falls from a disabled boat Saturday and was rescued practically unharmed in the churning waters 165 feet below.

Police said no one else had ever survived a plunge over the spectacular falls except dare-devils who encased themselves in elaborate barrels and shock-resistant containers.

The boy's 17-year-old sister, who also was in the boat, was pulled from the Niagara River only a few feet from the brink of the falls. James Houcyent, 41, the third person who was in the outboard motor boat before it capsized in the river above the falls, was missing.

SCRATCHES

The boy, Roger Woodward, apparently suffered only scratches and bruises from the buffeting of the plunge from the whirlpools below the falls and which smashed the boat to pieces.

He was picked up by a sightseeing boat which makes frequent runs in the gorge below the falls.

Roger, who was hospitalized for observation, said "It was like a bad dream."

"My feet were down and my head was up and then I turned over in the air," Roger said. "It's kind of hard to remember what happened," he said. "We

Cloudy Skies, Showers Seen

The weatherman says that Monroe's partly cloudy skies may burst into scattered thundershowers today. Having had cloudy skies all week, he thinks we're due a change, so the skies will remain partly cloudy through Sunday night, with scattered thundershowers.

Louisiana will have partly cloudy skies throughout the day, with scattered thundershowers in the south portion and isolated thundershowers in the northern portion and little change in temperature. The high predicted to range in the low 90's. The high yesterday was 95, and the low was 70.

In Arkansas and Mississippi, skies will remain partly cloudy and there will be scattered thundershowers in the extreme south and isolated afternoon and evening showers. Not much change in temperature is expected.

Davis Becomes Ill On Flight To Shreveport

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—Gov. Jimmie Davis, who was scheduled to fly to the Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles Sunday, became ill here Saturday on a plane flight from Baton Rouge to Shreveport.

Davis, who is about 60, complained of an upset stomach and indigestion.

His physician, Dr. O. B. Owens of Alexandria, said he believed Davis was exhausted from the gubernatorial campaign and the recent legislative session.

"He just needs rest," Owens said.

DOCTOR REPORTS

The physician said the governor's heart action and blood pressure were all right Saturday night. Tests were planned on the governor's gall bladder, chest, stomach and heart.

Owens said the tests would delay Davis' departure for Los Angeles at least until Monday.

At Baptist Hospital, Davis said he still planned to go as soon as he could, probably Monday.

CALIFORNIA WOMAN

Wakes Up To Find Elephants In Yard

PLEASANT HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Barbara Harvey heard stomping and other strange noises in her back yard at 2 a.m. Saturday.

Fearful, she lay quietly in bed, waiting for her husband to return home.

James Harvey arrived from his night job at 4:15. He listened to his excited wife. Then he got a flashlight and went outside.

He returned quickly and reported: "I walked around a corner and there were a couple of elephants staring me in the face!"

Mrs. Harvey, wife-like, thought her husband was joking.

Harvey, however, telephoned the sheriff's office and three skeptical deputies came to look.

There WERE two elephants — a huge one and a smaller pachyderm — in the Harvey back yard.

And the pair — Barney, 10 years old, and his large friend, Susie, 35, were having a gay time.

They had escaped from a small circus at a nearby supermarket.

They ate flowers, bumped against the house and shook it, knocked down 70 feet of board fence, pushed over a Chinese elm tree, uprooted a small peach tree and demolished a watermelon patch.

Their huge footprints were all over the lawn.

The Harveys hustled their four children to a neighbor's home for safety.

Statement Is Given After Red Pledge

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—President Eisenhower Saturday night bluntly warned the Soviet Union to keep hands off Cuba. He told Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev the United States won't stand for a Cuban regime dominated by international communism.

The President fired his stern warning a few hours after Khrushchev had pledged all-out support to the regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro in its crisis-ridden struggle with the United States.

Khrushchev also had rallied the Soviet Union's rockets again. In a Moscow speech he said the U.S.S.R. now has rocket power capable of smashing America's heartland if the United States dared intervene in Cuba.

CONFERS

The vacationing Eisenhower, trout fishing when he got word of the latest Khrushchev blast, immediately conferred by telephone with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, who was in Washington.

The Soviet leader sounded off amid administration concern that he may overplay his hand and perhaps try to make good on some of his boastful threats — and conceivably start World War III.

Eisenhower's tough statement appeared to reflect that concern.

Eisenhower noted that the United States and other American republics are bound by more than one treaty to block any outside interference in the affairs of the Western Hemisphere.

"I affirm in the most emphatic terms that the United States will not be deterred from its responsibilities by the threats Mr. Khrushchev is making," Eisenhower said in his statement.

"Nor will the United States, in conformity with its treaty obligations, permit the establishment of a regime dominated by international communism."

Mrs. Davis Is Welcomed At Demo Meeting

By SAM A. HANNA
Special Correspondent

LOS ANGELES — The Democratic National Committee welcomed Mrs. James H. Davis as Louisiana's new committeewoman Saturday as the tensions of pre-convention maneuvering mounted.

The dignified presentation of Mrs. Davis by her predecessor as committeewoman, Mrs. Earl K. Long, was marked contrast to the frenzied buttonholing in the hotel corridors and even the sidewalks surrounding convention headquarters.

Credentials committee chairman Calvin W. Rawlings of Utah urged approval of Mrs. Davis wife of Louisiana's governor as the duly elected committee woman from Louisiana and the motion was adopted unanimously.

PLATFORM

Meanwhile, members of the platform subcommittee which will decide the actual wording of the party's 1960 platform began work in executive session with a possible endorsement of Louisiana's tideland case hanging on the outcome.

William G. Helis Jr., chairman of the Louisiana Minerals Board and chief advocate of the Tidelands plant on the platform committee, said it is too early to tell whether Louisiana's efforts will be successful.

He said he had been button-

Booming Business And Bankruptcy Side-Side

By GENE PLOWDEN

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Booming business and bankruptcy are neighbors in this glittering resort city where more than two million persons come to enjoy the sun, sand and surf each year.

Here lies the greatest concentration of plush tourist accommodations in the world and some of the finest entertainment to be had at any price. Here also is a layer upon layer of mortgages, retain title contracts and unpaid bills.

Hotels in one block are bankrupt, shuttered and dark; in the next they are crowded, with people lined up waiting to get in.

At least a dozen of the city's 750 hotels, including some of the newest, are in distress and awaiting liquidation.

Approximately 25 resort hotels received tax cuts in 1958 in what Tax Assessor John Gantler called "economic relief." But it wasn't enough.

There is the Lucerne, a 170-room hotel which cost four million dollars when built in 1956. In May the hotel closed and asked for reorganization under the Federal Bankruptcy Act. It was losing $800 to $400 a day with only 60 rooms occupied.

The Nautilus, a 250-room structure, carried many mortgages. At interest rates of 6 to 12 per cent, it was thrown into bankruptcy by fifth and sixth mortgage holders. Since then rents and other income have amounted to $1,321,713, but expenses, including mortgage payments, taxes and insurance ran $1,665,274.

Others undergoing reorganization include the Cadillac, Delmonico, Savoy and Sorrento—all luxury oceanfront hotels with that includes tax reductions for class. Foreclosure suits have been filed against the Lombardy and Plymouth.

Down the street from the Lucerne, the Fontainebleau is having the best year in its history. The Deauville is crowded and others are making money. Why?

Admittedly, the area is overbuilt with many plush hotels erected since the end of World War II. Many hotels also went up, and bid strongly for the middle class tourist trade.

"You can't buy your son-in-law a hotel and tell him to run it," said Ben Novack, owner of the 1900 room Fontainebleau.

"You've got to have know-how. And you can't switch management every few months in a resort operation. A tourist likes to see the same faces. When he doesn't, he thinks you're in trouble."

Novack criticized hotel operators who cut rates and those who pay high fees to travel agents to secure business.

"That's inviting disaster," he said. "A hotel has the same fixed charges. Fill it at reduced rates and you're still going to lose money."

Novack, who started in the hotel business here 20 years ago, has a four-point program for survival

Hundreds Flee Congo Violence; Cross Borders

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP)—Hundreds of Belgians fleeing from Congo violence crossed into Northern Rhodesia Saturday. An immigration department official said, "We are prepared for several thousand to arrive in the next day or two."

Northern Rhodesia, bordering on the Congo's Katanga Province has opened its borders to all white refugees. Rhodesian troops are stationed along the border to prevent any overflow of violence from newly independent Congo.

Police Here Tell Figures On Accidents

The second Monroe traffic fatality of the year was recorded in June, as the automobile accident rate for the month rose slightly over May's figures, according to statistics released by the Monroe Police Department yesterday.

The third city auto fatality was recorded last Thursday in the current month's records, almost before May began.

A total of 142 mishaps were investigated in Monroe during June. The accidents involved 39 injuries. This is slightly higher than the 128 accidents reported in May in which 27 persons were injured, but under the figures for June of last year with 143 wrecks and 43 injuries.

Last month death occurred when Harry Parks, 49, Negro of 1623 Texas Ave., Monroe died after the car in which he was a passenger went out of control and crashed into a house on the 1500 block of Texas Ave. The mishap occurred June 21.

This month's fatality was recorded last Thursday when Charlie Smith, 50, Negro of 200 North 21st St., Monroe fell from the side of a city garage truck and was crushed beneath the vehicle's wheels.

The first traffic death of the year occurred in April when a small Negro boy darted into the path of a pick-up truck near his home on Roy Drive.

The rate of teenage drivers involved in collisions in June rose sharply. The department said 42 persons between the ages of 15 and 19 were involved in wrecks. Thirty-two of these were male and 10 were female.

Only 27 persons in the same age group were involved in auto accidents during the month of May.

Of the 142 accidents 30 were rear end collisions, there were 27 stop intersections mishaps and 17 left turn wrecks. Other types include the following: Side swipes and backing, 13 each, traffic light intersections and pulling from parked positions, eight each and there were 26 miscellaneous collisions.

One hundred thirty-three of the accidents involved collisions between two or more auto's, there was one bicycle — motor vehicle wreck, six fixed objects and two pedestrian mishaps.

The high accident rate periods of the day were between the hours of four and five p.m. and eight and nine a.m. Each recorded 13 accidents during the month. A total of 261 drivers were in-

Police Lodge Weapons Charge Against Negro

A 27-year-old Monroe Negro was arrested by Monroe officers early yesterday and charged with possessing a dangerous weapon. Frank Robinson, who lives at the rear of 100 North 4th St., was apprehended by police near his home about 12:45 a.m. Saturday following a fracas. He was charged with carrying a knife.

His bond was set at $110 with his trial scheduled for July 13 in Monroe city court.

Ervin Swan, 45-year-old Negro of 1311 Griffin St., Monroe, was arrested about 1 a.m. Saturday and charged with two counts of aggravated battery.

Swan was free after posting a $500 bond for the two counts. His trial has been scheduled for July 13 in Monroe city court.

Cancer Research Speaker Slated

An internationally recognized cancer researcher, Dr. Carl Tabb Bahner, will discuss "Chemistry and Cancer" at Northeast Louisiana State College this week.

Bahner, who has been head of the chemistry department at Carle Smith, 50, Negro of 200 North 21st St., Monroe fell from the side of a city garage truck and was crushed beneath the vehicle's wheels.

His talks are scheduled at 8 a.m. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in 100 Administration Building at Northeast. Bahner will also show films from the American Cancer Society Thursday from 1:30 to 3 p.m.

Pythian Sisters Meeting Slated

The Monroe Temple No. 1 — Pythian Sisters will hold a joint meeting with the Swami Santha No. 102 Nomads of Avudaka Monday, July 18. They will not meet this Monday night.

Rani Mrs. Frank Parker states that the joint meeting will be a watermelon party at Castle Hall, 17½ St. John St., at 8 p.m.

Severe Weather

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — A severe thunderstorm hit the Lafayette area Saturday.

The fire department made six calls due to lightning with a 40-minute period, but only minor property damage was reported.

Involved in the 142 accidents, sixty-eight were females and 193 were male.

IN FEUD WITH U.S.

Latins Hesitant To Back Castro

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Leaders of Latin America showed no disposition Saturday to line up with Mexican congressional leaders alongside Cuba in its feud with the United States.

There was a reluctance of government leaders to comment even in such nations as Argentina, Brazil and Chile where Prime Minister Fidel Castro is suspected and disliked.

Leaders of Peru were equally silent, but Premier Pedro Beltrán's newspaper, La Prensa, predicted an early downfall of the Castro regime.

The only comment from Brazil was Foreign Minister Horacio Lafer's recent statement that strained U.S. — Cuban relations must be considered by all Latin American nations in unity.

President Arturo Frondizi of Argentina has been cool toward Castro but has avoided any public statements. President Osvaldo Dorticos of Cuba got a chilly reception on a recent visit and Buenos Aires newspapers have blasted the Cuban regime.

Reluctance to comment appears due to a desire to avoid Cuba's propaganda guns and to avoid anything that sounds like intervention in Cuban affairs.

There is no such reluctance, however, in discussing the U. S. cut in the Cuban sugar quota, for some Latin-American nations expect to benefit.

Industry and Mining Secretary

Carlos A. Juni of Argentina sent a note to Washington saying Argentina has about 360,000 tons of sugar available for export. Argentina has a sugar surplus.

Edmundo Barbosa de Silva, chief of Brazil's economic department of the Foreign Ministry, said: "In reducing the Cuban sugar quota, the U. S. government will have to buy the product from another country. Brazil, as one of the major producers of sugar without any defined market, has been seeking a U. S. quota for the last five years."

President Enrique Basombrio of Peru's National Committee of Sugar Producers hailed the U. S. decision to raise Peru's sugar quota to 180,000 tons, more than double its old quota.

Mexico's press, critical of the congressional leaders for siding with Castro, made the Cuban sugar quota cut big news. Sugar circles in Mexico predicted the cut would mean a bigger U. S. market for Mexican sugar.

Congo Situation Is Viewed By Fleeing Persons

BRAZZAVILLE, Congo Republic (AP) — "We never thought it would finish like that," said a tired Belgian housewife sitting on a traveling bag containing all she owned.

She and 2,000 others are housed in makeshift refugee camps in this former French colony after fleeing across the swift Congo River from Leopoldville.

"We never expected such violence," said the housewife, afraid to give her name because her husband is still in Leopoldville.

"The 'boy' who had been with us for four years suddenly went mad and started attacking us. My husband got me to the ferry with a few things in a bag. I don't know what has happened to our home."

As she spoke in a schoolyard converted into a refugee camp, a loudspeaker hung in a palm tree blared names and messages from forlorn people separated from their families. The flow of refugees has been stopped by Congolese in Leopoldville. The river was barred to traffic Saturday. Not even small boats were crossing the swift current.

No NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — A stamp vending machine that was out of order frequently spurred one post office patron to leave a note attached reading: "You fight rain, snow and hail; why can't you whip this cotton pickin' machine?"

were going down for a boat ride and then suddenly we were going back to the dock and then our engine went out of control and it was going real fast.

"There was a lot of noise and then I hit the water and I came up to the top. One of my legs hurt."

The next thing I remember is coming out of the water," he said. "After that, my first thought was for my sister."

The boy's sister, Diane, was pulled from the river by two New Jersey vacationists, one of them a policeman. Her rescuers said she was calling "save my brother" just as he was begging his rescuers to go after his sister.

Officials at Niagara Falls, Ont., General Hospital cut short interviews of the boy so he could get some rest after his ordeal.

State Police Arrest Suspect In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — State police Saturday arrested a 21-year-old man who they said was wanted as an armed robbery suspect in Arkansas.

Police Sgt. E. P. Sherman said William Hardke, 21, Hazen, Ark., is wanted in Brinkley, Ark., on charges of armed robbery and assault with intent to kill.

Sherman said state police were tipped about three days ago that Hardke was in the New Orleans area. He was not armed and did not resist when he was arrested on a highway here.

tary, who touched off the disorders by demanding more pay and the dismissal of all Belgian officers in the Force Publique, the Congo army raised and trained by Belgium.

The worst disorders were reported at Kongo, in Katanga Province. A dispatch to the newspaper Elisabethville Essor said the dead were a Belgian territorial administrator and a Portuguese settler.

The Katanga provincial government said Negro troops had fired on a crowd of whites who had crowded upon the wharf at Kongo trying to escape. Essor reported three other whites were wounded but about 420 got across the upper Congo in two river boats.

Katanga provides most of the country's wealth in the form of copper and other minerals. Top political leaders there are reported about to form an independent government.

This has been a constant threat in Katanga, where there is a very strong feeling against spreading the province's wealth over the entire country.

the neighboring British territory of Tanganyika.

This first report of Belgian intervention came as stories of chaos, disorder and savagery in the huge sprawling territory multiplied.

The grimest stories of rape and killing came from plantations of men, women and children arriving here as refugees.

The refugees told of brutal requisition of property, of native soldiers forcing white women to disrobe before raping them under the threat of tommyguns. Some said native soldiers forced entry into convents in the Thysville area, brutalizing young girls and married women who had taken refuge there.

They told of white women being triumphantly paraded through the streets of Leopoldville on banking army jeeps while their European menfolk looked on helplessly.

The administrator of a Congo territory told newsmen he had to witness the raping of his own wife and 40 other women, most of them social workers.

fought on. But the confident Kennedy seemed able to leap one by one the blockades they were trying to pile in the way of an early Kennedy victory.

Symington hit town, too, proclaiming that:

"Obviously, I'm not here to lose."

And to a crush of applauding people in his elaborate reception room at the Biltmore Hotel, Symington remarked that: "There's going to be some surprises."

But he didn't say what the surprises will be or who will be surprised.

will grow out of his entering the primary elections and winning them.

He took a swipe at Johnson, who has been questioning his youth. Kennedy is 43, Johnson 51.

"One of the candidates said I don't have as much gray hair as he does," Kennedy chuckled.

"Well, I want to tell you we put that gray hair in his head and we'll continue to do so."

One reason for Kennedy's optimism:

Terry Sanford, who will be North Carolina's next governor, threw his support to Kennedy and said he figures the Massachusetts senator will gather in about a third of the state's 37 votes after the national convention opens Monday. Johnson, he said, will have the other two-thirds.

Kennedy already had set up a small beachhead in Dixie by means of a smattering of support

Credentials Men Will Not Certify Ruth J. Owens

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Credentials Committee refused Saturday to certify Mrs. Ruth Johnson Owens as national committeewoman from Alabama because it would have cost the delegation one-half of one vote.

Committee chairman Calvin Rawlins said the committee refused to accept the resignation of retiring national committeewoman Mrs. Leonard Thomas to protect the state's vote.

He said Mrs. Thomas' term would have to run throughout the convention and her vote could not be transferred.

However, Mrs. Owens will be able to cast Mrs. Thomas' vote by proxy.

It will leave the Alabama delegation without a committeewoman on the convention floor.

National committeewoman and committeemen each get one half of one vote which is not transferable.

national communism in the Western Hemisphere."

Eisenhower accused the Soviet Union of "clear intention to establish Cuba in a role serving Soviet purposes in this hemisphere."

"The statement of the Soviet Premier reflects the efforts of an outside nation and of international communism to intervene in the affairs of the Western Hemisphere," the President added.

"There is irony in Mr. Khrushchev's portrayal of the Soviet Union as the protector of the independence of an American nation when viewed against the history of the enslavement of countless other peoples by Soviet imperialism."

"The inter-American system has declared itself on more than one occasion, beginning with the Rio treaty, as opposed to any such interference. We are committed to uphold those agreements."

The commitments to which Eisenhower alluded include, said the White House press secretary James C. Hagerty, the 1947 Rio de Janeiro Treaty, the 1948 Bogota Charter conference which set up the Organization of American States, and the 1954 Caracas agreement.

Hagerty said that in all of those pacts the American republics pledge in substance they will tolerate no outside interference in the Western Hemisphere.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed Saturday that Eisenhower is making plans for a special message to Congress prodding for action on his legislative program. It will be coupled with a warning against runaway election-year spending.

All Americans Evacuated From Leopoldville

BRAZZAVILLE, Congo Republic (AP) — U.S. officials here announced Saturday that all American women and children, including embassy personnel, have been safely evacuated from Leopoldville by motor launches.

The flow of refugees leaving across the Congo River resumed for a while Saturday afternoon. About 900 Europeans crossed to safety.

Police Recover Pearl Bailey's Stolen Jewelry

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Precious gems and trinkets nearly $15,000 worth belonging to Pearl Bailey — have been recovered in a painstaking search over several miles of countryside near here, sheriff's deputies reported Saturday.

The singer's Las Vegas strip hotel bungalow was burglarized earlier this week. Acting on tips, deputies arrested three youths now held as "responsible" for the theft.

TB Big Killer In Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP) — TB is still the deadliest killer in this refugee-crowded city. Of 45 deaths from infectious diseases in the week ending June 18, according to official health figures, 35 were caused by tuberculosis. In the same period 256 cases were reported, bringing the total number since January to 5,372.

5 Injured In Local Wrecks Last Night

Five persons were injured, one believed seriously in separate Twin City automobile accidents last night.

Four of the injuries occurred about 9 p.m. last night when two cars collided at the intersection of Stella and North 7th Streets in West Monroe.

Silas A. Stephenson, 17, of Ruston, driver of one of the cars was in the St. Francis Hospital suffering from head injuries. His condition could not be determined last night but was believed to be serious, according to attendants.

Raymond McVay, 17, and Billy Lloyd Thompson, 16, both of Choudrant were in the car with Stephenson. They were treated for minor cuts and bruises.

Mrs. Jimmie L. Cartwright, 29, 218 Madison St., West Monroe, driver of the other car was rushed to a private physician. Her condition was not believed to be serious.

Investigating officers said the accident occurred when the car driven by Stephenson apparently ran a stop sign on Stella and crashed into the vehicle driven by Mrs. Cartwright, traveling on North 7th Street.

A Monroe accident last night sent Mrs. Katie Mollie Lawson, 48, 2902 Dick Taylor St., Monroe to a private doctor with minor injuries.

Police said the mishap occurred when the car in which she was riding stopped on Ouachita Street at its South 2nd Street intersection, and a car driven by Luther Gamble, 49, Negro, 510 North 10th St., Monroe, crashed into the rear of the vehicle.

Gamble was charged with following too close. John M. Lawson was driving the car in which Mrs. Lawson was a passenger. Lawson was uninjured.

Sen. Kennedy Takes Slap At Red Boss

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts Saturday night called Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's rocket - rattling in the Cuban crisis a violation of the Monroe Doctrine.

"That's the first real attack on the Monroe Doctrine in the last century," the front-running candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination said in a television interview.

"We have to make clear to Mr. Khrushchev that we are going to preserve the Monroe Doctrine," Kennedy said.

Kennedy's words on the Cuban situation capped a broadcast in which Kennedy and his two top rivals for the nomination were interviewed successively. Kennedy released a tape recording of the interview to newsmen.

Kennedy in a later interview told reporters, as he had said in the televised program, "I think I'm going to be nominated."

But he told the newsmen victory must come early in the balloting or he won't make it. He said he does not subscribe to the theory expressed by some that he must win on either of the first two ballots, or face defeat.

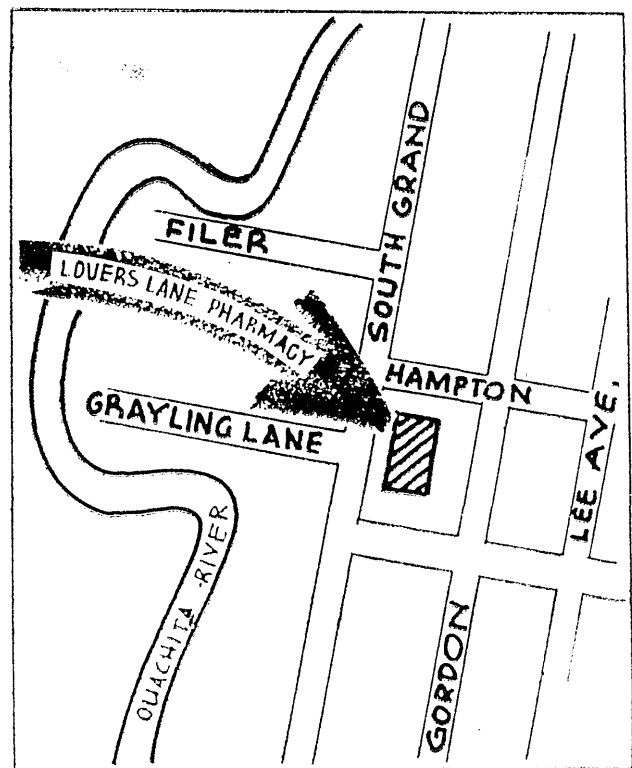

"I never said I must win on the first two ballots," the senator said, "but if I don't have the strength in the early ballots, I'm not going to have the strength."

Kennedy said he expects to poll 600 or more votes on the first ballot, and pick up fast the rest of the 171 votes needed for nomination in the Democratic National Convention here.

Other top candidates also spoke confidently in their separate TV interviews.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, who has strong support from the South, said it this way: "I honestly believe I will win it." He estimated the decision would come on the fourth or fifth ballot.

The third candidate to appear on the NBC television show, "Convention Preview," was Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri. His strategy has been to be the second choice of those who are going for either Kennedy or Johnson, hoping to gain as they lose.

New Mexico Train Wreck Fatal To Five

TUCUMCARI, N. M. (AP)—Five persons were killed and two injured early Saturday when a Rock Island freight train plunged off a rain-weakened trestle and burned 17 miles east of Tucumcari.

A spokesman for the Rock Island in Tucumcari said the five persons were transients. He said there was no immediate identification of the bodies.

The spokesman said the west-bound freight from Amarillo, Tex., was crossing a trestle when the wooden structure gave way into the rain-softened arroyo underneath it.

The engine made it across the wash before derailing, but 17 cars following the single diesel unit tumbled into the arroyo. The cars burst into flame after the derailment.

Injured were the engineer, Bob Hovex, of Amarillo, Tex., and the fireman, who was not identified by the railroad.

Bullets Sprayed At Castro Backer; One Man Injured

HAVANA (AP)—Jose Pardo Liada, a strongly pro-Castro radio and television commentator, escaped unharmed Saturday when his car was sprayed with machine-gun bullets in Havana.

A companion riding with Pardo suffered a neck wound.

First reports said Pardo had been slightly injured but later accounts said that while a bullet pierced his coat he was unharmed. The attack occurred in the heart of the tourist casino belt of Havana's Vedado district. Pardo had just left a radio station after his regular afternoon broadcast. Witnesses said his car had stopped for a traffic light when a speeding auto flashed by and sprayed the commentator's vehicle with bullets.

The attackers' car was said to have disappeared in traffic.

New Orleans 2nd In Safety Contest

NEW ORLEANS, (UPI)—City officials announced Saturday New Orleans has placed second in a national municipal pedestrian safety contest sponsored by the American Automobile Club of America.

The Crescent City was among 16 entries in the 500,000-1,000,000 population class. The AAA reported pedestrian fatalities in New Orleans were reduced from 30 in 1958 to 24 in 1959.

With the award came a commendation from AAA for a local program to prevent pedestrian traffic accidents.

A missile may fail in its mission because a worker on the assembly line let a part drop one inch on a workbench. Tests show those of gravity strike them, and that when instruments fall one-to-three inches, forces up to 20 times as great as the results are sometimes disastrous.

TRANSCO GUARDS MASONRY WALLS AGAINST WATER DAMAGE

The untouched photos above tell the story! Untreated masonry soaks up moisture, much as a sponge soaks up water. The result is costly damage: unsightly white stains on bricks... loosened and cracked bricks and mortar joints... cracked exterior walls... interior dampness... peeling and blistered paint... cracked and chipped plaster... stained and peeling wall paper.

That's why Transco is proving so important to masonry homeowners. Transco penetrates into the masonry wall, coating each tiny particle with an invisible water-repellent film. Water cannot pass through this barrier, but bounces harmlessly off the surface. Just one coat, easily applied with paint brush or common garden sprayer... keeps your home clean and free from stains. Beautiful for years to come!

Funeral services will be held Sunday for Mrs. Alma Bittick, 72, who died at her home in West Monroe Saturday after a brief illness.

Mrs. Bittick, a native of Missouri, had lived in West Monroe for the past 15 years.

The Rev. Earl B. Emmerick will officiate at the services at 2 p.m. Sunday at the First Methodist Church in West Monroe. Burial will be in Mount Carmel Cemetery in Eudora, Ark., under the direction of Catron and Gay Funeral Home in Eudora.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Lela B. Allen, West Monroe; and one grandchild and two great grandchildren.

Palbearers will be Jack Holloway, Bill Andrews, Tommy Morris, Bob Baker, Bob Gatlin, Jamie Lee Wilhite, Jeff Caldwell Jr. and James A. Hobbs.

WIDELY SCATTERED showers and thundershowers are due tomorrow in northern tier of states from western New York through the Great Lakes and upper Mississippi and the Dakotas. Florida will have some showers while there will be thundershowers along the Gulf Coast and in Texas. Little temperature change is expected except for slightly cooler conditions in the northern Rockies. (AP Wirephoto Map)

If Convention Rigged Why All The Work?

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A Democratic wheel, known in his successful election years as a king-maker, looked pensively from his hotel window while a trusted young lieutenant took turns speaking softly into three private telephones.

"If this is a rigged convention," said the king-maker, "Why am I working so hard?"

The trembling indignation of former President Truman's charge that this Democratic nominating convention was "fixed" for Sen. John F. Kennedy (Mass.) seemed to have evaporated in the steamy air of political wheeling and dealing.

Masses of delegates poured into town Saturday and plunged into such political essentials as finding a restaurant with an empty table and testing themselves in fender-crumpling Los Angeles traffic.

There were two main political camps at work—the Kennedy group and the forces of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.). Other organizations labored, too, but on a somewhat smaller scale. These were the advocates of Sen. Stuart Symington (Mo.) and the hard core of zealots who believe Adlai E. Stevenson deserves a third time at bat.

In classic political fashion, the pre-convention skirmishing divided roughly into the two phases of activity, the serious go-for-broke dealings between powerful state leaders backing specific candidates, and the hotel lobby hoopla designed to impress the delegates.

TV crews were busy filming political demonstrations for showing on the air Monday. In the Johnson headquarters, a man leaped to a small stage and said "We need 15 volunteers for a snake dance because we're going on NBC in just a minute."

The Kennedy people across the hall passed the word to stick around because the senator's movie actor brother-in-law Peter Lawford might drop in.

REAL BUSINESS UPSTAIRS

While all this traditional superciliousness of a nominating convention was in raucous swing, the real business was being done upstairs.

Each candidate has a suite of rooms, the outer portion of which is carefully patrolled by energetic men and women who know just who is to be allowed into another room. There sits the candidate, a picture of smiling, jovial confidence.

A few rooms away is the nerve center. This is a suite where the genuine political mechanics labor with their tools—large charts of delegations, batteries of private telephones, gleaming silver pots of coffee and a clutter of badges, pamphlets and windshield stickers on the dresser.

In the inner sanctum are the men who map the battle plans, who must work in comparative obscurity for the moment lest the other side detect their strategy and undertake counter-moves.

In on such nerve center Saturday night, a Johnson strategist was talking patiently about the Truman charge of rigging.

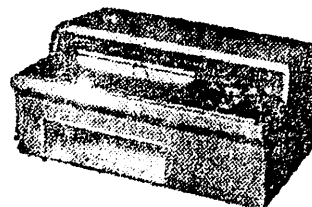

"I dearly love the old man," said the mechanic, "but if he could see the way the Kennedy people are scurrying around, he'd know this thing is far from fixed—yet."

Hunter Accused Of Beating Dog

GLENDAL, Calif. (AP)—Actor Tab Hunter got on the police report Saturday for allegedly beating his dog with a strap for 15 minutes and also for kicking the animal in the midsection and head while holding it by a chain leash.

Sgt. W. J. Chambers said police got into the act because "neighbors got pretty upset about it. One woman called for the police because she was afraid that her husband was about to take on Hunter."

Miss Universe Title Won By Miss U.S.A.

rea, were among those receiving the largest applause during evening gown and bathing suit appearance.

The new Miss Universe became Miss U. S. A. Thursday night and won the right to compete for the worldwide crown. Previous United States winners were Miriam Stevenson of South Carolina in 1954 and Carol Morris of Iowa in 1956.

The new world beauty queen appeared in a white Greek goddess clinging evening gown with a neck train over her shoulder. She wore a strand of pearls in her hair.

In swim suit judging she chose a yellow suit decorated with rhinestones.

Linda plans to attend the University of Utah to study drama. She is a graduate of a finishing and modeling school in Salt Lake City.

The first runner-up is a model in Rome. Daniela entered the contest by winning over 20 finalists in the Italian capital.

She is a green-eyed blonde who was named Miss Photogenic of the Miss Universe pageant.

The second runner-up, from Vienna, a bouncy 5 foot 8 music student, blew kisses to the audience during earlier judging but played it straight Saturday night.

Miss Bement stands 5 foot 6 and carries 120 pounds on a curvaceous frame measuring 37-23-36.

Miss Italy measures 38-24-33 and Miss Austria 36 1/2-23-36 1/2.

The show, televised nationally (CBS), was fraught with mix-ups and long delays. Three times the curtain closed on the beauties as they stood on stage. Once, the Austrian entry was left in front of the curtain while the other girls were behind it.

Miss Lizzie Wynn Dies: Rites Incomplete

RAYVILLE (Special) — Mrs. Lizzie Wynn, 88, died at her residence near Rayville early Saturday afternoon after a brief illness.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete, but will be under the direction of First National Funeral Home in Winnsboro. Burial will be at Ford Cemetery near Mangham.

Survivors include four sons, J. W. Wynn and Ben Wynn, both of Rayville, Willie Wynn, Baskin, and Archie Wynn, Compton, Calif., and a number of grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Contributing To Delinquency Of Minor Charged

Two Monroe men were arrested by police in Bernstein park early yesterday morning and charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Albert A. Hernandez, 22, 314 North 4th St., and Harold L. Taylor, 21, 3508 Polk St., reportedly were in the company of a 15-year-old girl when apprehended about 1:30 a.m. Saturday.

Taylor was charged with additional counts of disturbing the peace by being drunk and disorderly and vagrancy.

Their bonds were set at $500 each with their trials scheduled for July 13 in Monroe city court.

Girl To Wed Dead Fiance

FREJUS, France (AP) — A court ruled last week that Irene Jodard can marry her dead fiance, Andre Capra, a concession made previously only to fiancées of soldiers killed in combat. President Charles de Gaulle himself had granted Irene permission to marry. But Capra's grandmother first approved, then disapproved, and the court order overruled family opposition to the wedding. Capra was killed in the Malpasset Dam disaster last November.

MRS. KATHERINE Voronaeff, 73, (L.) is greeted by her daughter, Mrs. Daniel Willis of Cleveland, Ohio, as she arrives in Indianapolis by plane after a flight from Russia. Mrs. Voronaeff had not seen her family for 24 years, but her trip finally was arranged after her sons and daughters discovered two years ago she was still alive in the Soviet Union. (AP Wirephoto)

Missing Car Is Recovered; Negro Charged

A 21-year-old Monroe Negro has been transferred to the Ouachita Parish jail after being arrested in Monroe and accused of taking a car from the parking lot of a West Monroe grocery store.

Jessie James Boyd, who lives at the rear of 1516 Breard St., was apprehended in Monroe late Friday night. The car, belonging to Hays Gentry, owner of Gentry's Grocery in West Monroe, was found abandoned on Adams street in Monroe.

The car was first reported by authorities as having been stolen from Roy Steele, a West Monroe police officer. Monroe police arrested Boyd.

Boyd has been charged with the unauthorized use of movables. Gentry reported to West Monroe authorities that the car had been taken from his lot about 2:30 p.m. Friday. Boyd was arrested the same night, by members of the Monroe police department, upon request from the West Monroe officials.

Arrest Women Following Fight

Two Monroe Negro women were arrested at a local bar late last night following a fight and each were charged with counts of disturbing the peace and simple battery.

Rosie Mary Woodward, 29, 102 Powell Alley and Gertie Lee Bohanna, 29, 113 DeSiard Ave., were arrested about 11 p.m. by Monroe officers.

Both were jailed with their bonds set at $145 each. They are scheduled to appear in Monroe city court July 13.

Machinists' Negotiations Break Down

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Negotiations between striking machinists and Lockheed's Space and Missiles Division broke down Saturday and a federal conciliator called an indefinite recess.

The breakdown on talks to end the 24-day strike came after the International Assn. of Machinists had proposed an arbitration panel headed by Vice President Richard Nixon.

Lockheed made a counter proposal which the union quickly rejected and both sides agreed that a stalemate had been reached.

The strike, which began June 15, idled more than 10,500 employees at six Lockheed plants.

Last week the Department of defense expressed alarm over lack of progress on the Polaris missile because of the strike.

A company spokesman said the negotiations broke down over the union's demands for compulsory union membership or compulsory payment of a service charge by non-union members.

Thomas McNett, speaking for the machinists, said the union rejected the new company proposal and "rejected their method of bargaining."

Man Charged With Theft Of Parish Gas

A 49-year-old Monroe man was in the Ouachita Parish jail yesterday charged with the theft of gasoline from a parish-owned tractor parked on the Swartz Road.

Marshall H. Frith, 49, Route 3, Monroe was reported held with no bond set late yesterday.

Deputies of the Ouachita Parish Sheriff's Department, patrolling the Swartz Road about midnight Friday, reported seeing a car parked beside the highway.

Upon investigation deputies said they found Frith had parked the automobile and was siphoning gasoline from a tractor owned by the parish.

Anniversary Of Monkey To Be Observed July 21

Scopes, the defendant, was all but forgotten in the hullabaloo and has managed to avoid the limelight ever since.

Now a semiretired geologist in Shreveport, La., Scopes spent several years in Venezuela before returning to this country in 1933. Now 60, he has never revisited Dayton since he was fined $100—later reversed by the State Supreme Court as too high. Just as Darrow predicted, he never paid a cent.

Bryan, three-time Democratic candidate for president, secretary of state under Woodrow Wilson and known to millions as "the great commoner," headed a battery of five prosecution lawyers. Bryan College, with an enrollment of 200, stands here today in his honor. Non-denominational, its students become mostly teachers, ministers and missionaries. The college was founded in 1930.

Darrow, probably America's most famous criminal lawyer, was in his familiar role of defense attorney—"for the monkeys." Even before the trial began, it became mostly a popularity contest between Bryan and Darrow. It was also a contest between newspapermen to see who could come up with the most colorful stories. The late H. L. Mencken, author and one-time editor of the American Mercury, easily won the contest with his reports for the Baltimore Sun. But there is considerable question in the minds of Daytonians—whom Mencken spoofed unmercifully as backwoodsmen—about their accuracy and fairness.

The trial is the basis for a play and a movie, "Inherit the Wind," which closely follow the trial transcript and street scenes. Only the names have been changed.

How did it begin? and, as the S. Louis Post-Dispatch asked editorially at the time, "Why Dayton of all places?"

Time has a way of blurring exact details, but most people in Dayton agree with the story as recalled by F. R. Rogers, a Dayton druggist who in 1925 was a pharmacist in Robinson's drugstore. It was at Rogers' house, incidentally, where Bryan lived during the trial—and where he died after preaching a Sunday sermon at a nearby church.

It seems that George Rappleyea, a Dayton civil engineer, read that the American Civil Liberties Union would finance the defense for any teacher willing to test Tennessee's antievolution law—largely ignored today, though still on the books. Since Scopes as Rhea County High School science teacher seemed the logical Daytonian for such a test, Rappleyea went looking for him.

"He didn't even know Scopes," Rogers says. "He came in Robinson's and asked if that fellow Scopes was around." He found him and the story goes that the test case was decided on right there in Robinson's drugstore.

The store since has moved to a new location, taking along a table which has this sign under glass: "At this table, the Scopes evolution case was started May 5, 1925."

Thirty-five years later, Dayton itself is much like that table—just about the same as when the circus came to town.

The three living Scopes jurors, Jess Goodrich, Walter G. Taylor and Bowman, all live within a few miles of the courthouse. Taylor is in ill health, but Goodrich and Bowman got together the other day to recall the trial—their first such meeting in 35 years, despite being virtual neighbors.

In Dayton a mile is still a mile and distances are measured in terms of "over the next ridge" or "over in the next hollow."

"You know how I got on the jury?" asked Goodrich, now 80. "One day my boss asked me if I wanted to see that trial—he thought they were going to sell tickets. I said 'yes' and went on up. But I wound up on the jury, and I didn't get to hear much at all."

So Darrow and Bryant could argue without restraint, the jury was sent repeatedly from the courtroom during the 11-day trial—three days of it on the courthouse lawn, partly because of the heat and partly for fear the crowds would cause the courtroom floor to collapse.

If the trial were tomorrow, what about the outcome?

"Scopes pleaded guilty," Goodrich said. "There wasn't anything else we could do but find him guilty."

Dayton still doesn't think much of evolution. The movie, "Inherit the Wind," will be previewed here July 21—35 years to the day after Scopes' conviction.

"I hear the play and the movie make fun of Mr. Bryan," Goodrich says. "That won't go over very big here."

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Cary Grant didn't have to ship his custom-built Rolls Royce auto to London when he flew there to begin work in a new film, "The Grass is Greener." Cary keeps a second Rolls in London for just such "emergencies."

NOVEL ADAPTATION NEW YORK (AP) — "The Straight and Narrow Path," a new drama scheduled for Broadway premiere in the fall, is the stage version of the humorous novel of the same name by Honor Tracy.

The story concerns the troubles that spring up when an anthropologist attempts to analyze the local Irish villagers in the same way he had done with African natives.

IN RED WARNING

Sen. Johnson Supports Ike

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson and other Democratic leaders voiced strong support Saturday for President Eisenhower's warning against Communist expansion in the Western hemisphere. "It is obvious the United States cannot back down in the face of Premier (Nikita S.) Khrushchev's crude threats," Johnson said. "Mr. Khrushchev seems determined to disrupt the peace of the world under any and all circumstances. It is evident that the United States has been more than patient in the face of continued aggressive provocation... to accuse the United States of aggression."

the presidential nomination, described the Russian leader's to use rockets against the U.S. if it interferes in Cuba as the "rocket and missile diplomacy of Mr. Khrushchev."

"I would suggest," Humphrey said, "that we not be moved or panicked by these threats, but more importantly we must re-examine our policies."

Former New York Gov. Averell Harriman agreed with the President's stand that the U.S. should not allow communist expansion into the western hemisphere. He said Khrushchev's threats were "typical of the increased boastfulness" of the Soviet leader. "He's rattling the saber—rattling the hydrogen bomb—trying to intimidate the world."

Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, a candidate for the Democratic's No. 1 position and a former Air Force Secretary, told a news conference Khrushchev had "merely confirmed what I have been saying for many years." He called the threats "diplomatic blackmail."

Negro Woman Dies In Wreck At Alexandria

ALEXANDRIA, (Special) — A head-on collision between two cars killed a 44-year-old Alexandria Negro woman and injured two Negro's here early Saturday. Chief of Police Stafford Riche identified the dead woman as Lottie Williams. He said she died in a local hospital about five hours after the wreck which occurred at 2 a.m. on a residential street.

Injured in the wreck were the drivers of the two cars. Riche said they were Joe Price, who was hospitalized with severe cuts and bruises, and Willie McMillon who had his arm broken in four places. Both drivers were charged with reckless driving and Riche

Installation Of Officers Is Held

Five new officers were installed at the installation banquet Thursday night of the Stonewall Lodge No. 6, Knights of Pythias, which was held at Castle Hall.

A new fifty-star American flag was presented to the lodge by Chancellor Commander Angelos Kanelos.

Officers that were installed include Angelo Kanelos, chancellor commander; Joe Dietrich, vice chancellor commander; Harlan Prestidge, prelate; Louis Bernhardt, master of arms; A. Milling Bernstein, outer guard.

Other charges would grow out of the woman's death.

The Williams woman was a passenger in the car driven by Price. She suffered head injuries in the head-on crash that completely demolished both cars.

This was the first traffic fatality within the city since February and the third for 1960.

Surprising Facts On Pocket Gophers

BERKELEY, Calif (AP)—Some little-known and surprising facts about the pocket gopher have come to light in the report of a research team which spent five years trapping, marking and re-trapping several hundred of these animals.

On a small study plot in the foothills of the California Sierra, the researchers caught 330 little rodents 1,798 times.

From this they learned the size and shapes of the burrows and a host of facts about gopher life. The research leaders, Walter E. Howard and Henry E. Childs, reported their work in Hilgardia, a prime target for predators such as barn owls, hawks, cats and snakes.

Gopher snakes are something less than terrific when it comes to doing the thing they're popularly supposed to do. One gopher snake was caught alive in a trap along with a female gopher. The snake was worse off than the gopher.

Even a rattlesnake didn't make much of an impression. In a burrow that was fixed up with a glass side for observation, an undaunted gopher was seen trying to intimidate a rattlesnake that was passing through. The gopher pushed dirt at the snake. Neither got hurt.

Snakes may eat helpless young gophers, but a burrow is too continuing to permit a snake to strike at its prey, the researchers said.

The pocket gopher gets the first part of his name from a pair of fur-lined pouches on either cheek, used for carrying food and nesting material, never for dirt hauling.

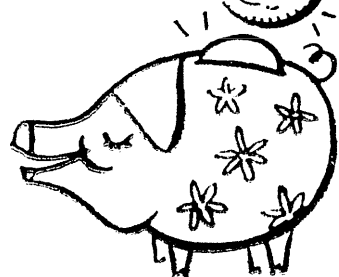

He has four remarkable front teeth for digging, and can use them with his mouth shut, because they are outside his lips. The teeth grow at the rate of nine to 14 inches a year but he keeps them down to size by liberal use.

Except in the mating period the gopher's external sex organs, both male and female, are retracted, presumably for protection while moving backward in a burrow.

Trapped gophers were marked by a system of toe trimming. Every time a rodent was caught, he lost some fraction of one toe or another. By keeping track of the various locations in which a gopher was caught, the researchers could establish markings on the ground surface which would outline the animal's underground burrow system.

A burrow map of the study plot looks like a crazy quilt. Rarely does one gopher's territory intrude into another's. In the few places where there were small overlaps they probably represented areas that were only loosely defended or might have been neutral zones, the researchers said.

The average adult male's territory represented a surface area of 2,200 square feet, the female's 1,300 square feet. Sometimes the burrow system of a male surrounded that of a female, but in the main the rodents kept to themselves.

Of Forefathers

Words In Stone Are Reminder

By EDITH JEAN HASSELL

WINNSBORO — "Gone, but not forgotten."

These words carved in stone, are almost all that remain to remind passersby of their forefathers who cleared and settled the little ridge community in lower Franklin Parish, which in its early history was known as Oakley.

It is located approximately five miles southeast of Gilbert. Through neglect, this once proud and cherished site of Oakley Cemetery has almost returned to the wilderness.

SIGNED DEED

On April 7, 1838, Rachel Ensminger signed a deed to 40 acres of land, which earlier had been conveyed by the late David Ensminger to the Methodist Episcopal Church of Deer Creek and Bayou Mason.

The deed is on file in the Catahoula Parish court house at Harrisonburg, where it has been kept since its signing. At that time there was no Franklin Parish, and the designated area was located in Catahoula Parish. In 1843 Franklin Parish came into being, but the deed has never been transferred to the Franklin courthouse.

The name and location of the church have long since been changed. It has become the Gilbert Methodist Church and is located in Gilbert. The original church building still stands, worn by numerous repairs, on the little hill facing the cemetery ridge. Though abandoned, it seems to be standing watch over those who once knelt in humble worship within its walls.

DEDICATED

Old Oakley cemetery, however, remains dedicated, and furnishes a resting place now, just as it did more than a century ago, for those dearly departed. Anyone desiring a plot in this cemetery need only choose one which pleases him most. Lots are not now, and have never been, sold.

Due to this fact there has never been any way or means of upkeep, and its appearance over the years has declined. At a glance one would hardly cite Oakley as being one of the largest cemeteries in Franklin parish. Many of the lots are beautifully kept and well-attended, but at least three times as many are completely unidentified.

Due to weather conditions a great deal of damage has been done to many of the graves, even those covered with concrete and vaulted by bricks. The tragedy is that some never had concrete nor even a marker to show that they ever possessed any identity at all. The sad, but not surprising fact, is that the majority of these graves are those of children. What appeared to be the oldest stone, still legible, was that of a child, Samuel Savage Norris, who died August 3, 1858 at the age of eleven years and seven months.

Of course, there are numerous graves older, even, than this, but this weather-worn, age-worn marker serves as a reminder of the others.

If the link between past and present was ever in evidence, it is at Oakley Cemetery. Less than 10 yards from a century-old grave there is a fresh one.

There must be at least one grave for every year of the past century. Time has left its mark, and these marks, combined, are an indisputable record of history. A stone marking the grave of Benjamin Nicholas is dated September 7, 1880. Another line noted that he was not buried in the soil of his birth, but that he was born in Wales. He, like many others, was far away from home and most of his family.

FAMILIAR NAMES

Numerous familiar names of families who have contributed to and left their mark on Franklin parish with their toil and leadership are seen. A few of the many still heard, and long-honored names are Ellerbe, Ezell, Lee, Segrest, Weatherly, Gilbert, Cotton, Thornburg, Norwood, Howell, Mahoney, and Kiper. Here also, is the final resting place of the parents of the late General Claire Chennault, of Flying Tiger fame in World War Two.

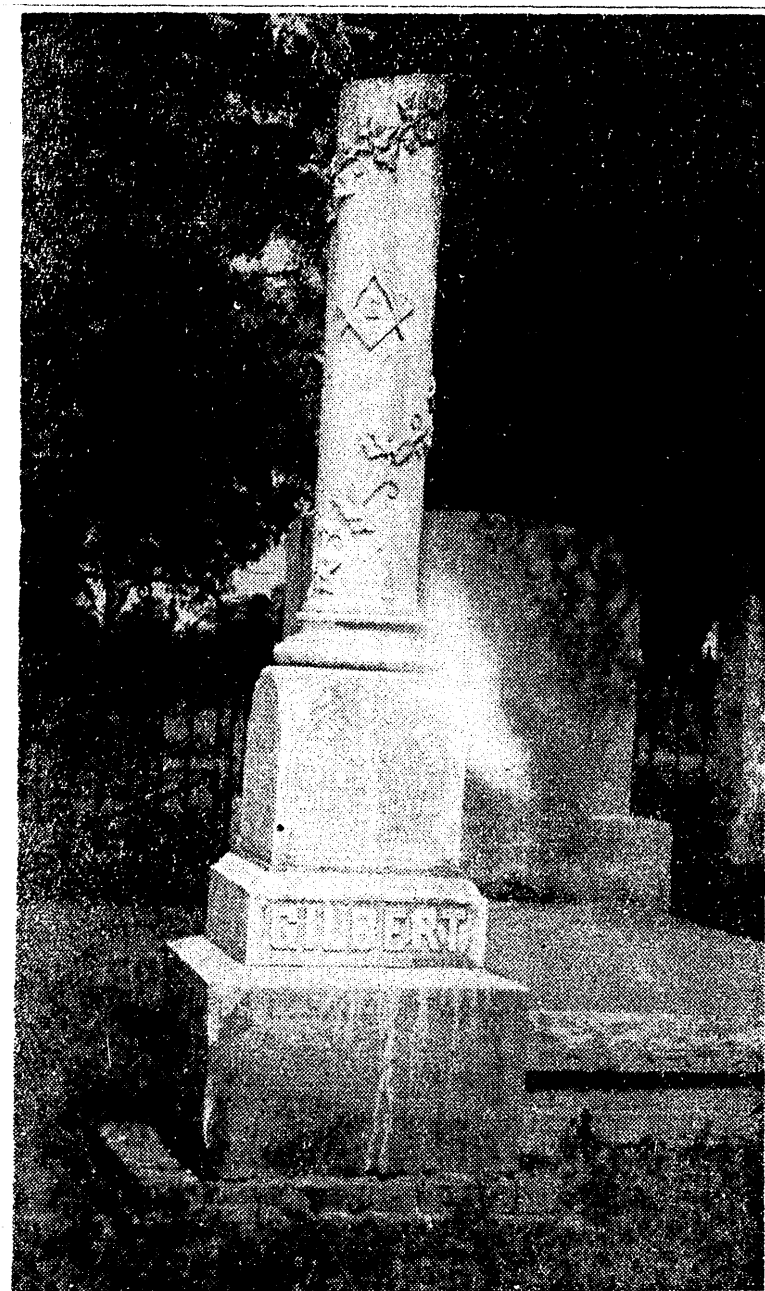

One of the more recent graves is that of John Stonewall Chennault, who was born in 1882 and died in 1942. Near him is his wife, Jessie Lee. Beside the mother's grave is a vacant plot, the place where Claire had always expressed a great desire to be buried. The great general's wish was not fulfilled, for he was put in a place of honor, Arlington National Cemetery.

Until recently some might think that the cemetery had been abandoned. No caretaker could be hired because no funds could be provided by selling lots. Some lots are kept well, but some represent the other extreme. Overcome by weeds and entangled in honey-suckle, many of the graves are completely concealed.

Through the commendable efforts of the newly organized Oakley Cemetery Association, under the direction of Mayor Jack McKee of Gilbert, chairman, a program for perpetual care of the cemetery has been launched.

The program consists of contact with all who in some way are associated with the cemetery, and requests for help.

Enough interest has been noted to make possible the hiring of a caretaker. Dan Robinson, who has been mowing and cleaning the cemetery for several weeks, says that many graves have been recovered from the undergrowth, but there is much to be done.

The World Endorses Joe Waggonner To State Education Board

The World endorses J. D. (Joe) Waggonner, Jr. of Plain Dealing, member and past President of the Bossier Parish School Board, for nomination to the State Board of Education from the Third Public Service Commission District in the Democratic Primary July 23, a week from next Saturday.

Mr. Waggonner is running for the "at large" post from this District, which embraces the Fourth, Fifth and Eighth Congressional Districts—28 parishes in all. He is not running in opposition to present State Board of Education members from these individual Congressional Districts—Bob Curry of Shreveport, George Madison of Bastrop and F. E. Cole of Many. None of them is up for re-election this year.

Mr. Waggonner's career in the field of education has been marked by a vigorous aggressiveness that has caught the attention of some of Louisiana's best educators, locally and statewide. In some ways it has been meteoric.

As both President and member of the Bossier Parish School Board, his leadership in lifting the Parish public school system steadily upward has been praised by people throughout the 28 parishes of North Louisiana. Statewide recognition came in his election as first Vice President of the Louisiana School Boards Association, a post he now holds. He is that organization's state representative on the United School Committee, which includes delegates from all statewide professional education organizations in Louisiana.

Mr. Waggonner would take to the State Board of Education an outlook on education that has matured through his own tireless efforts in important school posts and activities, supported by the vigor and aggressiveness of a man of 41. Few if any School Board members anywhere in the state are more sincerely dedicated to the cause of good education.

As a graduate of Louisiana Tech and Plain Dealing High School, he knows the needs and problems of education over the whole span from the grades through college—the field over which the State Board of Education holds constitutional jurisdiction. He is equally interested in Northeast Louisiana State College at Monroe and Northwestern at Natchitoches—along with his natural interest in Tech as one of its alumni. He believes that individually and collectively these schools should be outranked by no other colleges in or out of Louisiana.

Mr. Waggonner's demonstrated discernment and fairness in his approach to educational issues, both in his own parish and statewide, are promise that he would serve all three colleges—as well as the public school systems—with fairness and understanding.

On basic problems of education

World Mosquito War

Worldwide war has been declared on the miserable, maligned mosquito and we hope he eventually will become scarcer than whooping cranes and dodo birds.

While we slap and scratch at the mosquitoes that still survive our attacks in the swamps of Louisiana and adjoining states, the World Health Organization, employing all the manpower, money and scientific knowledge that can be mustered, has launched an all-out campaign against the pest.

The aim is to liberate 1.2 billion people who now live under constant threat of malaria, the fever that has been the curse of tropical climates since the beginning of time. Malaria yearly saps the strength of millions of victims, robs them of initiative and makes them vulnerable to more deadly diseases if it does not itself take their lives. It is blamed for 10 to 15 per cent of infant mortality where it is prevalent.

The economic loss caused by malaria is enormous. In Afghanistan, a poor country at best, malaria is estimated to have caused a $20 million dollar yearly loss of earnings. India's loss has been estimated at $500 million and 50 million people in India are down sick with the disease every year.

Mr. Waggonner is a solid segregationist in every way. He is not a "moderate" who professes segregation but is willing to take integration. He contends that segregation is right both morally and legally. The State Board may soon need all of the strength it can get in this field.

The State Board of Education holds policy control over education in Louisiana from its colleges on down through high schools, trade schools, vocational and special instruction, into the grade schools—white and Negro. It is a constitutional body, elected by the people. Eight of its 11 members are elected from the eight Congressional Districts and three from the three Public Service Districts. There is no Board in the state with jurisdiction over so much of Louisiana's education.

Mr. Waggonner is qualified for the post he seeks by his record as a businessman—he has his own wholesale petroleum products business—and as a leader in his own part of Louisiana; by his education, and by his successful efforts in behalf of good education at all levels. He has shown himself to be a man with the practical approach of seeking to make education work rather than with theoretical ideas of remaking the educational world.

The World believes that education generally in Louisiana, and especially in the 28 parishes, would benefit from first grade through college by election of Joe Waggonner to the State Board post he seeks through the July 23 Democratic Primary.

Still Just One

GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Nominating Cost Too High

Men Like Abraham Lincoln Or Woodrow Wilson Would Face Real Difficulties In Becoming Choices

When Harry Truman speaks of the "special interests," he employs a term normal in American traditions. When he uses the phrase "a party of privilege," he means the same thing. It is the concept not of the superiority of the mass over the skilled, but rather the Jeffersonian concept of the equality of man in the eyes of the law and of God. It is this view which produced Populism in the broad Missouri-Kansas area that also produced Harry Truman.

Strictly on moral grounds, Harry Truman made his protest against a "bought" Democratic convention. Although Truman made it clear that his opposition was primarily aimed at John Kennedy and Adlai Stevenson, he was indicting the system of primaries and of conventions which choose the candidates of either party. The expenses for these operations are enormous. The poor man who goes into this thing must become dependent on all sorts of persons and influences. Naturally, John Kennedy has large sums to expend; his father earned the money. Nelson Rockefeller also has tremendous sums to use; his grandfather earned it. But Rockefeller is inexperienced politically and too stubborn, so that the money did not help him. Hubert Humphrey ran out of money. Richard Nixon is a poor man and a campaign fund had to be raised, but as he is his party's sole candidate, not too much has been required.

In a word, the cost of getting nominated is so high that only those who are themselves rich or who can raise enormous amounts of money have any chance at all. Men like Abraham Lincoln or Woodrow Wilson would face real difficulties today.

Truman said:

"The future usefulness of the party and the restoration of direction and leadership to the nation are of such paramount importance that I am impelled to disregard the pleadings of some of my friends to remain silent about the situation that has developed. They have urged me not to do anything to upset or offend anyone by speaking up now."

Those who proposed that Harry Truman remain quiet apparently do not understand the moral character of the man. They fail to recognize that when Harry Truman was elected by the people in 1948, his personality underwent a sharp change. He was no longer an accident. He was no longer the vice president who was cleared by Sidney Hillman. He was no longer the piano player with Lauren Bacall on the lid of the piano. He was chosen by the people after a tough campaign in which he appealed directly to the people against the "special interests." He had defeated Tom Dewey who to him represented the special interests. It was a moral victory for a moral man. He developed qualities heretofore not obvious.

This has to be understood in relationship to Harry Truman's opposition to John Kennedy, whom he does not like as a man although he pretends to. But apart from any personal likings, Truman resents the blitz, the attempt to arrange matters that there will be no balloting at the convention—no realistic balloting.

His apostrophe to Kennedy is an amazing statement:

"Senator, are you certain that you're quite ready for the country or the country is ready for you in the role of president in January, 1961?"

It will be used during the campaign, should Kennedy be nominated, by the Republicans. It cannot be withdrawn. The questions it raises cannot be ignored. The answers given by Senator Kennedy were impressive but they did not remove the sting of Truman's question.

Whether this comes too late to affect Kennedy's fortunes at the Democratic convention, we shall only know after the convention, but that it will cut deeply in the vote on Election Day is beyond doubt.

Harry Truman has developed into a surprising personality. He is broad. He is understanding. He is outspoken. He is uncompromising. He gains in popularity every day, particularly among his former enemies, the conservative Republicans who do not quite know what to do. They find in Harry Truman's directness, a satisfaction which they do not get from any Republican leadership. Strange things do happen during campaigns and the strangest would be if a distressed electorate found that a new party grew away from the opportunism and conveniences of the two existing parties.

CHARLES O. GRIDLEY

Nixon 'Poorer'

Kennedy, Johnson, Symington Wealthier Than Republican

Democratic leaders have become almost ritualistic in asserting that "Any Democrat can beat Nixon." Whether that's true or false must await November, but some seasoned operators of that party are beginning to hedge.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon has been a whipping boy for the opposition ever since he was elected to the second highest office, partly because President Eisenhower's lack of political background and consistent popularity has made it difficult to draw a bead on him.

This has built up a legendary unpopularity for Nixon, unverifiable because he has never headed the ticket for national office, but nevertheless a topic of intermittent discussion, with some Republicans convinced that it imperils his chances of election. Now that prospect is further clouded by Democratic attacks on U.S. foreign policy, as exemplified by the U-2 incident and the Tokyo tiaso.

Even some of Nixon's supporters concede that the President has left him in a tough spot, shouldering Republican responsibility on issues which the Democrats, regardless of whom they nominate, expect to be able to capitalize in the three months before November.

Somewhere along the route the Democrats set up a standing joke about "the new Nixon", at which Adlai Stevenson laughed heartily in 1956. But time worn as it is, there's now a new aspect to the old joke. From this year's political development, many voters are taking a fresh view of the Vice President, since he swapped verbal punches with Nikita Khrushchev on the latter's own grounds in Moscow. If the popular impression which the people at home obtained then is lasting, the idea that anybody can beat Nixon may come back to mock the ritualists before the campaign is far advanced.

One very clearly defined issue in the presidential campaign will be that of the free spenders versus those who oppose further increase in the public debt, commonly called the budget balancers. There have already been intimations from Democratic quarters — Senators Kennedy and Senator Symington to be explicit — that defense needs must be met even if they require an increase in federal taxes. But nobody expects either senator, nor any other possible Democratic nominee, to mention a tax increase during the campaign.

Nixon enters the presidential contest, with an advantage obtained from 14 years of federal government service, including six months of administrative service during World War II; six years in Congress and eight years as Vice President. That is a more diversified, but not a longer record of government service than his potential Democratic presidential opponent Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, who has been in Congress 14 years, and shorter than that of Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas who has been in Congress for 23 years.

He can also be the "poor man's candidate" because, regardless of whom the Democrats nominate, he will be less well off in this world's goods than any. This is a reversal of form. For most of the past 32 years, the Republican candidate has been the richer. But this time, Senators Kennedy, Johnson, Symington and former Governor Stevenson are all wealthier than Nixon, who owes at least $15,000 on his home in Washington.

BASCOM TIMMONS

Collins Looms

Butler May Groom Him For Vice-Presidential Nomination

Governor Leroy Collins of Florida, who is to be Permanent Chairman of the Democratic National Convention at Los Angeles next week, continues to be a much discussed man.

Governor Collins realizes this and has taken advantage of newspaper, radio and television interviews to express his belief that he will be able to handle a convention which could develop into a very turbulent affair.

It is the first time in this century at least that the Democrats have met under such widespread charges of "rigged," "mockery," "controlled," "packed," "free-out," "fixed" and all other synonyms and near-synonyms have been applied.

The charges were, of course, leveled against National Chairman Paul M. Butler of the Democratic National Committee and Butler's alleged rubber-stamp Arrangements Committee which made the selections.

One of the very first outcroppings of the discontent concerned the selection of Governor Collins. At that time there were four men who were given an excellent chance of becoming the Democratic standard bearer: Kennedy, Johnson, Stevenson and Symington.

Butler, a Kennedy supporter, and his committee chose Collins without consultation with Johnson, Stevenson or Symington. Whether he consulted with Kennedy has never been made known. But Collins has been about the only man from the South mentioned as a Vice Presidential running mate for Kennedy should he be nominated for President and it seemed advisable for the Democrats to go to Dixie for the Vice Presidential candidate, as they have done in five out of the last eight elections.

No one is suggesting that Governor Collins intends to be other than fair. And, if that is a consideration, his Vice Presidential chances would be enhanced if he performed his chairmanship duties in a manner to win the admiration of delegates from all sections of the country. (Horatio Seymour once presided so skillfully over a Democratic National Convention that it nominated him for President to break a deadlock.)

The temporary Chairman's greatest power is the power of recognition. With a half hundred delegates clamoring for recognition at the same time he can see and recognize the one he wants to recognize. If he gets into parliamentary tangles there is an expert parliamentarian to help him there.

But all Permanent Chairmen in this century have been expert parliamentarians themselves. Perhaps a greater requisite is that the Permanent Chairman be a nationally known figure and have the respect of all delegates at the outset. Collins might quickly win that, but he does not start out with it. Whatever his talents, they are unknown.

The Democrats have had nine different permanent chairmen in their fifteen conventions in this century. The erudite Representative James D. Richardson, of Tennessee, who served in 1900, was twice his party's candidate for Speaker of the House of Representatives, and was regarded as one of the two or three best parliamentarians of his time.

All of Richardson's successors have been members of the Senate or House in Washington, and were men whose daily business required great parliamentary skill. They have included Champ Clark of Missouri, Speaker of the House; Henry D. Clayton of Alabama, author of the anti-trust law; Senator Ollie M. James of Kentucky, twice; Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas and Speaker Sam Tamm, three times each; Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, twice and Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, and Sam D. Jackson of Indiana, once each.

No convention chairman ever had to call his shots with more skill than did James at Baltimore in 1912 in the historic 46-ballot knock-down-and-dragon fight between Woodrow Wilson and Champ Clark.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh presided over the 103-ballot, 17-day session at Madison Square Garden in 1924 and again at Chicago in 1932. Only the great respect in which Walsh, the chief exposé of the Teapot Dome scandal, was held prevented riots at both places.

Walsh's great New York test came in the fight over a religious plank in the platform. The issue was whether the Ku Klux Klan should be mentioned by name. There was a State by State roll call, with challenges of the accuracy of State announcements, really was a call of the names of the more than 1000 delegates.

Challenges of accuracy, attempted appeals from the decision of the chair, errors in additions in delegations and various boo-boos kept the convention in constant disorder, with boos, hisses and jeers, almost continuous. There never was a closer result in a convention. By a vote of 543 to 201 to 512 7/20ths the convention refused to name the Klan.

When a near riot followed the announcement by William Gibbs McAdoo of the change of the Texas and California delegations from Garner to Roosevelt at Chicago in 1932, Walsh whose habit was to point his gavel at the audience rather than pounding it, stopped the prolonged booing and said:

"I appeal to the Mayor of Chicago and the citizens thereof. If he or they have any regard whatever for the honor of the city, he will silence this disturbance in the gallery."

"The Mayor of Chicago," Walsh suddenly said. He had recognized and put the spot a man who had no desire to be recognized. But Mayor A. J. Cermack, who was later killed by the bullet of an assassin which had been intended for Franklin D. Roosevelt, did plead with the galleries for order.

Collins may not have any such ordeals at Los Angeles, but if bitterness continues to rise, he could have.

HOLMES ALEXANDER

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson Needs Protection From Friends

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Like a lot of statesmen before him, Senator Lyndon Johnson can handle his enemies — but he needs protection from his friends.

The Tall Texan was saying something like this to me a couple of months ago, when it was a general observation and did not pertain to his "failure" to end the Congressional session before the nominating conventions.

Johnson's mild complaint — addressed to the strange ways of life rather than to any particular instance — was that his friends and admirers who hailed him as the master parliamentarian and Peerless Leader of the Senate were building him too big. Babe Ruth didn't always hit homers; Man o' War finished second once to a horse named Upset. Even LBJ can't make the legislative mills grind faster than they are geared to go.

This much is obvious, and Johnson's admirers understand it, but his detractors are gloating because the Majority Leader comes to the Democratic Convention with unfinished business at Washington. Such, however, is the public justice built into the Wheel of Fortune that Johnson may still benefit from what at first appeared to be a disaster.

First, the fact that Congress must return in August against its will is sure proof that the session wasn't "fixed." If there were any plausible way for the lawmakers to have called off work, they would have authorized their House and Senate leaders to do so. In particular, the August resumption proves that the Senate is "unbossed," and this could be a valuable exonerator for Johnson.

His worst enemies never said that Johnson didn't know how to run the Senate. They said that he ran it too hard — was a dictator, a czar. This was substantially the charge which Senator Proxmire once tried with conspicuous unsuccess to bring against his Majority Leader — and now the charge falls to the ground of its own invalidity. If LBJ could have bossed the Senate into a June or July adjournment, he'd have done it.

Second, this 1960 session was one of Johnson's really good sessions — better than 1959 and 1958 in this observer's opinion. It should be remembered that Johnson himself brought up the Civil Rights bill last February by amending an obscure local measure. He did what he felt honorable to do, although the deed cost him much Southern support and gained him nothing among Northern Liberals.

Johnson supervised the six-week Civil Rights debate in which 100 roll-calls were made, amendments written on thin paper and weighing five pounds were submitted, and every avenue of reasoned enactment was openly explored. It also needs to be recalled that Johnson, anticipating this long debate, hustled four major pieces of well-considered legislation through the Session in January and early February. They were: Schoolhouse Construction, Clean Elections, Constitutional Amendments On Anti-Poll Tax and limited suffrage for the District of Columbia.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION Could Be Rowdy One

Editor's Note—No other political drama matches a national convention. To help you enjoy the Democratic show starting Monday AP writer Arthur Edson—who first hit the convention circuit in 1948—gives you a rundown on the cast.

By ARTHUR EDSON
LOS ANGELES (AP)—If it's a rowdy, rowdy political convention you're after, this could be it.

Monday the Democrats move into the new Sports Arena—it looks something like a monstrous, sky-blue flying saucer at rest—to pick the man they think should be the next President of the United States.

Not since 1952 have the prospects for excitement looked so good.

That was the year of the great turbulence, when the Democrats chose Adlai Stevenson and the Republicans came up with a promising political rookie, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Both conventions were honeys. Millions who watched television, and saw politics on the grand scale for the first time, became convinced they all were like this.

This convention may renew their faith.
Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) the front runner, has been hoping along impressively. His coaches insist he will win in a breeze. But you may notice that Kennedy keeps looking back nervously to see if anyone is gaining on him.

The big questions to be settled here are: Can anyone catch Kennedy? If so, who?

To help you understand what the shouting is all about, let's take a quick look at some of the characters you'll be seeing, hearing and reading about the next week.

The first official voice you'll hear will belong to Paul Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee. He will call the convention to order.

Butler, at 55, stays as slim as a debutante, dresses impeccably. He neither drinks nor smokes, possibly because he has to watch his health. He's a diabetic, but he whips right along, fully charged with insulin.

Theoretically, a national chairman is all things to all party men. Butler says what he thinks, and though his views—he's for strong civil rights, for example—often cause his fellow Democrats to cringe in horror, he's been national chairman since January 1954.

That's astonishing durability in this risky business.
The chore of getting the convention off to a whirlwind start falls on the slender shoulders of what must be the youngest looking senator in our history, Frank Church of Idaho. As temporary chairman, he will make the key speeches.

Only three senators look office at a more boyish age than Church. He was 32 when he was sworn in three years ago. But he looked much younger.

They laughed when Church was mistaken for a Senator page boy, but the jester turned to applause after he stood up to speak.

As a 16-year-old schoolboy, Church tore into a speech, "The American Way of Life," so effectively that he won the national American Legion contest—and a $4,000 college scholarship.

The permanent chairman of the convention, who yields tremendous power simply by trembling whom to recognize, and when, will be Gov. LeRoy Collins of Florida.

It will be a shock to see Collins as the gavel-pounding. This hand, some, graying, tall 51-year-old could never be confused with Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas. Rayburn, bald, short, stern, fair—at 78 a man of tremendous dignity—had held this job so long many believed he was the permanent chairman.

This year Rayburn stepped aside to manage the presidential campaign for one of his boys, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson.

And now, the candidates.
Since Kennedy is in front, let's start with him.

No man in our history has run for the presidency as relentlessly and perhaps as skillfully as Kennedy.

Modern inventions, and the Kennedy millions, have made this possible.

With his own plane, Kennedy has been able to travel enormous distances and still keep up some semblance of holding down a job as senator.

At 43, Kennedy has such a youthful grin and such tremendous charm that it's easy to forget that this nice young man knows where he wants to go and is determined to get there.

Long ago Kennedy made a prediction.

"I may not win (the nomination)," he said, "but if I'm beaten, the winner will know he's been through the fight of his life."

Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri has the most nerve-tangling position of the candidates.

His plan seems to be to hang on and circulate and hope. As other candidates fade, his delegates will have to turn somewhere.

And what better final resting place than with Symington, who, at 59, had had more executive experience than all other candidates combined?

Like all candidates, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas loves words with which no one can quarrel. "I'm for responsible leadership," he will say belligerently.

But it's true that while other senators were out trying to tease good marks out of the voters, Johnson as Senate majority leader was tending the senatorial store.

Johnson, 51, big, persuasive, hard driving, has many things going against him. Some liberals say he doesn't show enough enthusiasm for pushing their products; some conservatives hint he's not steady enough at holding the line. Any leader of a mixed crew like the senatorial Democrats is bound to have some problems.

But if this convention reaches a time when a small group of men sit down to decide what's to be done, never underestimate the political power of Lyndon B. Johnson and Sam Rayburn.

Sometimes it seems that Adlai Stevenson, like Shirley Temple, has made a career of being coy. Every time one looks up, someone is debating that good issue, is he or isn't he, a candidate?

Few politicians have had such a remarkable record.

It's hard to remember that Stevenson never ran for office until 1948, when he was elected governor of Illinois. Now he has a worldwide reputation, yet that's the only elective office he has ever held.

He's back again as a maybe so, maybe no candidate. His followers, faithful as ever, believe that at the first hint of a deadlock, Democrats will turn to Stevenson for a third time.

There will be many dark horsees: Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Sen. George A. Smathers of Florida, Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California, Gov. George Docking of Kansas, Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, Rep. Chester Bowles of Connecticut, among others.

T-V WEEKLY OUTLOOK

Democrats Shares Net With Baseball

By JACK GAVNER
NEW YORK (UPI)—The Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles and two All-Star baseball games enliven network programming next week.

Monday through Friday, the convention will knock most of the three networks' regular evening shows off the air.

Details July 10-16:
SUNDAY

Paul Butler, Democratic national chairman, is the guest on ABC's "College News Conference."

Adlai E. Stevenson appears on the CBS "Face the Nation."

NBC's "Meet the Press" will run an hour instead of the usual 30 minutes to accommodate questioning of various Democratic presidential aspirants.

ABC news commentators will interview several prominent figures on the Democratic convention scene in "These Are the Men."

The "Maverick" repeat on ABC's "Maverick Springs."

Headliners for Ed Sullivan on his CBS hour include comedian Red Buttons, singers Julie Wilson and Georgia Gibbs, Rowan and Martin and Senor Wences.

ABC's "The Alaskans" repeats "The Long Pursuit."

MONDAY
"Video Village," the new game show which already has started its once-a-week evening career on CBS, begins a run on the network as a Monday-through-Friday fixture. Two players are moved around on a huge game-board set the spin of a dial to win modest cash and merchandise prizes.

NBC presents the 23rd All-Star baseball game from Kansas City, Mo., on both the TV and radio networks.

The three networks air the opening session of the Democratic convention. This is an organizational session, with the keynote speech being delivered by U. S. Sen. Frank Church of Idaho.

TUESDAY
The networks begin coverage of the convention at 7 p.m. A platform committee report is one of the things on the agenda, and it will be made by U. S. Rep. Chester Bowles of Connecticut.

WEDNESDAY
The week's second All-Star baseball game will come from New York via NBC. This will be the first time that one of these classics has been telecast in color.

Nominating speeches for President and balloting are expected to begin at the Los Angeles convention, which the networks will put on the air at 6 p.m.

THURSDAY
The convention continues at 6 p.m. with emphasis on vice-presidential nominations and balloting provided the presidential matter has been settled.

FRIDAY
The "Walt Disney Presents" repeat on ABC is "Desperado from Tombstone."

The "Rawhide" repeats "Incident of the Day of the Dead" on CBS.

The "Clarron City" repeat on NBC is "Kid on a Calico Horse."

Linda Darnell and Dean Stockwell are guest stars.

"Sunset Strip" on ABC repeats "Safari."

What should be the final convention session is scheduled. It will feature acceptance speeches of the two candidates.

DILIGENTI QUINTS

World's Only Living Set Of Quintuplets

By BRIAN BELL

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Five as easy to raise as one, says Franco Diligenti, father of the world's only living Quintuplets—if you don't let them gang up on you.

One of the three girls already is married and one of the boys is at prep school in Vancouver, Canada. The other boy will leave for a different school in Vancouver later this year. The remaining two girls are studying at separate schools in Buenos Aires.

That has always been father Diligenti's theory for raising quintuplets—keep them separated most of the time.

"I had to break them up when they were small," he says. "They had too much team spirit. They ganged up on you. If we had something new for dinner and one said he didn't like it, all the others immediately said they didn't like it either."

"If one went out somewhere all the others wanted to trail along. I knew they couldn't live all their lives together and decided if they were to get along all right they had to start developing individual personalities."

Diligenti's solution to the problem was to send the quintuplets to five different English boarding schools when they were only 7. Since then they have seen each other only from time to time.

"They all didn't have the same weekends off or the same vacation time," Diligenti says. "So sometimes it was months before all five got together at the same time. Of course, we took vacations together and had special family parties but most of the time they lived individual lives."

I would say they managed to grow up with a normal brother-sister relationship without thinking they were freaks or always an inseparable team."

Diligenti had the advantage of considerable wealth to help him in his plan to raise the quintuplets as normal human beings. He came from Milan, Italy, when he was 22 in 1922 and carved out a highly successful life in Argentina. He managed to raise money to build a factory, then added another and another until he had 10 factories making distinct products. Now 60, Diligenti has cut his factory ownership down to six, but still lives a millionaire's life.

These are slender, almost plotless stories, and not even stories, but paintings done with a delicate and tender touch. You find yourself interested but no more, until suddenly Grandfather's encounter with the dancer's manager stirs you to the heart, and suddenly the boy lovingly visits the widow, and suddenly death comes.

THE UPWARD GLIDE. By Ian Jeffries. Harper, $3.

John Craig—It's hard to remember he has a degree and is really Dr. Craig—has the promise of a university post which he's willing to accept if his wealthy father subsidizes him on a regular basis. Father has a better idea: Get a job in industry and foot his own bills. The boy dutifully runs one down, names impossible conditions, has them agreed to, still refuses the job, admits it to his father, and is disinherited at the end of chapter one in this novel from England.

So with 500 quid borrowed from his friend Gobbo, he enjoys himself more than ever would have been possible in industry. But in one moment, of indiscretion, he makes the acquaintance of Barbara, a marrying kind of girl, and daughter of an exact copy of his own father, a man who expects his son-in-law to be ambitious, earn a living and provide for wife and little ones.

Inaugural Is Disappointing For Author

THE INSPECTOR. By Jan de Hartog. Atheneum, $4.
The year is 1946, and some Jews who have survived the epic catastrophe in Europe long now for their new homeland, in Palestine, and one of them, a girl, runs across "The Inspector."

He is a middle-aged Amsterdam policeman, Peter Jongman; she is Anna Held, 21. He rescues her from a white slaver transporting her to South America. To atone for his lapses and failures during the occupation, he determines to grant her, trail and ill, her one undying wish: He will outwit Holland's frontier guards, and the English navy and other enemies in the Mediterranean to assure her safe arrival in Palestine.

For the first book from a new publishing house of the Atheneum's distinguished literary promise, this is an unexpectedly commonplace tale. You sympathize with the idea but you are disappointed by the treatment: At the start Jongman's desertion of his family is not made credible; in the middle a canalboat trip reads as slow as canalboat trips are in fact; and it all ends in sickly sentimentalizing. De Hartog has done much better than this, and of course Atheneum will, and in fact has with a book due day after tomorrow: Prudence de Pareda's "Windmills in Brooklyn."

In the meantime there is one auspicious note: The book is well designed.

Worth Waiting For On The Movie Screen

THE BREAKWATER. By George Mandel. Holt, Rinehart & Winston, $4.95.

"Zale was dead." With this line this novel opens, and 400 crowded pages later, death in fact has caught up with its tormented victim in a thundering climax, with all the world to blame.

It happens on Coney Island. Boys like Zale, Nannio, Paul and Fische; girls like Fische's sister Marcia, Zale's sister Jessie, and Lynn; and grownups like Daniel who's neither uncle nor father, Zura the mother, the Klugs, Otto the Bull, and Cumber the Irishman are involved in pain, violence, delight and the empty image of delight. Zale looks too early on an adult work, because he can't understand it, hurts him intolerably. The age lines cross melodramatically, passions are misdirected, and good honest love is crushed under jealousy, rivalry and incomprehension.

The story takes place in the 1930s against the ominous background of depression, Hitler and Stalin. In Mandel's first novel, "Place the Angry Stranger," almost 10 years ago, the locale was Greenwich Village and the fever pitch reached by those characters started under the influence of drugs. Now there is still the same fever but more natural and less synthetic. The early work was more compact and direct, however, and this suffers from a certain thickness: perhaps Mandel holds onto his effects too long. Still he's a writer, and writing is oddly like a vice to him, he can't let it alone. His people, all raw nerves, seethe and fume in a dark and somber story.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

New Titles Added To Library Each Week

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Each week new titles are added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. There are books for every interest and type of reader. Those who like mystery stories will be interested to know that the library has recently secured a group of reprints of some of the earlier A. A. C. Christie novels. If you have not read them, you will surely want to do so. The titles are: "Parker Pyne Investigates," "Three Act Tragedy," "Why Didn't They Ask Evans?" "Murder Is Easy," "The Seven Dials Mystery," "The Secret Adversary," "Poison Investigation" and "The Man in the Brown Suit."

There is great interest in regard to the many early religious books which have recently been unearthed. A new title on this field is "The Secret Books of the Egyptian Gnostics" by Jean Doreste. Thinking men are interested in the question of slum areas in cities and will want to read "Our Housing Jungle and Your Pocketbook" by Oscar H. Steiner. A book for investors is "Your Money and What To Do With It" by Gilbert H. Tucker. "Child in the Shadows" by Edward L. French deals with the problem of the retarded child and will find many interested readers. An interesting book of experiences in the animal world is "Ride a Rhino" by Michaela Denis. Do you ever feel tired for no apparent reason? If so read "Women and Fatigue" by Dr. Marion Hilliard.

Glady's T. Stevenson and Cora Miller are the co-authors of a book called "Introduction to Foods and Nutrition" which will be most useful. John Robert Powers has written a book for every girl who wants to be beautiful, called "How to Have Model Beauty, Poise and Personality." This is certain to be in great demand. "The Powers of Poetry" by Gilbert Highet is a discussion of the work of some of the outstanding English and American poets. An interesting book of reminiscences is "The Edge of Day" by Laurie Lee. "Indian Impressions" by George Biddle is a very interesting book.

Steep Taxes Are Paid By Motorists

NEW YORK (UPI)—American motorists are paying 486,500 per cent more in motor fuel taxes than they did in 1919.

That figure is arrived at as follows: Motor fuel taxes totaled $1.1 million in 1919. They rose to $4.986 billion by 1959. The latter is 4,586 times the $1 million, or a rise of 4,585 from the one. If something goes up from 1 to 2 the rise is 100 per cent. Subtract the two figures and add two ciphers, and you get 486,500 per cent.

BURDEN

That tax burden hurts the consumers, makes them seek compact cars which burn less fuel and hence hurts the oil companies. There are other things that hurt even more. They are heavy inventories of gasoline and other oil products that seem to be difficult to reduce. And then, there's the problem of a capacity that's 20 per cent larger than demand.

Application of the law of supply and demand gives a clue to the real trouble. Big supply softens prices. Added to that is rising costs which cannot be made up with supply high as it is.

REPLACING

Aggravating these problems is a move of Soviet Russia to dump oil into free world markets at sharply cut prices. Newsweek magazine estimates this dumping amounted to 15 million tons last year and the plan is to step up these shipments.

Fuel oil is being displaced by gas in many sections. Natural gas is an oil product but its price is held down by the Federal Power Commission.

Also oil companies which one time were able to import cheap oil from the Middle East to leave their costs are now restricted severely in their imports by government edict.

Add all these up one finds reasons why oil company profits

AREA ROUNDUP

Six New Wells Are Finaled In District Oil-Gas Fields

BY RICHARD GREENE
Oil Editor

Six new gas wells were finaled and 14 new locations of possible oil or gas well completions were staked in the 14-parish Monroe district of the Louisiana Department of Conservation as a result of testing and exploration in the area last week, it was reported by Duncan S. Cook, district manager.

Other highlights of activity in the fields include 16 active rigs, one well re-completed and only four holes were plugged and abandoned.

Drilling and exploration was slightly down from last week's production, probably due to the Independence Day week end when many drillers left their work.

These are the new completions:

Democrats, Republicans Avoid Issue

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—

The words oil and petroleum are not very popular with the platform committees of the Republican and Democratic parties.

Both parties normally prefer to place oil industry matters under the general category of natural resources.

Such a practice probably will be continued this week when the Democrats draw their new platform in Los Angeles and two weeks later as the Republicans meet in Chicago.

DISCUSSION

There was much discussion of oil problems at the 1956 conventions, but neither platform mentioned the industry specifically.

The nearest either platform came to mentioning oil was in the pledge by the Democrats to continue research for the development of "synthetic liquid fuel" from coal, shale and agricultural products.

The 1956 conventions were held as some segments of the oil industry were clamoring for congressional action to limit oil imports.

PARTIES

Both parties indirectly indicated a sympathetic understanding of the problem by endorsing reciprocal trade programs that would not cause injury to domestic agriculture, industry and labor.

But the two platforms disagreed on the effectiveness of such reciprocal trade safeguards prior to the 1956 conventions.

The Democratic platform said: "Under the present Republican administration there has been a very flagrant disregard of these important segments of our economy resulting in serious economic injury to hundreds of thousands of Americans engaged in these pursuits."

PLATFORM

The Republican platform replied: "We proudly point out that the Republican Party was primarily responsible for initiating the escape clause and permit provisions of law to make effective the necessary safeguards for American agriculture, labor and business."

Voluntary federal controls over oil imports were established in 1937 and became mandatory in 1939. The problem still exists, however, as some oilmen want even tighter controls while others want higher or modified quotas.

Other matters certain to figure in committee discussions at Los Angeles and Chicago are the oil industry's 27 1/2 per cent depletion tax allowance and proposed legislation to free natural gas producers of federal utility-type controls.

PLATFORM

The 1956 Democratic platform said: "We pledge the adoption of policies which will further encourage the exploration and development of additional reserves of our mineral resources."

Republicans were a bit more specific when they said they favor a "reasonable" depletion allowance. But they did not define the word reasonable.

The Republicans tacked on a sentence which Thad Hutcheson, Texas Republican chairman, said was a major victory for convention delegates from oil states.

"We favor freedom of mineral producers from unnecessary governmental regulation," said the sentence that was added during committee deliberations.

Commented Hutcheson at the time: "That doesn't sound like much, but it gives us an entry into which we can later insert our own views."

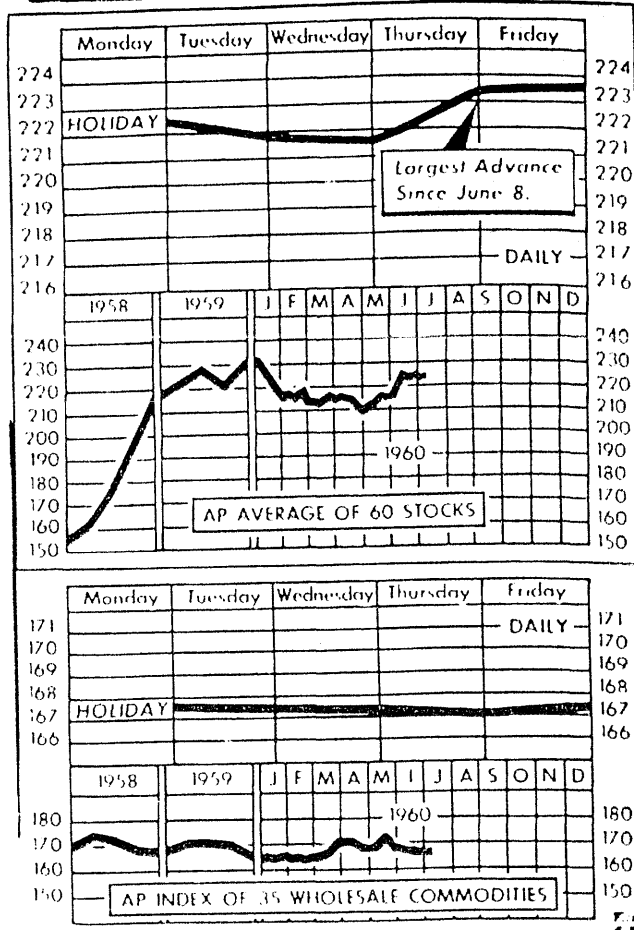

Representatives from six petroleum companies in Monroe met recently to discuss the formation of a chapter of the American Petroleum Institute here.

According to Fred Dillard, with Pan American Petroleum, the API is a national organization with local chapters in various cities throughout the United States. The purpose of the organization on a local scale will be to hold meetings and exchange ideas on the latest methods of petroleum operation and have guest speakers from time to time to inform the group on various phases of the industry.

Represented at the meet were Pan American Petroleum Corp., United Carbon Co., Columbia Carbon, Crescent Drilling Co., Schlumber Well Surveying Corp. and Union Producing Co.

Anyone connected with the oil or gas industry in any way may become a member, Dillard explained, and the next meeting will be held on September 13.

DEFENSIVE GROUP

Utility Stocks Gain New High

NEW YORK (UPI)—Utility stocks stood out on the New York Stock Exchange during the past week by rising to a new average high since mid-1930.

This group is considered defensive, that is it is only lightly affected by changes in the business cycle.

There were other strong spots in the defensive issues, too—foods, for example. Oils made a fairly good showing. Selling knocked down some of the recent glamour issues.

The four-day week, cut short by the holiday, brought out only a small amount of market business. Sales slumped to a daily average of 2,954,107 shares, against 2,964,093 in the previous week and 3,655,906 in the week ended June 25.

STEEL
Steel shares enjoyed a good market in several sessions on the belief that the worst had been seen this year. The Youngstown steel area is slated to jump to 39 per cent of capacity next week from a mere 13 per cent during the past week.

Automobile production fell and it was believed it would continue at a low level for several weeks while the various companies change over to new models. Auto sales during June were the best since 1955.

CLOSE
At the close on Friday, the industrial average finished at 648.91 up 5.61 points; railroad 142.29 off 0.47; utility 94.87 up 1.38, and a new high since June 10, 1930, and 65 stocks 212.22 up 1.61.

The government's action in clipping off 700,000 tons of Cuban sugar imports was seen as of no influence on either the market or on business. It was considered a temporary affair in a troubled situation. Expropriation of Texaco and Jersey oil refineries by Cuba also was ignored. Texaco rose 2 1/2 points on the week and Jersey was up nearly a point.

NEW YORK (AP)—The big questions in business this past week were: When will the steel industry make its comeback, and how substantial will it be?

Steel holds a vital key to how the nation's economy goes in the second half of this year.

The industry's output the past week was estimated at 42.7 per cent of capacity, the lowest rate for a nonstrike week since July 3, 1939. The reasons: the July 4 holiday, plant-wide vacations, repair and rebuilding work, and low rate of new orders.

UP TURN
Steelmakers look for an upturn in August, but indications were that it wouldn't be as steep as had been anticipated. At that time the automobile companies will be stepping up their orders for 1961 models, but inventory cutting by other users is expected to continue.

The trade publication, Iron Age, said all hopes of a record production this year have faded. When the year began, estimates of output ranged up to 130 million tons, well above the record of 117 million in 1955. The absolute best that can be hoped for is 115 million, said Iron Age.

STEELS
Although the steel situation seemed cloudy, there were bright signs to the economic picture. One of the most notable was the new passenger-car sales for the first six months of the year were the best for the period since record 1955.

Sales totaled 3,253,132, compared with 2,936,135 last year and 3,651,900 in 1955. The compact was the big factor in the fine showing, grabbing 25 per cent of the market.

June sales of 593,600 cars were the best for the month since August, 1955.

The Ford Motor Co.'s Cleveland stamping plant caused the past week's production to plummet to an estimated total of 90,000 cars from 123,624 the previous week and 123,147 a year ago.

RESERVES
The country's total production of goods and services ran at an annual rate of 503 billion dollars—an all-time high—in the second quarter.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank, surveying business as the second half of the year began, found the economy on a high plateau with the outlook for further expansion remaining favorable.

Especially encouraging, it said, are companies' plans for expanded capital outlays.

DOW-JONES AVERAGES
NEW YORK (UPI)—Dow-Jones averages for the week ended July 8, 1960:

Official Says Mexico Policy Is Unchanged

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Highly informed Latin-American diplomatic and Mexican government sources said Saturday the "Mexico with Cuba" statement made by a congressional leader does not represent Mexican government policy.

They said it was believed in top-level government circles that former President Lázaro Cárdenas was instigating and agitating the situation, taking advantage of the tough international crisis between the United States and Cuba to re-new his own political power.

The controversial statement, which created a tense situation between Mexico and the United States, almost unequalled since the expropriation of the American oil properties, was made by Emilio Sánchez Piedras, chairman of the Congressional Permanent Committee. Sánchez Piedras is known to be a follower of Cárdenas.

U.S. Ambassador Robert C. Hill and Foreign Minister Manuel Tello spent an hour together Friday. Hill asked what the government policy was, and if the deputy spoke for the President.

Neither has commented officially, and there has been no statement from President Adolfo López Mateos.

Kennedy Says He Expects 600 Votes 1st Time

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy arrived Saturday in this Democratic convention city and said he expects more than 600 votes on the first ballot even without any support from favorite son delegations.

It takes 761 to win the prize. Kennedy, the leader in the battle for the Democratic presidential nomination, flew in from New York City about 90 minutes before his scheduled flight. The takeoff of his jet airliner from the East had been delayed by altimeter trouble.

Result Of Hike In Costs Cited

WASHINGTON (AP) — An economic research group estimated Saturday that since 1953 rising interest costs have imposed an excess burden of more than 22 billion dollars.

This includes five billion on the federal budget, more than half a billion on state and local budgets, and about 17 billion on the budgets of individuals and private enterprises, it said.

Baton Rouge Firm Is Low Bidder

VIDALIA (Special) — A bid of $21,566 by a Baton Rouge firm was apparent low bid, when the U. S. Engineer office, New Orleans, opened bids submitted on Invitation No. 60-220, for Item M-503, 3R, Lum Light - Old Lake Red Levee, northwest in Concordia Parish.

The bid was submitted by Jones and Buchanan, Baton Rouge. The government estimate for the work was $30,000. All bids were taken under advisement.

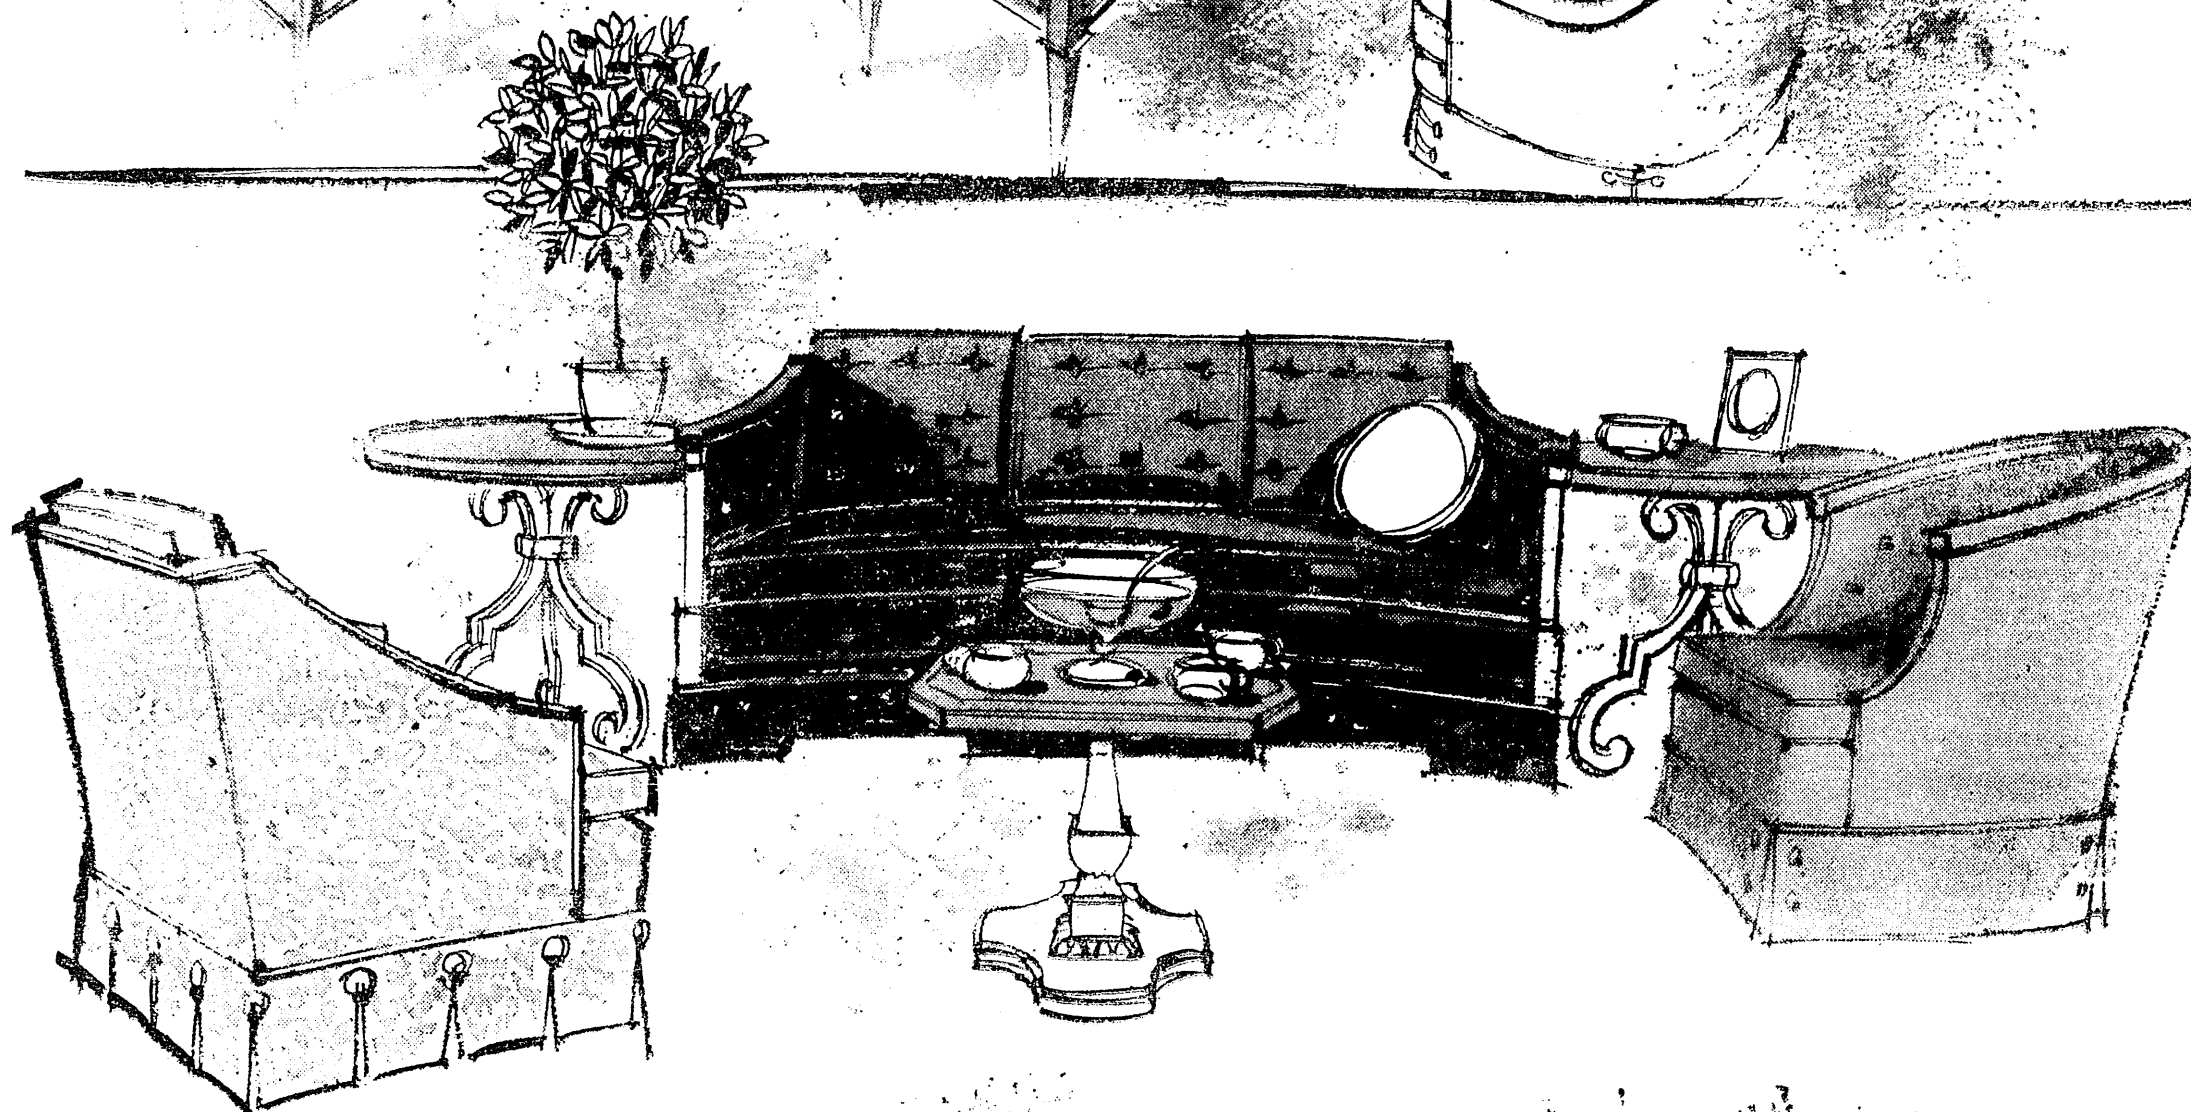

Bids submitted include Jones and Buchanan, Baton Rouge, $21,566; Joe E. Freund, Inc., Vidalia, $24,710; Atlas Construction Company, Inc., Vidalia, $10,985; Walter P. Villere Co., New Orleans, $124,838.30; Lomco, Inc., Marksville, $125,340.000; J. A. Harper, Crowley, $161,700; Mail, Inc., Baton Rouge, $161,700.

Wed July 2

The rectory of St. Mary's Cathedral in Natchez was the setting on Saturday the second of July, for the wedding of Miss Clara Bernard Geisenberger, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. B. Clarence Geisenberger, of Natchez, and David Lawrence Eidt, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Joseph Eidt, Jr. of Natchez. The Rev. Patrick Scully officiated at the double-ring ceremony at five o'clock in the afternoon in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Joseph French Dixon. The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Ralph Shields, Jr., of Vidalia, who served as matron of honor.

Edward Eidt of Natchez attended his brother as best man. Following the ceremony a reception was given at the Top of the Town Room at the Eola Hotel by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Dixon, the uncle and aunt of the bride. Following the reception, the couple left on a wedding trip to points in Florida and upon their return will make their home in New Orleans.

July 4 Theme Of RJH Junior Unit Meeting

Rodney J. Hobbs Auxiliary 1809 Junior Girls Unit held their regular meeting Saturday afternoon with the president, Mary Claire Hanson, presiding.

The theme for the program was the patriotic holiday, July 4th. The meeting was opened with the pledge of allegiance to the flag. The Declaration of Independence was discussed by Rita Simmons. The group sang "The Star-Spangled Banner" which was designated as the national anthem by Act of Congress in 1931. The president of Rodney J. Hobbs Auxiliary 1809, Mrs. Odie Lee Gossett, talked on the new 50 star flag.

After the meeting, the members enjoyed a swimming party and picnic which was chaperoned by the Advisory Council of the Rodney J. Hobbs Auxiliary 1809.

Brakefield-Turpin Vows Will Be Heard In August

Announcement is made today of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Dorothy Joyce Turpin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen T. Turpin of Monroe, and Joseph Thomas Brakefield, son of Mrs. R. L. Brakefield of West Monroe and the late Mr. Brakefield.

The wedding is planned for six in the evening, August 20, in the Parkview Baptist church in Monroe. The Rev. H. L. Sampson will officiate.

Maternal grandparents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McKeelvey; and her paternal grandparents, Mrs. A. T. Turpin, Sr., of Bastrop and the late Mr. Turpin. Miss Turpin is a graduate of Neville High school and attended Stephens college in Columbia, Mo., and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, where she was a member of Phi Mu sorority.

Mr. Brakefield is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bonds and the late Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Brakefield. He has attended Louisiana Polytechnic Institute and Northeast Louisiana State college.

Miss Turpin has named Mrs. Peggy Jones as her matron of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Evelyn Amman, Miss Mary Lynn Scogin, Miss Lucy Turpin, and Miss Gay Demmay.

Lon Bass will be Mr. Brakefield's best man. Groomsmen will be Malcomb Bass, Mickey Bass, Carl McMillan, and Mike Stone. Billy Turpin, Robert Hearne, Bennie Andrews, and Bob Erle Clark will be ushers, and Harold Brakefield and Donald Hearne will light the candles.

The couple will make their home in Monroe.

Miss Sue Stubbs Engaged To Marry H. H. Cutler, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. William King Stubbs announce the engagement of their daughter Miss Sue Stubbs to Haydn Harrison Cutler, Jr., son of Mrs. H. H. Cutler, Sr. and the late Dr. Cutler. The wedding will be solemnized in Grace Episcopal Church on September the First.

Miss Stubbs, whose mother is the former Miss Sue Graves, is the granddaughter of Mrs. James Q. Graves and the late Dr. Graves and Mrs. Guyton Palmer Stubbs and the late Mr. Stubbs. The bride-elect attended Sweet Briar College in Virginia for two years and Sophie Newcomb College during the past year. She is a member of Pi Beta Phi Sorority, Daughters of the American Revolution, Society of Mayflower Descendants and The Jamestown Society.

Mr. Cutler's mother is the former Miss Elizabeth Biedenharn of Monroe and he is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Alvin Biedenharn of this city and Mr. and Mrs. Lile Charles Cutler of Corona Del Mar, California. He received his preparatory education at Baylor Military Academy in Chattanooga and was graduated from Tulane University, where he was a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity. He has recently returned to this country after several years of employment in the Orient.

The couple expect to make their home in Louisiana.

CRISP CURTAINS FOR SUMMER

If your curtains look limp on hot, humid days a little starch will make them look crisp. Keep the starch fairly thin and place several bath towels in the clothes dryer drum with the curtains. The towels will absorb the excess starch. Remove the curtains when damp-dry and place in a plastic bag until ironing time.

Miss Killen, R. M. Barrett Wed In Church

The Memorial Methodist Church was the scene of the wedding on June 30 of Miss Margaret Anne Killen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Killen of Monroe, to Robert M. Barrett, son of Mrs. A. M. Barrett, also of Monroe. Before a background of white gladioli and burning tapers, the Rev. W. Spencer Wren performed the ceremony. "I Love Thee" and "O Perfect Love" were sung by Mrs. James Davis, who was accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Irene Nelson.

The bride, entering on the arm of her father, wore a gown of imported chantilly lace, featuring a scalloped neckline, and her gloves were of chantilly lace. Her headdress was of tulle, attached to a lace-covered bandeau. She carried a bouquet of carnations.

Miss Betty Jane McCartney served as maid of honor. Her dress was of blue organza with matching accessories and her headdress was a bandeau. Her bouquet was of pink carnations. Lighting the candles were Miss Saron Mann and Miss Linda Clark. They wore identical dresses of blue organza trimmed with blue lace with pink carnation corsages. Their accessories were blue.

MRS. ROBERT M. BARRETT

Serving the groom as best man was Charles Thacker with James Davis, Edwin Blackwell, David Smith, and Ronald Killen as ushers.

For the wedding, the bride's mother chose a pink linen sheath trimmed with lace inserts. She wore matching accessories and a white carnation corsage. The mother of the groom wore a dress of blue polished cotton with matching accessories and a carnation corsage.

A reception was held after the ceremony in the church. The bride's table was covered with a cloth embroidered in pastel flowers, featuring an antique crystal candelabra surrounded with a bouquet of mixed flowers as a centerpiece. The cake was topped with wedding bells, hearts, and tiny pink and blue flowers. Assisting with the serving were Mrs. Horace Smith, Mrs. Woodrow Hathorn, and Mrs. Sara Lou Sims. Miss Mary Murphy, Miss Deas Parrish, Miss Gayle Smith, Miss Milann Gannaway, and Miss Gloria Abraham served as tea girls.

For the wedding trip to Hot Springs, Arkansas, the bride wore a yellow embroidered linen sheath with black patent accessories. Her carnation corsage was taken from the bridal bouquet.

The bride was graduated from Neville High School and will receive a degree from Northeast State College in August. The groom is a graduate of Neville High School and attended Northeast State College.

The couple will make their home in Monroe.

Miss Buckles, Mr. Thomason Vows Spoken

The sanctuary of the Methodist Church in Rayville was the setting on Sunday, June 25, of the wedding of Miss Janice Lea Buckles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Buckles, Jr., and John Houston Thomason, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Thomason. The Rev. R. E. Walton performed the double ring ceremony.

Six tall candelabras, entwined with Woodard palms, held white tapers, which were lighted by Don Buckles and William Boyd. On the altar was an arrangement of pink majestic daisies.

A pre-nuptial concert on the organ was given by Miss Charlotte Ann Stodghill. "Whither Thou Goest," "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer" were sung by Mrs. Ellis Bairnsfather.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white silk organza applied with imported China Lily lace and seed pearls, featuring a scalloped neckline and long tapered sleeves. Her lace trimmed fingertip veil was held in place by a lace cap trimmed with pearls. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift from the groom. She carried her grandmother's handkerchief and a cascade bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Ralph McKinstry, the matron of honor, was attired in a gown of pink embroidered organza over polished cotton. She carried a bouquet of pink majestic daisies, and wore a pearl necklace cloth over pink linen with a dress was a circle of pink tulle. Miss Jayne Lyles of Mangham, Miss Sara Marjorie Buckles of Rayville, and Miss Beth Palmer of El Dorado, Arkansas, served as bridesmaids. They were dressed identically with the matron of honor. The flower girl was little Miss Patricia Boyd who carried a straw basket filled with pink rose petals. She wore a pink organza dress and a circular tulle veil to match that of the bridesmaids.

Larry Buckles, brother of the bride, acted as best man, with Ralph McKinstry, George Templeton, and Windle Dyer as groomsmen. The ring bearer was young Harry Clinton Adecock.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Buckles wore a mauve lace dress, with matching accessories and a corsage of pink cymbidium orchids. The groom's mother chose an aqua lace dress with matching hat. Her corsage was of pink cymbidium orchids.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was given in the church fellowship hall, with Mrs. Alvin McCarty, Mrs. R. E. O'Connor, and Mrs. J. C. Ellington as hostesses. The punch table was covered with a cream lace cloth over pink linen with a centerpiece of pink gladioli and carnations flanked by crystal candelabras holding pink burning tapers. A crystal punch bowl and the tiered wedding cake were placed at opposite ends of the table.

The bride's table was covered with a white linen cloth and featured an arrangement of white gladioli centered with a scented memory candle. Assisting with the serving were Miss Carrie Hatch, and Mrs. M. K. McCon-

Miss Nunnery To Be Wed To J. T. Knight, Jr.

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Grace Nunnery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Nunnery of Natchez, to John T. Knight, Jr., the son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Knight, Sr., of Natchez, is being announced by the parents of the bride-elect.

The prospective bride is a graduate of the Liberty High School. The bridegroom-elect is a graduate of the Natchez High School and is now attending the Mississippi State University, Starkville, where he will complete his studies in January, 1961. The wedding will take place July 18th.

nell, with Miss Linda Kay Ellington at the guestbook. The tea girls were Miss Carolyn Thomason, Miss Aline Walker, and Miss Charlotte Ann Stodghill. Soft music was rendered at the piano by Miss Mary Jo Ellington. Pink rice bags were passed to the guests by Kathy Woodard and Joyce and Richard Boyd.

For the wedding trip, the bride chose a blue silk costume suit with white accessories. Her corsage was an orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Both the bride and the groom are presently attending Louisiana Polytechnic Institute where the bride is a member of Theta Upsilon Sorority.

During the past two weeks, while going with the photographer to make this week's front page pictures, your reporter was privileged to visit some of Monroe's lovely new houses. There are still some new home owners we haven't caught in, but we hope to do so in the near future.

The JAMAR ADCOCK'S home on Point drive is built in Louisiana colonial style using a shingled, high-pitched roof, and colonial brick. The white front door, flanked by leaded bevel-edge side lights, opens into the all-white entrance hall, with its floor of random width oak. Folding doors lead to the living room on the left and dining room on the right. The white marble fireplace is the focal point of the white and gold living room, with its white rug. Above the mantel hangs a gold leaf mirror flanked by brass and crystal candelabra. In the dining room, the white panel wall is printed with a golden rainforest. A ceiling medallion encircles the chandelier. Furniture is apple wood, in French provincial style.

Behind the living and dining rooms, the hall extends across the house, leading to the bedroom wing on the far left, the service wing on the right. Behind the hall is the family room, with its express and the interior is as distinctive as the outside appearance.

The front door, with its accent of sapphire blue, opens into the terrazzo-floored entrance hall, which in turn goes into the living room. A pair of white chairs and a sapphire blue sofa are used in this room, which curves around an oval-shaped patio. Draperies of silver grey sheer draw across the curving glass wall. The end wall of the black brick features a built-in seat with white and blue cushions. At the opposite end, a screen of black imported plastic divides the living room from the den.

In the den, which is paneled in ash, white furniture is used with a pair of sapphire blue chairs. The coffee table is square of clear glass in a black frame. The white walled dining room is furnished with walnut table and chairs, the latter upholstered in blue. A built-in buffet fills one wall of the room. Breakfast room and kitchen are paneled in a geometric pattern of blues and greens on a white background. Cabinets are fruitwood. A screen of black brick laid in an open-work design completely covers the outside of the kitchen's long folding windows.

The curving walls which are seen throughout the house are repeated in the bedroom wing. Three long, double-doored closets fill the right side of the hall. On the left are doors to the guest room, with its bright aqua draperies and bedspread of neutral walls and walnut furniture; and to the guest bath, with its yellow tile and colorful paper above. Walls in the master bedroom are aqua, with gold used for the carpet and the spreads on the two double beds. The oval patio outside the living room curves around to the glass wall and door which form one end of the bedroom. Closets in this suite contain built-in drawers, spaces custom designed for shoes, long and short hanging areas, and other conveniences for clothing storage. A luminous ceiling lights the dressing area which adjoins the white-tiled bath. Glass walls open onto the bath courtyard, still to be planted, but perfectly suited for private sunning.

The new home of the C. G. PEARCE, JR., mixes traditional and modern touches in a cream brick ranch style house. To the left of the entry is the living room, paneled in white with gold medallions. Sofa and chairs are upholstered in off-white, with fruitwood used for the pair of small tables used in front of the sofa. Against one wall is the featured credenza with its black marble top. Accents are a pair of peacock blue chairs placed before the white draw draperies on the front windows.

Directly behind the entrance hall is the family room, with its floor of beige vinyl tile and large fireplace of cream brick. This room is done in shades of brown, with bright aqua used for one chair and the throw pillows on the sofa. Casement linen draw draperies cover the glass doors which open onto the living porch across the back of the house. Three walls of the family room are covered with a wipe-clean plastic. The dining area is accented with wallpaper featuring gold vines climbing a grey trellis on a white background.

Green, pink, and brown leaves appear in the patterned paper of the breakfast room, above a plastic wainscoting. The plastic is used again for the seat covers of the antique cherry furniture. Light birch cabinets and Formica counters continue into the kitchen. Effective use is made of greens and browns in the bedroom wing. The same print of game birds is used in CLIFF'S room, which accents the shades of brown; and in that shared by STEVE and DOUG, where walls are green. Pompeian marble in the boys' bath picks up the colors of the asteroid wallpaper.

On Saturday JUNE ELLIS, who leaves in mid-July to join WILFRED in South America, was honored at a barbecue by the CLYDE ALBRITTONS and the STANLEY PASSMANS at the Albritton residence in West Monroe. Red hibiscus flanked by red candles the centerpiece on the buffet table on the patio. A real Fourth of July menu was served, including barbecued ribs and chicken, baked beans, potato salad and green salad, and home made ice cream. Guests, who were seated at individual tables, included June's mother, MRS. J. E. GRIFFIN, the BILL INABNETS, the PAUL RANSOMS, the DON GIFFENS, the DURWOOD GRIFFINS, the GEORGE GUERRIEROS, and the LAVELLE HAYDENS.

Visitors from out of town have occasioned a round of festivity among the younger set this week.

PAT AYLWARD of Pace, Miss., has been the guest of her cousin, MINTA GOYNE, while KATHY McSHERRY's visitor has been ALSTON WALKER of Shreveport.

Tuesday afternoon Minta invited a group of boys and girls for boating and swimming at her home on Point Drive. Ham, cold drinks, and other finger foods were served to some seventy-five young people who attended.

On Thursday CRARY SMITH entertained with a luncheon for the visitors. The table in the bay window at the Bayou Desiard country club was covered with a green cloth and centered with an arrangement of white phlox. SUSAN SPERRY, and DOT AMMAN were invited to share the occasion with Kathy, Alton, Minta, and Pat.

Others hostesses included JODY BIEDENHARN, who entertained with a home dance on Thursday. SALLY BARHAM, who took a small group to lunch, and DOTTY AMMAN, who was hostess at a spend-the-night party.

Here from Abbeville for a two weeks visit is SUE LEGER, who is the guest of the E. J. LeBLANCs in their home on Kentwood drive.

JIMMY and ELLIOTT SNEELINGS of New Orleans spent this week with the GEORGE SNEELINGS, JR., on Country club road. Wednesday night they were honored by their hosts with a boating on the river. Some thirty members of the high school set enjoyed the supper on the water.

Home from a motor trip to South Louisiana are the ROBERT DARTZES. They were guests of the MINUS LEGES in Abbeville and the ADRIAN DARTZES in Erath.

The GEORGE FINKS with their daughters BETH and GEORGINA, are in California visiting their eldest daughter and son-in-law, CHERYL and JOHN LOLEY at Travis Air Force Base. Before their return, they will visit San Francisco, Salt Lake City, and points in Colorado.

Guests here over the Fourth of July week were the MARK BOATRIGHTS and their little son DAVE from Mount Vernon, Texas. They spent the weekend with the BETHEL BOATRIGHTS at their home on McKinley avenue.

Here is a poem about building by Larry Flint, "Build Well That House":

Build well that house, you two with eyes aight:

The rafters and the braces, build them stout.

But little things the blueprints often slight--

These are the ones to care the most about:

A stairway landing where you'll stop and fling

Glad arms around each other as you meel;

A sink where helping-hearted ones can sing;

A hall where homing kisses will be sweet.

For when the rafters sag, the braces yield

To wind and weather, as they will, and when

The gladiator Time has won the field

And Youth and Prime lay down their banners, then

These will remain remembered: an embrace.

A song, a kiss upon a much-loved face.

Trawick-Futch

Vows Pledged

Announcement is made today of the marriage of Miss Delores Futch and Jimmy Trawick on Sunday, July 3, in Winnboro.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lavelle Futch of Rayville, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Trawick of Monroe.

Following a wedding trip to Texas, the couple are at home in West Monroe.

Spillers-White Vows Planned For August 14

Miss Margie Caroline White is engaged to be married to Ronald Charles Spillers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cona S. Spillers of Spencer, La. The announcement is made today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey N. White of Monroe.

The wedding is planned for three in the afternoon, Sunday, August 14, in the First Methodist church of Monroe. Dr. G. W. Pomeroy will hear the vows.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Ouachita parish high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State college, where she was a member of Delta Omicron music fraternity. She has named Miss Dorothy Lou Stephenson as maid of honor, and Miss Peggy Osborn of Sterlington and Miss Frances Adams of Lake Charles as bridesmaids. The bride's sister, Claire White, and the groom's sister, Sherry Spillers, will be junior bridesmaids.

Cona Spillers will be his son's best man, and other attendants will be Charles McGough of Spencer; Eugene Watson of Homer; Robert Jenkins, uncle of the bride, of Baton Rouge; Bendel Johnson of Linville; and James Cole of Midland, Texas.

MISS MARGIE CAROLINE WHITE

The groom-elect, a graduate of Linville High school, is presently attending Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, where he is a member of Tau Beta Pi engineering honorary society. The couple will live in Ruston, where both will attend Louisiana Tech in the fall.

Helpful hint for campers: to make an efficient "suds," punch several holes near the bottom of a clean, empty can. Add some soap or detergent, then live in Ruston, where both will attend Louisiana Tech in the fall.

Miss Cothren, Mr. Davidson Wed In Natchez

The Lovely Lane Methodist Church in Natchez was the setting on Sunday, June 26th for the wedding of Miss Charlotte Janice Cothren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Ketchin Cassels, of Natchez, to William Bryant Davidson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Davidson, of Kingston. The Rev. W. T. Lowry, pastor officiated at the double ring ceremony at four o'clock in the afternoon.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Miss Patricia Nelson served as her cousin's maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Mrs. John Crum, cousin of the bride, and Miss Mary Claire Miller. Charles Davidson attended his brother as best man and ushers were John Davidson, brother of the bridegroom and Walter Salmon.

Following the ceremony a reception was given at the social hall of the church. After the reception, they left on a wedding trip to the Mississippi Gulf Coast and on their return shall make their home in Natchez.

If you feel too tired to eat dinner, take a refreshing bath — or a warm shower followed by a short cold splash — just before dining. This is an extra, by no means to be substituted for your daily cleansing bath!

Travel Health Precautions Recommended

The plans are made, the days marked off on the calendar, and the itinerary mapped — all for the big moment when that long-awaited vacation begins.

This summer, according to travel authorities, some 80 million Americans will embark on a myriad of trips to all parts of the universe and spend around 11.5 billion dollars getting away from it all.

Chances are three to one that you and your family will be among these touring Americans. If so, you will enjoy a more carefree vacation by taking a few precautions.

Begin your immunization at least 2 months before the start of any trip, then you won't have a sore arm during the hectic period of packing. Acquaint yourself with the required "shots" needed and keep your immunization register handy.

If you do any driving, remember that the National Safety Council recommends you drive no more than 350 miles a day. Arrange your trip schedule so that you arrive at your destination in daylight and stay only at approved hotels, inns and pension.

When it comes to clothing, the main thing is to guard against a change in the weather. Wear sensible shoes for sightseeing or walking on rough ground.

Stomach upsets are common to travelers. Usually, contaminated food or water is blamed. Often, eating indiscretion may be the real culprit and time schedules may upset regular eating habits.

Eat lighter when traveling; save those gourmet expeditions until after you acclimate yourself to the area. Unless milk is boiled, it should be avoided in most countries. Exceptions are the Scandinavian countries, Great Britain, Holland, Belgium and Switzerland. Of course, ice cream, butter and fresh cheese are also taboo if the milk in the country is unsafe. As a safety rule, drink only refrigerated bottled water in these same areas.

Exposure to the sun can be an easy natural process or a frustrating problem for most of us. Regardless of your inherent ability "to take the sun," overexposure may be dangerous. Also, don't be fooled by a cloudy day. Even though the sun is not visible, its ultra-violet rays filter through the clouds and can cause a severe burn. Burning can be kept to a minimum either by gradually increasing exposure and by using a chemical which screens out most of the burning rays of the sun.

Of course, remedies should be intended only as preventives or as treatments for minor ills. The cardinal rule — if you get sick, call a doctor — holds true overseas as it does at home. Your travel agent office, airline, hotel, American Consulate office or local medical society office can direct you to adequate medical attention almost anywhere. Make sure, however, if you are abroad, that the physician speaks and understands English.

If you wear glasses, take an extra pair along, or carry the prescription for your lenses with you as an extra precaution.

In addition to motion sickness remedies, your travel health kit should include ointment for sunburn, insect bites and skin irritations; adhesive bandages; tablets for headache and muscular pains; a laxative and anti-acid and anti-diarrhea drugs for stomach upsets; and any other remedies suggested by your physician.

Do not let needless health worries spoil your trip. With proper precautions you can make your vacation a pleasant and memorable experience.

This summer, when you want to frame your eyes in thick-lashed iridescence, coat your lashes first with your usual dark shade of mascara. Then tip them lightly with one of the new iridescent mascara colors in a shade to match your eye shadow.

Miss Williamson To Wed W. H. Stuckey In August

The Temple Baptist Church of Ruston, will be the scene of the wedding of Miss Dianne Williamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Vaughn Williamson, to William Howell Stuckey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Paul Stuckey of Ruston. The ceremony will be an event of August 13, at 5:00 p.m. with the Rev. Rel Gray officiating.

Miss Peggy Williamson, sister of the bride-elect, will serve as maid of honor.

The father of the prospective groom will act as best man, with Ardis Stuckey, brother of the bridegroom-elect, Dickie Hinton, Raymond Edwards, and Tommy Hunt, all of Ruston, as ushers.

The bride-elect is descended from Mrs. W. A. Futch and the late Mr. Futch of Farmerville, and Mrs. Clyde Frasier and the late Mr. W. J. Williamson of Ruston. The grandparents of the prospective groom are Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Oglesbee of Monroe, and Mrs. W. H. Stuckey and the late Mr. Stuckey of Eros.

Miss Williamson is a graduate of Ruston High School and is presently attending Louisiana Polytechnic Institute.

The bridegroom-elect was graduated from Eros High School and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, where he was a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

Following the wedding, the couple will make their home in Ruston where the groom-to-be is presently employed.

To look fresh, wrinkled - free, and tensionless, when all around you girls droop like wilted flowers, wear shoes a half-size larger than you normally wear (feet spread in hot weather), wear lightweight costume jewelry and less of it, wear clothes of looser weaves or weight, such as cottons, voiles, gossamer-thin chiffons and organzas. It's not the color of your clothes that counts — old theories to the contrary — it's the porosity of the fabric that helps to keep you air-conditioned.

Lakeshore HDC Meets With Mrs. C. L. Egloff

The Lakeshore Home Demonstration Club met Tuesday, in the home of Mrs. Clarence L. Egloff.

The meeting opened with the Club Collect and the Allegiance to the Flag followed by all joining in singing "Dixie". During the business meeting names were drawn for each member present to have a "Secret Pal."

"You should have 6 colors in your food at every meal" was told to the members by Mrs. Marie Gordin in her report on Nutrition. Mrs. Egloff gave tips on dyeing fabric shoes to match those special occasion dresses.

"The hotter the water, the cleaner the clothes" was a laundry tip given by Mrs. Martha Roberts in her demonstration on fabric care. She also told about the different kinds of man-made materials and how to care for them.

Refreshments were served to Mesdames: Richard Matthews, W. J. Keese, Isaac Crain, James F. Roberts, Earl Gordin, Clarence L. Egloff, and one visitor, Sarah Heard. The July meeting will be with Mrs. Crain on Ray Drive.

Just for fun next time you make a batch of yeast dough for sweet rolls, wrap strips of it around greased springless wooden clothespins; the edges of the dough just touch. The clothes pins may be easily pulled out after baking and the rolls stuffed with savory sandwich fillings.

MISS SARA RUTH STANDIFER is engaged to be married to Jesse Glenn Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Walker of Winnsboro. The announcement is made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Standifer of Forest. The wedding is planned for seven in the evening, Thursday, August 18, in the Forest Baptist Church.

MRS. VERGIL EDWARD CASTLEBERRY, the former Miss Linda Gaye Dean, whose marriage to Mr. Castleberry took place on July 1. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter William Dean, Jr., of West Monroe. Parents of the groom are Mrs. Bernice Howze of West Monroe and Arthur Edward Castleberry of Houma.

MRS. LESTER HAROLD WOODEN

Lawn Wedding Unites Jones Couple In June

Miss Reatae Kinnaird, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Kinnaird of Jones, became the bride on June 25, of Lester Harold Wooden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Ward Wooden of Bastrop. An arch of wisteria decorated with magnolia blooms and baskets of white gladioli served as the background of the lawn ceremony performed by the Rev. Rawls Pierce.

The bride, who was escorted by her father, wore a gown of deep luster bridal satin featuring a lace bodice with long pointed sleeves and a skirt covered with silk organza. Her shoulder length veil was held in place by a headdress of tiny seed pearls. She carried a white Bible covered with lilies of the valley and centered with a white orchid. The maid of honor, Miss Nelda Roark, wore a dress of pink silk organza over pink cotton satin. Her bouquet was of pink carnations. Little Miss Rene Kinnaird, sister of the bride, was the flower girl. Her dress was of pink cotton, and she wore a wrist corsage of pink roses. Lighting the candles was Miss Rebecca Ann Kinnaird, sister of the bride. They wore identical dresses of pink cotton and wore wrist corsages of pink roses. Don Wooden served his brother as best man. The ushers were Tom Kinnaird and Venoy Kinnaird, brothers of the bride. For the ceremony the bride's mother wore a blue linen dress with accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The mother of the groom chose a dress of beige linen with bone accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations. A reception was held immediately following the wedding in the home of the bride's parents. On the bride's table was an arrangement of white carnations and white stock with crystal candleabra. For their honeymoon to Hot Springs, the bride chose a blue silk suit with white accessories. Her corsage was the orchid taken from the bridal bouquet. The bride is a graduate of Bonita High School and is presently attending Northeast State College. The groom was graduated from Bastrop High School. The couple will make their home in Bastrop.

Ice Called Necessary Luxury Of Life

What action is simpler today than reaching into your refrigerator and removing all the ice cubes you want? Yet, until the turn of the century, a man could make his fortune shipping ice from Boston to the West Indies! Once, before the glaciers retreated, ice was the natural habitat of much of the planet. Since then man has continually sought to improve his means of possessing ice and its benefits — for food preservation, for comfort, for luxury, even for healing the sick. Clarence Birdseye, pioneer of frozen foods, once estimated that our modern urban centers could not last more than 30 days without the mechanical refrigeration and ice upon which their food supplies are dependent.

Today, ice is so much a part of everyone's life that it is hard to imagine being without it. On a hot, sultry day just the sound of ice cubes tinkling in a glass gives a cooling effect. Years ago Europeans coming back from America said the "musical tinkling" of ice water was characteristic of American hotels. Imagine life without ice cream or delicious sherbets. Even back in 1950, Godey's Ladies Book conceded that ice cream had become "one of the necessary luxuries of life."

A wide variety of delicious chilled dishes depend on ice. From breakfast juices to dessert at dinner, ice adds sparkle to even routine family meals. A juice tray can be easily arranged for breakfast. A colorful baking dish, for instance, can be filled with crushed ice and the glasses of fruit juice arranged in the container to keep the juice icy cold in case there are any latecomers for breakfast. It looks inviting, too.

When there are guests, whether the menu calls for seafood cocktail, jellied consommé, salad bowl or relish tray, they can all be more enticing with ice. Large shrimps arranged on crushed ice with a choice of sauces in bowls also embedded on the ice look decorative and appetizing on a buffet table. For patio dining or as appetizers, vegetables, such as carrot curls, radishes, cucumbers, small peppers, celery stay crisp and crunchy when arranged on a bed of chopped ice. And it can be such a colorful display.

Ice is a handy helper for speeding up the preparation of food, too. Want to make jello in a hurry? Just put a few ice cubes in the hot liquid and it will speed up the hardening process. And to skim the grease from gravy or stew drop a couple of ice cubes into the hot sauce and the grease will collect on the ice cubes and they can be easily lifted out.

For festive occasions, colorful ice ring molds can be made by adding some food coloring to crushed ice before packing it in a ring mold and freezing for a few hours. Center may be filled with flowers or a special sauce for ice cream. Flowers, too, may be arranged in frozen molds. Roses, chrysanthemums and carnations may be placed in outer walls of mold, facing out before packing with the crushed ice and freezing.

Besides the delicious desserts and other delicacies made possible with ice, it is necessary for survival. In hospitals, for instance, it not only gives comfort to patients with high temperatures and other ailments, but it relieves the pain of a bruise, reduces swelling, and stops a cut from bleeding.

An ice cube rubbed over candle grease that has dripped on a tablecloth makes it easily removable. The ice treatment to new nylon stockings helps to make them wear longer. Soak them in a quart of cold water to which ice cubes have been added. When they are melted, squeeze the stockings and hang them up to dry.

Like the fashion industry that now recognizes problems of the very tall and the very short woman, kitchens too can be adjusted for more comfortable work heights. Built-in gas ranges need not be installed at 35 inches above the floor. They can be raised or lowered with very little effort. A tall homemaker may find 33 inches from the floor will keep her from stooping. A shorter woman will find 33 or 34 inches more comfortable.

Smith-Cavin Vows Pledged

The wedding of Miss Betty Loyce Cavin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Whitley Cavin of Natchez, and Roger Lewis Smith, the son of Mrs. Ellis Smith and the late Mr. Smith of Natchez, was quietly solemnized on Saturday the twenty-fifth of June, at the home of the bride's parents, The Natchez.

Rev. Clarence Buie, of Albuquerque, New Mexico, performed the double ring ceremony at eleven o'clock in the morning.

Miss Elsie Smith, sister of the bride was her maid of honor. Attending the bridegroom as best man was his brother, Herman Smith. Following the ceremony they left for a wedding trip to Baton Rouge, and on their return the couple will make their home in the Natchez.

NO FISH, HUH?
RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Buddy Eacho asked a farmer for permission to fish in his 6-acre farm pond.

"Go ahead and try," said the farmer. "You'll be wasting your time, though. Nothing in it but baby bream."

When Eacho stopped by the farmer's house to give him some of the 11 bass he caught he had difficulty persuading his host that they came from the pond. They weighed from 4 to 6½ pounds.

Girl Scout News

One hundred and ninety campers in eleven units are at mid-point in their day camp season at Pine Wood, having fun and learning skills. The two units in the newly-added area have named themselves Hilltop and Camp-craft Hill. They are on a hill, sure "nuf. The campers are planning, if weather permitted, to move their cots out of doors, having first lashed supporting sticks for mosquito nets. This group of seventh graders, under the leadership of Mrs. L. L. Nash, is getting a thorough review of camping skills, preparatory to still more adventurous experiences. They are also including the outdoor cook badge in their activities. The girls were quite excited over digging a bean pole Thursday, making a fire over it Friday morning, putting a pot of beans in the hole, covering it up, and at supper time digging up the pot and enjoying delicious baked beans.

The girls have lashed a table and a tool rack for their campsite, cleared out the underbrush, learned to make different kinds of fires, cooked a berry cobbler on a reflector oven one day. Girls in this unit are: Kathleen Blau, Jane Brant, Janet Brown, Susan DeMasterson, Ann Freeman, Susan High, Kathy Jones, Gloria Melvinn, Nancy Pounds, Virginia Primm, Linda Roche, Sandy Seale, Judy Smith, Gale Summerfield, Judy Varnado, Irma White, Sherry Wood.

Sweet Gum and Whispering Pines units, which have based program on Tree and Adventurer badges, will have a trip to the fire tower at Linville Wednesday, with their leaders, Mrs. George Herrel and Mrs. W. A. Roche. Karen Bauer and Janet Noland. A forestry man will accompany them and the girls are looking forward to fun and adventure on their all-day trip.

Girls of Hilltop Unit, who took part in a primitive camp last year, will leave camp tomorrow morning to stay until Wednesday at a lovely site near Farmerville, living in tents and practicing skills learned last summer. Leaders for the trip are Mrs. N. L. Huckabee and Mrs. Woodrow Downs of Farmerville. Paula Eggleston is program aide in this unit. Girls who are looking forward to this trip as a culmination of their day camping experience are: Carol Culpepper, Martha and Mary Clampt, Connie Davis, Jane Edwards, Milann Gannaway, Carol Genuing, Diane Halley, Robbie Hicks, Jateen Kelly, Anna Margaret Miller, Deas Parrish, Mary Murphy, Beck Parkerson, Anne Spurgeon, Barbara Suomi, Mickie Varnado.

For one group of girls the long awaited time has come: they have reached the Century Oak unit, reserved for eighth-graders for primitive camping. Under the leadership of Mrs. D. T. DeMasterson, the 22 girls in the unit plan to spend the last two nights of camp in their tent unit. We'll have details later.

Camp will close its first session with a visitors' day Friday, families and friends invited after five o'clock. Making plans for this and other all-camp events is camp council, made up of representatives of each unit, who are: Hilltop, Anne Spurgeon; Camp-craft Hill, Gale Summerfield; Century Oak, Kaki Stone; Trail's End, Diane Boyd; Moss Grove, Dolores Smaple; Sweet Gum, Susan Williams; Whispering Pines, Charlotte Calderone; Brownie Hollow, Margie Henry; Hickory Hill, Maria Sampaogano; Brownie Glen, June Licht.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT EARL MOORE

Miss Hammett,
R. E. Moore

Wed In July

On the afternoon of July 3, Miss Jo Ann Hammett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Hammett of West Monroe, became the bride of Robert Earl Moore of Baton Rouge, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Davis of Rayville. The New Chapel Hill Baptist Church was the scene of the double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Connie E. Ward.

The candles, placed in tall candelabras flanked by baskets of white gladioli and asters, were lighted by Gerald Hammett and Ronald Hearn.

"O Promise Me," "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer" were sung by Luther Burney, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Jack White.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a gown of pearl embroidered alencon lace over white slipper satin with a square neckline, short sleeves, and a puffed skirt. Her veil of illusion fell from a tiara fashioned of Chantilly lace and seed pearls forming petals around the edges. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid surrounded with white carnations. Her only jewelry was a pearl drop necklace, a gift of the groom.

Miss Margaret Ann Mayfield, the maid of honor, wore a street-length dress of yellow organdy over taffeta fashioned after that of the bride. Her headpiece was a butterfly hat of matching pleated silk organza, and her bouquet was of yellow gladioli. Little Miss Debra Kay Davidson, who served as flower girl, wore a dress identical to that of the maid of honor. She carried a basket trimmed in yellow satin ribbon and filled with pink rose petals.

W. H. Todd Jr., of Baton Rouge, acted as best man, with Gerald Hammett, brother of the bride, and Ronald Hearn as ushers.

For the ceremony, the bride's mother chose a dress of lavender embroidered linen with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The mother of the groom wore a sheath of white eyelet and blue linen with white accessories. She had a white carnation corsage.

A reception was given immediately following the wedding in the church. The bride's table was covered with white lace over linen. The tiered wedding cake, iced in white with a garland of pale yellow roses, callas, and stephanotis forming a wreath around it, was topped with a miniature bride and groom encircled with pale yellow rosebuds. Assisting with the serving were Miss Linda Antley and Mrs. Betty Ward. The tea girls were Miss Barbara Spence and Miss Ilene Wimberley.

For their honeymoon trip to Florida and the Gulf Coast, the bride chose a two-piece sheath of pink linen with white accessories. Her corsage, a white orchid was taken from the bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of West Monroe High School and of Louisiana Business College. The groom was graduated from Mangham High School.

The couple will make their home in Baton Rouge.

Black Mold Hits Plants

By MILDRED SWIFT

All around the parish we've had swarms of white flies, tiny moth like insects. These white flies suck the plant juices and a black mold forms in the "honey dew" secreted by the insects. The mold blackens the leaves, making them unsightly.

The time to spray is not while the short lived insects are flying. They are still visible, unless they get to be a nuisance. The best time to spray is about six or eight days after the adults disappear. This is best because at that time the young eggs are hatching. They are more easily killed then.

The spray control is oil emulsion used in summer strength. The instructions are on the container. Malathion also gives effective control. Remember, bide your time — spray when the white fly disappears. You'll get rid of the oncoming generations.

GARDENING

Many of the spring flowers have finished blooming. You can clean up those beds, remake and plan for fall blooms.

Watch for aphids on chrysanthemums. Spray every 10 days with a nicotine spray or malathion — following instructions on container.

Keep old blooms cut from crape myrtles to get a longer period of bloom. You can strip the old bloom pods, or cut the stem that holds them.

CAMELLIA SEED

Those camellia plants that make seed can be propagated from seed. Those plants grown from seed will not be like the parent plant. Only a few will be worthy of keeping. You're privileged to name these seedlings.

Seed should be gathered and planted as soon as the pod begins splitting. Extract the seed and don't allow them to dry out. Full instructions for planting and caring for these seed will be found in our bulletin, "Camellias for the Yard." Call for a copy.

LAYERING

Azaleas and hydrangeas are easily rooted by layering. So are spreading type varieties of camellias. Take a branch, not exceeding one-half inch in diameter, one near the ground. Loosen the soil underneath the branch by spading. Then, bend the branch until it comes in contact with the soil. Scrape with a knife, the bottom part of the branch, apply one of the root inducing materials for quick results.

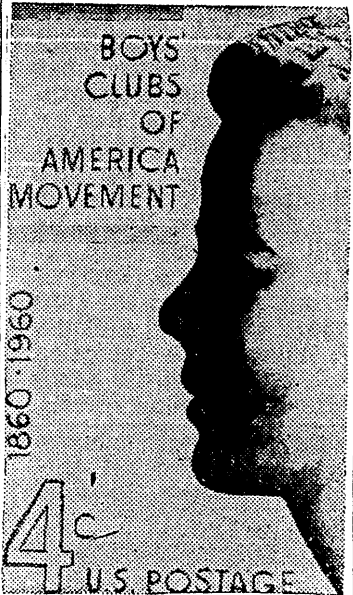

Next cover this part of the bent branch with five to six inches of good soil. To hold the branch in place use a forked stick or a brick. It usually takes from one to two years for a good root system to develop on the bent branch. After the roots

Young Boy's Profile Seen On 4-Center

The profile head of a young boy will be featured on a new U. S. 4-cent commemorative stamp marking the 100th anniversary of the Boys' Clubs of America. It will be first placed on sale Oct. 18 in New York City.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of the 4-cent adhesive may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, New York 1, N. Y. They should arrive prior to Oct. 18.

The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be clearly marked "First Day Covers 4-Cent Boys' Clubs Stamp." Because this is a vertical stamp, covers should be addressed left and as far to the left as possible.

The only nation to issue a postage stamp honoring President Eisenhower's recent trip to the Far East was the Republic of Korea. The 40-ywan stamp is blue, red and green. Depicted is a portrait of Eisenhower beneath the flags of the United States and Korea. Miniature sheets were also issued.

The Crown Agents Representative in the United States announced that the government of Hong Kong has issued two new stamps of the same size featuring the Queen's Head. The 65-cents is steel grey and the 1.30 is blue with red lettering. These values represent the second and first class air mail rates from Hong Kong to much of the world.

Luxembourg has issued a new series of regular stamps bearing the portrait of Grand Duchess Charlotte. The 30-centimes is olive brown, 1-franc red blue, 1.5-fr. carmine red, 2.50-fr. violet, and 5-fr. brown.

All four of these stamps will be first subsoiled with a small tractor or deeply dug and supplied with ample amounts of bone meal and cotton seed meal.

If you file this column regularly as most people seem to do, you will find several back columns on how to prepare soil underneath trees.

The whole area underneath your trees can be covered in spring with the little trumpet daffodils and then again in the fall with the rest of the bulbs mentioned above. Plant the daffodils first so that you will be sure to spread them throughout the planting. Then set out the other kinds between them. For "immediate effect," set three or five bulbs of each kind about two inches apart. Spider lilies look most graceful when the clumps are from two to five feet apart over the area.

BEST

The best combinations are daffodils plus spider-lilies; daffodils plus sternbergias; daffodils plus sternbergias plus colchicums; daffodils plus miniature amaryllis.

Remember that colchicums do not have evergreen foliage. Your planting will be bare in winter unless you use spider-lilies, sternbergias or miniature amaryllis (now listed under rhodophiala in catalogues).

If your soil is rich enough or if you will top dress the beds every February to be sure to keep them from starving out, you add scillas to your woodland planting of bulbs. Ferns like Christmas fern and ebony spleenwort — in fact many kinds of ferns will like your shady area. If you do not plant them, they will usually invite themselves. The Japanese roof iris (Iris tectorum) and many wild native things will eventually show up, too.

A mulch of pine needles or leaves is necessary over bulbs and wildlings underneath trees. It looks neat, and it feeds the soil, too. As we have said before in the column, top feeding is an easy way to fertilize, but it can't be forgotten because the tree roots are in amongst a bulb planting of this sort, stealing food where they can find it. So do not forget to scatter a complete fertilizer over your bulbs as they come up in the fall and bone meal over them in the spring.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Make Garden Show Place

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Your garden can be a great September show if you plant red spider-lilies, sternbergias, colchicums and miniature amaryllis some time between now and mid-August. These and the common little trumpet daffodil produce the greatest display for the least attention of any plants a Southern gardener can grow in spring and fall.

PREPARE SOIL. All four of these bulbs will be first subsoiled with a small tractor or deeply dug and supplied with ample amounts of bone meal and cotton seed meal.

If you file this column regularly as most people seem to do, you will find several back columns on how to prepare soil underneath trees.

EXTENSION NOTES

Many Garden Jobs To Do

By AUDREY DAWSON

There are many jobs to be done during these hot July days to keep our gardens in good shape. If you have not cleaned up the beds where your spring flowers bloomed, it's time to do so and get the beds ready for fall plantings to give color to the landscape.

Azaleas can be satisfactorily propagated by cuttings. This method is used more than any other: cuttings of current season growth — can be taken from May through September. Cuttings should be from two to four inches in length, of the Kurume types, and three to six inches, in the Indian group. Azalea cuttings will form roots in sand, peat, vermiculite, sterile soil and various other materials. The cutting bed must have good drainage and should be placed in a shaded place.

BIRDS

Much can be done to attract song birds to your home and garden to increase your enjoyment of birds. Feeding trays and nest boxes can be constructed to make the lawn and garden more appealing to native birds. Many types of shrubs can be planted to offer the food, shade and protection required by certain types of birds. Birds and other natural enemies must be prevented access to bird houses and nest and certain types of food is necessary to attract desirable birds rather than undesirable species such as the English Sparrow. Good watering facilities also add much to a bird sanctuary.

STEAM IRON

That steam iron is a most useful but an expensive appliance if you, Mrs. Homenaker, do not give it proper care. The kind of water used in a steam iron determines how long the iron will last. Manufacturers emphasize the need for using distilled water in steam irons. If your iron has become clogged from water deposits, it can be cleaned with a special fluid that is sold under various brand names, however, a home-made remedy is excellent. Make a mixture of 3 cups of water and 1 cup of vinegar; pour the mixture into your iron and let stand until it steams out. When all the liquid has evaporated, rinse iron out with clean water. This will clean the opening in most steam irons.

CIVIL DEFENSE

In case of an all-out nuclear attack against this country, radioactive fallout would be a deadly threat to every living thing. But there is a defense against fallout. Tomorrow's delivery system might not permit enough time to escape blast and heat, but there will be time to seek shelter from fallout, especially in the rural areas. The important thing is you must have a shelter ready before an attack. A cyclone or storage cellar covered by three feet of earth and with a protected entrance would make an excellent fallout shelter. If you have a basement, it will offer good protection if windows and walls are properly banked with dense material. To help you build your fallout shelter the office of Civil and Defense Mobilization is distributing an easy-to-understand detailed publication called, "Family Fallout Shelter". For your free copy, write to rural plantings to give color to the landscape.

SHORT COURSE

Yours truly will leave tomorrow for Baton Rouge to assist with the state 4-H Short Course held annually on the LSU campus. Mrs. Donna Moore and Mr. Elliott Branch, assistant agents, will be in charge of the 25 boys and girls from this parish who will represent Ouachita in the state contests. The 4-Hers who will participate in the contests are: Baking - Ann Beard; beautification of home grounds - Richard Gross; crops judging - Marion Temple, Leslie Bratton, Roger Pinton; dairy cattle judging - Larry Joe Cummings, Tom Owens, Robert Hodge; Dress Revue - (school dress) Judy Strozier, (best dress) Linda Tolbird, (fashion outfit) Billie Crew, food preparation - Lila Marie Fite, canning - Emmet Murray; girls' demonstration team - Zella Faye Brown, Brenda Custer; livestock judging - James Holyfield, William Ray Wheeler, James Roy Edgar; meat identification - Billy Jim Spillers, Standley Wink, Thomas L. Allen; poultry judging - Tommy Ramsey, Jimmy Farmer, Houston Campbell; tractor driving - Wallace Freeman.

Surplus Farm

Products Cost

$7.240 Billion

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government's present stockpile of surplus farm commodities has cost the taxpayer $7.240 billion, it was revealed Friday.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.), chairman of the joint congressional committee on reduction of non-essential federal expenditures, said the total included:

—1.2 billion bushels of wheat which cost $3.1 billion.

—1.2 billion bushels of corn purchased for $2.1 billion, and 5.2 million bales of cotton which cost $922 million.

Storage costs alone during the single month of May amounted to $45.74 million.

CAMERA NOTES

Take Care In Judging Initial Set Of Prints

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures
Summer snapshotting soars to a peak now and makes it necessary to emphasize an annual warning. Do not judge your pictures hastily on the basis of the first set of prints which you get from commercial processors of films.

Too many "bad pictures" are actually only bad prints that are by because of the increased volume of business and mechanical handling or automation.

READ NEGATIVES
Camera fans must learn to "read" their negatives so that they can tell when a print is good or bad and whether it can be improved. This is not a difficult skill. It is a matter of experience, acquired by studying each batch of negatives as well as the prints, comparing the matching negative and print side by side.

It is easy to tell when obvious printing mistakes have been made, such as cutting off feet or portions of the head. Before you blame your own poor marksmanship and it can happen—check your negative first. You'll often find that the missing anatomy is in the negative but close only to the border. With more care in centering or masking negatives, we'll have more "wholesome" people in our pictures.

A negative is viewed properly when the shiny, gelatin side is toward the eye. If the dull, slightly embossed emulsion side is held up to the eye, the picture will be seen in reversed position. You look through a negative to ward a light or a white surface to judge its quality.

Negatives can be described as thin, normal or dense. A thin negative is transparent and indicates insufficient exposure or possible under-development. A dense negative is heavy or black and indicates too much exposure or over-development. Thin negatives normally make dark prints or streaky gray when they are pulled out too soon to prevent a black print. Dense negatives normally make washed-out or light prints.

CLASSIFIED
Negatives can also be classified as contrasty or soft. A contrasty negative combines thin and dense areas with no range of tones between. A soft negative has little contrast range in its picture area.

Normal negatives have a full range of tones from thin areas to dense portions and will make prints with rich blacks in the shadows to pure whites in the highlights.

In order to make good quality prints from so many different grades of negatives, paper normally comes in four or five different grades of contrast. A contrasty negative is printed on a "soft" paper to compensate or minimize its deficiencies where as a soft negative is printed on a contrasty paper to make up for what it lacks.

In many cases faulty prints from a drug store or mail order processing plant may be due to improper selection of paper. Sometimes automatic printing machines cannot cope with certain problem negatives. If they print for the thin areas of the negatives, the dense portions will be washed out or too light. If they print for the dense areas, the thin portions will be sacrificed or too black.

Good prints from such negatives can be made only with individual attention and are best handled by enlarging. An expert, skillful manipulation, can "burn in" the dense portions of a negative and "dodge" or hold back the thin areas to produce a balanced print with a full gradation of tones.

It is a great satisfaction for a camera fan to see a sparkling enlargement from a negative that first yielded a washed-out contact print. It can happen more often to more camera fans if they begin to study their negatives. Start now and make it a regular habit.

Merchants To Open Counters To All Races

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP)—Charlotte merchants have decided to open their lunch counters to all persons, regardless of race, effective Saturday.

The announcement was made Friday by the biracial Mayor's Friendly Relations Committee, which has been studying the problem for several weeks.

Mayor Jim Smith said caterers at two large department stores, Belk's and Ivey's, are not included. However, lunch counters in both stores will be open to all.

Anti-Bullfight Law To Be Sought

LONDON (AP)—Bulls are not fought in Britain and never were. To see that they never will be, Liberal MP Jeremy Thorpe plans to move in the House of Commons next Thursday for an anti-bullfight law.

Privacy Cut For Royal Family

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II and her family are about to lose some of their cherished privacy. A towering hotel going up soon in Park Lane will look down over the high walls of the Buckingham Palace gardens.

SUMMER'S BACK and people, negatives and prints can get too much exposure. But extreme contrast in tones make an eye-catching sight when properly printed. This beauty at Laguna, Calif., was snapped by Wolf Wehran with a Super Ikonta II, normal film, at 1/100 at f/11.

A GHOST for every member of the family is in "13 Ghosts" which comes alive in ectoplastic color through the ghost-viewer at the Paramount Theatre today.

'13 Ghosts' Opens Today At Paramount

It would be fair to say that Hollywood views with alarm, whenever producer-director William Castle makes another picture; with alarm, with delight, and with happy applause.

Castle is the maker of such forboding, fright-filled films as "The Tingler," "The House on Haunted Hill," "Macabre" and now, opening today at the Paramount Theatre, "13 Ghosts."

Like its predecessors, "13 Ghosts" is a picture with an entertainment gimmick, a pleasant piece of cinema which adds to the suspense and excitement of what is always a good picture anyway. What the gimmick is in "13 Ghosts" will be seen by its audiences; filmdom promises only that it's a beauty!

STARRED
Young Charles Herbert is starred in "13 Ghosts," along with Jo Morrow, Martin Milner, Rosemary DeCamp and Donald Woods. Along with it must be added, the ghosts of a headless lion-tamer, his lion, a chief who messes up a kitchen and a number of other miserable residents of the spirit world. These real "live" ghosts all haunt an ancient house inherited by museum professor Woods who moves in with his unsuspecting family.

Young Herbert, a ghostlover from way back, finds himself right at home with the spectral spectacles; the rest of the family have trouble indeed.

Advance audiences report that "13 Ghosts" is a picture for the strong of heart, a film filled with excitement, suspense, drama and truly ominous activity. The prediction here is that a lot of people are going to look for ghosts a long time after they see "13 Ghosts," and with good reason.

Speculative Sugar Buying Is Ruled Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department Friday closed the door on speculative private buying of cheap Cuban sugar for re-sale in the United States at premium prices.

In a statement outlining U. S. policy covering the purchase of sugar to replace the 700,000-ton cut in the 1960 Cuban quota, the department said:

1. Sugar will be purchased first from countries in which it is produced and in general on the basis of prices prevailing in the U. S. market.

2. In the event any sugar is purchased from sources other than the country of its production, only world market prices will be paid.

This provision was aimed at the possibility that speculators could purchase sugar in Cuba for about the world market price of 3 cents per pound and then transship through a third country to the United States for sale at about 5½ cents a pound.

The spread between world and U. S. prices apparently has already led to some speculative buying, it was reported.

The Agriculture Department also said that every effort will be made to use private trade channels in obtaining sugar to replace the banned Cuban supply.

Gordon Scott Starring In Tarzan Film

BRITISH COLONY
Most of the picture, a Sy Weintraub-Harvey Hayutin presentation, was filmed in the British crown colony and protectorate of Kenya in East Africa. Key scenes were filmed at Fourteen Falls, Donya Szabok, at Thika and at the Mount Kenya Safari Club, which should give fans who see the picture some magnificent views of Africa's fascinating jungle country.

The story told in "Tarzan the Magnificent" concerns the perilous journey of Tarzan through the savage wilds to bring a dangerous murderer to justice. He is accompanied by three men and two women, unaccustomed to jungle life. They are pursued and constantly harassed by the criminal's killer father and equally murderous two brothers, who are determined to affect their kinsman's release even if they have to slaughter Tarzan and all his companions to do so. The things that happen on the journey constitute action that should thrill young and old alike.

NOW AUTHOR
NEW YORK (AP)—For a number of seasons Marguerite Cullman and her husband, Howard, have been major financial investors in many Broadway musical and drama hits. Now Mrs. Cullman has become a stage author.

Broadway producers Michael Stewart and Sidmore Barnes have purchased her book "Ninety Days on Glasses," to be presented as a stage musical. The story concerns her experiences at the recent Belgian World's Fair.

Wives Draw As Many Votes As Candidates

By Frances Lewine

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Where's your wife?" the constituent asked the candidate.

Politicians hear that inquiry so often they're now convinced that wives probably draw as many votes as they do.

So it isn't surprising convention time, 1960 finds the political wife in the spotlight as never before.

"Insatiable curiosity about people in politics extends to their private lives and families," says Katie Louchheim, vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

It's no secret that a candidate's wife is counted among his political assets, or liabilities.

The wives are in politics whether they want to be or not.

Perhaps, none has taken more happily to the role than Eleanor Roosevelt, who remains in widowhood a powerful reminder of her husband and a lady to be reckoned with in Democratic circles.

Some political wives are a bit mystified at how they got so involved.

"If my husband were a concert pianist, I wouldn't be expected to sit in for him," joked Mrs. Thomas J. Dodd, wife of the Democratic senator from Connecticut.

The wives have evolved a code of their own. Pat Nixon, wife of the vice president and in the public eye perhaps more than any candidate's wife, long ago announced "I don't answer political questions."

A congressman's wife puts it this way: "I have my own opinions—and they're not always the same as my husband's."

Wives in politics usually dress conservatively.

"If I wore a very unusual hat when I was in on the platform with Charlie, the women in the audience would be looking at my hat instead of listening to what he was saying," says Blanche Halleck, wife of the minority leader, Rep. Charles Halleck (R-Ind.).

Their biggest worry is remembering names. If a housewife forgets, it's okay. But when a candidate's wife does it—a vote may fly out the window.

One thing most wives learn early is to be careful of what they say.

Attractive Jacqueline Kennedy, wife of presidential hopeful Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), is a relative newcomer who says she finds it necessary "to watch every word" lest it cause trouble.

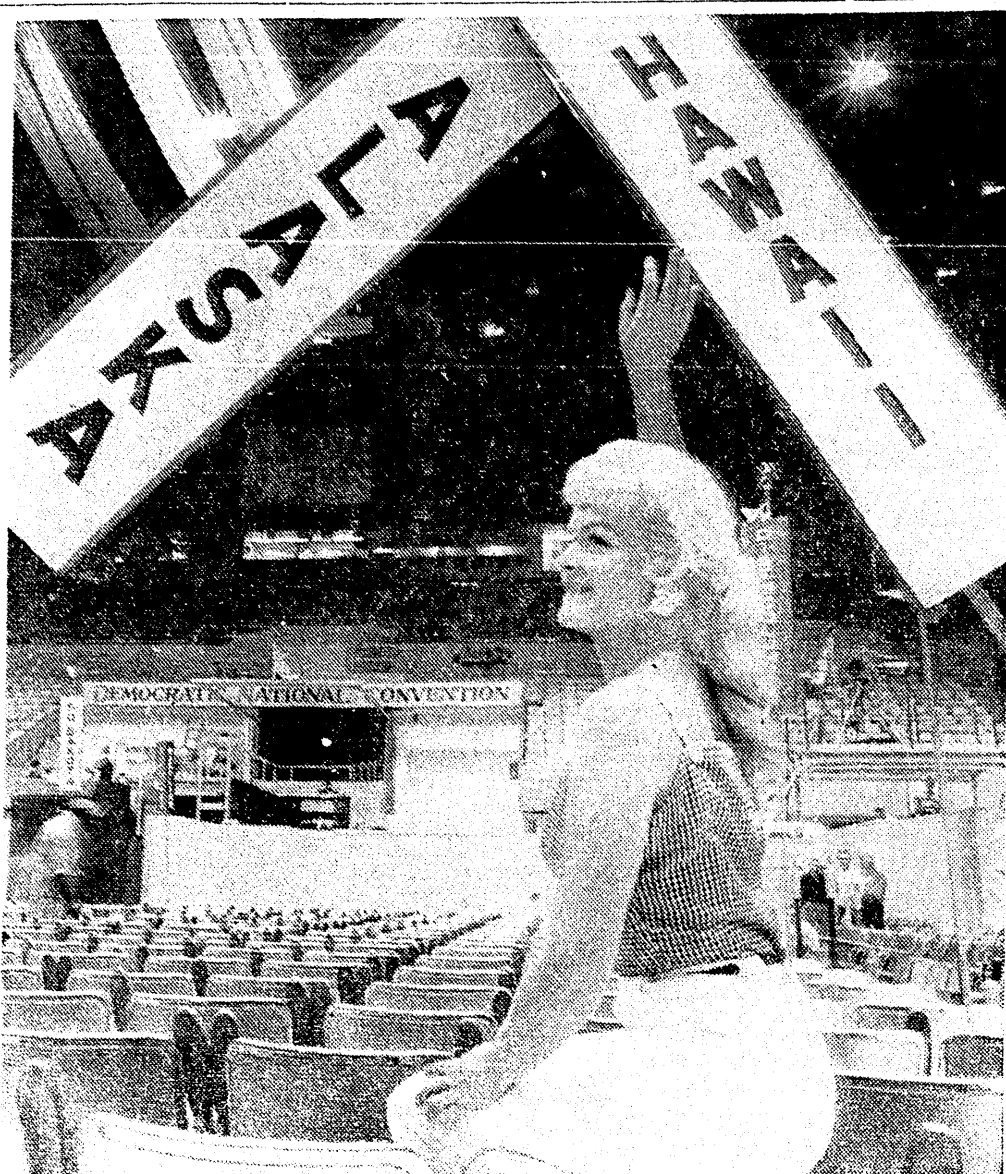

The wives agree that their biggest job is keeping the candidate clicking under the most trying circumstances. Seeing that he gets to the plane on time, sewing on buttons, taking telephone calls, sometimes substituting as secretary to take notes—these are only a sample of their campaigning chores.

Lady Bird Johnson, wife of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Texas), another would-be president, even holds a stopwatch on her husband's speeches.

Often, candidates get so engrossed in political talk, they leave their wives behind unattended in the crowd. But a political wife soon learns to take care of herself in any situation.

The wife of every prominent public figure has worked out a role for herself.

Mrs. William Jennings Bryan wore a silver hat when she ac-

A PRETTY GIRL, and state delegation signs are a pretty good indication there's going to be a convention in town. In this case it's the Democratic national convention. Posing under the state stand-company her husband on his free silver campaign of 1896. Edith Bolling, who married Woodrow Wilson when he was already president, took such a protective and close interest in her husband's activities that she was even accused of running the government during his illness.

She knew the secret code Wilson used to communicate with his aide, Col. Edward M. House, and took over the chore of coding and decoding communications between the two.

When Wilson suffered his paralyzing stroke, Mrs. Wilson recalls she was placed in a position of responsibility that comes to few political wives.

In her autobiography, Mrs. Wilson wrote that doctors warned the president could recover only if he was released from disturbing problems—an almost impossible thing for a president.

"I myself never made a single decision regarding the disposition of public affairs," Mrs. Wilson maintained. "The only decision that was mine was what was important and what was not, and the very important decision of when to present matters to my husband."

Thus, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, now 87, played a historic backstage role.

Another first lady preferred a front page part—Eleanor Roosevelt. In the early 1920s, when Franklin D. Roosevelt was involved in lesser government posts, she took an active hand in Democratic party work.

Mrs. Roosevelt is given a large measure of credit for party recognition of the importance of women in political organizations.

During her husband's presidential campaigns, she avoided partisan speeches for him, but urged people to register and vote.

Mrs. Roosevelt also served as her husband's star reporter, bringing him gleanings from her travels and wide contacts with the people.

One Cleveland newspaper headlined the election results: "Bob discards politics in the campaign and Martha wins."

Demo Platform Writers Meet

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Democratic platform writers went into seclusion Saturday to draft a party campaign statement of principles that will feature broad social welfare programs.

A drafting committee of 19 members of the 109-member Resolutions Committee and Chairman Chester Bowles expect to come up Monday with a promised concise platform of less than 3,000 words.

Tentatively drawn planks— which got strong backing of organized labor and welfare groups at hearings earlier this week— put emphasis on federal programs for substantial aid to public education, housing, economically depressed areas, highways and medical care for the aged.

Bowles told newsmen that these spending programs would be accompanied by an explanation of how these could be financed within the framework of sound fiscal policies.

"Much of the trouble liberals have had in the past in advancing such programs has risen from their failure to spell out how they might be financed," the Connecticut congressman said.

Student Kills Girl, Self In Virginia

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)

—A dejected Indian graduate student apparently shot his ex-girl friend and then shot and killed himself at a summer language camp Friday night, police said.

The shootings, police related, came minutes after a talk between the couple and a psychiatrist in an attempt to dissuade the Indian student from killing himself.

Dead was Mahesh Chandra, 33, of Delhi, India, a first-year graduate student at the University of Virginia's Woodrow Wilson School of Foreign Affairs.

Wounded was Blanche Joy MacFadyen, 24, of Arden, N. C., a third-year student at the school. She was unable to get aid at the home of Prof. Kenneth R. Redden, who operates the camp. Redden and his wife were out, and his two children and baby sitter, terrified at the pounding on the door, wouldn't admit Miss MacFadyen.

Kansas Negroes

Launch Sit-In Demonstrations

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Some 40 Negroes launched sit-in demonstrations at three Kansas City area restaurants Saturday.

Banks, Charles Banks, Hubert Banks, Leslie Banks, Duncan McIntyre, Roy Weston, Henry Parham and Tom Previtt. At about the same time, members of the project were attempting to receive meals at the Forum Cafeteria, also in downtown Kansas City; Kelsey's Restaurant in nearby Independence, Mo. and at a Howard Johnson Restaurant near the east edge of Kansas City.

Eleven Negro youths were served at Kelsey's after a short delay and there were no incidents at the Independence restaurant.

Lee Swinton, president of the Kansas City, Mo. branch of the NAACP, said the project was sponsored by the NAACP.

But he added that the students volunteered to test the restaurants' policy and were not recruited. He said the students planned to remain in the eating places until they were served.

Malayan Sultan Dies Of Stroke
KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP) — The Sultan of Kelantan, Tengku Ibrahim Bini Almarham, 63, died at his palace Saturday after a stroke. The Sultan, who ruled Malaya's third largest state for 16 years, had not regained consciousness since stricken Tuesday. He leaves 4 widows and 15 children, one an orphaned Chinese baby he adopted in 1933.

at a downtown cafeteria without question. The group was joined by a few whites. All were students. Five Negroes entered the Myron-Greco Cafeteria in downtown Kansas City about 11:30 a.m. and were served without incident.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Mae Johnson of Quitman; one daughter, Mrs. Louise Helms, Kermit, Texas; two sons, Arthur Johnson and Leonard Johnson both of Bossier; four sisters: Mrs. Emmett Taylor, Marion; Mrs. J. H. Hawkins, Bastrop; Mrs. W. L. DECLINES TO SAY WHO

Johnson Claims More Delegates

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said Saturday he has picked up some traditional delegates since his arrival here to push his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

But he declined to say how many or who they were. He said it was not the kind of information he wanted relayed to the camp of Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the front-runner in the race for the nomination.

Johnson, who flew in Friday ahead of any of his rivals, kept busy in his hotel suite receiving visitors and making telephone calls. He stepped outside the door to talk briefly with newsmen.

He said he had talked by phone with Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, who dropped out as a candidate for the nomination after being beaten by Kennedy in the Wisconsin and West Virginia primaries.

Humphrey, however, still had 64½ delegate votes committed to him at the latest count. Johnson declined to say whether he had many inroads there. He said only that he and Humphrey had exchanged some views.

Johnson dismissed as something he had been expecting for three weeks or so the announcement of Terry Sanford, Democratic nominee for governor of North Carolina, in favor of Kennedy.

Sanford told a news conference he expects his state's 37 votes to be split two-thirds for Johnson and one-third for Kennedy.

Johnson, anxious to strengthen his support outside the South, planned to attend a reception later where he hoped to have chance to mix with many members of the 114-vote New York delegation.

Ford Official

Found Dead Of Gunshot Wounds

DETROIT (AP) — William J. Reilly, 53, general manager of the Ford Motor Co.'s steel division, was found shot to death at his home in suburban Birmingham Saturday.

Police said Reilly apparently had shot himself in the heart with a .32-caliber revolver. He was found in an upstairs bedroom. He was dead on arrival at William Beaumont Hospital in nearby Royal Oak.

Reilly had been ill, friends said. Two of Reilly's six children, William, 22, and Philip, 25, were at home and called an ambulance.

Reilly's wife, Marion, and the other children, were absent. Reilly, a native of Youngstown, Ohio, who made a career in the steel industry, had headed Ford's steel operations for 10 years. Previously he was with the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. He was a graduate of the University of Michigan.

GREMILLION SAYS State's Election Setup Threatened

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Unconstitutionality. The panel of Louisiana's attorney general, judges opens hearings on the fighting to show the 1960 Civil Rights Act is unconstitutional said Saturday it could threaten the State's election system.

"Congress cannot usurp the electoral process in a state to the extent that the entire system is bogged down by the preservation of federal election records," attorney general Jack Gremlion said.

Gremlion claimed in a brief filed in federal court here that parish voter registrars must keep records of all elections for federal offices for 22 months after an election, according to the Civil Rights legislation.

The brief was in connection with a federal suit to force East Feliciana parish registrar of voters Henry Earl Palmer to open his books to FBI inspection.

The suit, based on the 1960 Civil Rights Act, claims discrimination in removal of Negroes from East Feliciana voting rolls.

Gremlion said the provision requiring parish officials to refrain from removing tallies from voting machines or ballots from ballot boxes to get state totals during the 22-month interim period would gum up Louisiana's election process.

Gremlion asked the government suit be stayed indefinitely or dismissed pending a ruling by a three-judge federal court in Shreveport on another suit based on the same Civil Rights legislation.

In that case, he has charged:

- Imposes ex post facto penalties; that is, punishment for acts committed before they were outlawed.
- Allows investigation where there is no reasonable indication that a law has been broken, violating constitutional provisions against unreasonable search and seizure.
- Provides for finding guilt or innocence and criminal penalties without jury indictment.
- Forces a voting registrar to produce records which may be used against him, in violation of self-incrimination provisions of the constitution.
- Does not provide for accused parties confronting accusers.
- Discriminates against voters registered before the deadline, 30 days prior to an election, because it provides that a person must be registered after the deadline if so ordered by court.
- Specifies that court order may put a person on the voting rolls but doesn't say how he may be removed when he becomes unqualified to vote.

Gremlion has filed similar charges of unconstitutionality in Shreveport in connection with the voter-refugee suit the government has filed there against Bienville parish voter registrar Pauline A. Culpepper.

Both federal suits, the one here and the one in Shreveport, are based on the 1960 Civil Rights Act. The three-judge panel named to hear the Shreveport case opens its hearings July 27.

Bill On Equal Submerged Land Rights Planned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Kenneth Roberts (D-Ala.) said Saturday he would introduce legislation giving all Gulf states equal rights to submerged lands off coasts.

Roberts said he began working on the measure as soon as the Supreme Court ruled that Florida and Texas were entitled to 10 1/2 miles from shore while Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana could have but three miles.

"This unfair and unconscionable decision could rob Alabama and the other short-changed states of millions of dollars by denying them claim to oil and other offshore resources which Texas and Florida are allowed," Roberts said.

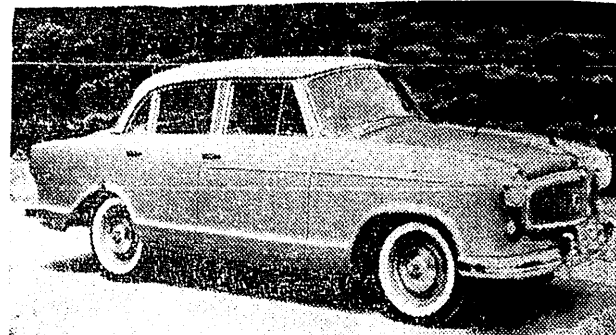

The congressman said his bill, which should be ready for introduction when Congress reconvenes in August, would give all the Gulf states boundary rights equal to those of Florida and Texas.

12 Railroad Cars Derail In Ala.

RAGLAND, Ala. (UPI)—Twelve cars of a Seaboard Air Line freight train derailed about five miles northeast of here Saturday. Officials said there were no injuries. Derricks were sent from Atlanta and Birmingham to clear the tracks. Traffic on the main line was expected to resume Saturday night.

The Silver Comet from the Atlanta-Birmingham area to New York was derailed between Atlanta and Birmingham on Southern Railway tracks.

Left half Steve Gossen of the Southwestern (La.) Bulldogs punted 41 times in 1959 and averaged 41.5 to rank among the national leaders.

BUZ SAWYER

Featuring His Pal Rosco Sweeney & Roy Crane

WHAT'S THE MATTER, SWEENEY?

THERE'S A LITTLE TICKING SOUND, BUT I CAN'T SEEM TO FIND IT.

TICKING SOUND? OH, YES, NOW I HEAR IT. WELL, WELL, LOOKS LIKE YOU'RE IN FOR TROUBLE!

AW, SHUCKS! IT'S NOTHIN' SERIOUS.

THAT'S NOT THE PROPER ATTITUDE. ALWAYS TAKE CARE OF VALUABLE MACHINERY. LITTLE TROUBLES CAN BECOME BIG TROUBLES.

ARE YOU SUGGESTING THAT I TAKE IT TO A MECHANIC JUST BECAUSE OF A LITTLE TICKING NOISE?

NOT AT ALL. MECHANICS COST MONEY. GOT A WRENCH, PAL?

SURE.

YOO-HOO! ROSCO, COME QUICK!

MRS. JENNINGS JUST CALLED AND SAID OUR PIGS ARE RUINING HER GARDEN.

OH, MY GOSH!

AH SHOOED 'EM INTO THE SWAMP! YOU KEEP YOUR HANGS TO HOME, ROSCO SWEENEY, OR I'LL HAVE THE LAW ON YOU!

HOURS PASS:

I CAN HEAR 'EM, BUT THEY KEEP GOING DEEPER INTO THE SWAMP.

STILL LATER:

THEY WEREN'T EVEN MY PIGS!

I WONDER IF ELMO'S FOUND OUT WHAT CAUSED THAT TICKING SOUND.

I COULDN'T FIND A BLESSED THING WRONG, SWEENEY. GUESS YOU'LL HAVE TO TAKE IT TO A MECHANIC, AFTER ALL.

DENNIS THE MENACE

By Hank Ketcham

CATCH ANY FISH?

NO, TOO WINDY.

TOO WINDY?

UH-HUH.

BUT THE FISH ARE UNDER THE WATER.

I KNOW, BUT THEY DON'T LIKE ROUGH WATER!

WELL, WHAT'S YOUR EXCUSE? WHY DIDN'T YOU CATCH ANY FISH, HONEY?

WELL, DAD KEPT MAKIN' ME BE QUIET!

AN' THE FISH DIDN'T KNOW I WAS THERE!

WELL, WHAT'S FUNNY ABOUT THAT? IT CERTAINLY SOUNDS SENSIBLE TO ME!

THE JACKSON TWINS

by Dick Brooks

THOSE SISTERS OF YOURS! I SIMPLY CANNOT GET THEM OUT OF BED IN THE SUMMER!

I'VE CALLED TWENTY TIMES!

HEY, MOM, FRANK'S OUT THERE! HE WANTS TO KNOW IF--

FRANK!... OH, THAT GIVES ME AN IDEA, JUNIOR! GO OUT AND QUIETLY ASK HIM TO DRIVE WAY UP INTO THE DRIVEWAY!

OH, FRANK, I HAVEN'T SEEN YOUR GORGEOUS CAR SINCE IT GOT THAT CANARY YELLOW PAINT JOB!

IT MUST BE FUN TO RIDE IN AN OPEN CAR ON A DAY LIKE THIS!

I WISH THE TWINS WERE UP SO THEY COULD SEE IT!

DO WE KNOW ANY FRANK WITH A YELLOW CONVERTIBLE, JAN?

I DON'T KNOW !!! AND I CAN'T SEE IT! HE'S PULLED WAY UP IN THE DRIVEWAY!

BUT I'M NOT WASTING ANY TIME GETTING DOWN THERE!

MAYBE IT'S FRANK LOW! MOM KNOWS HIS FOLKS!

OR MAYBE IT'S THAT COLLEGE BOY SHE WAS TELLING US ABOUT !!

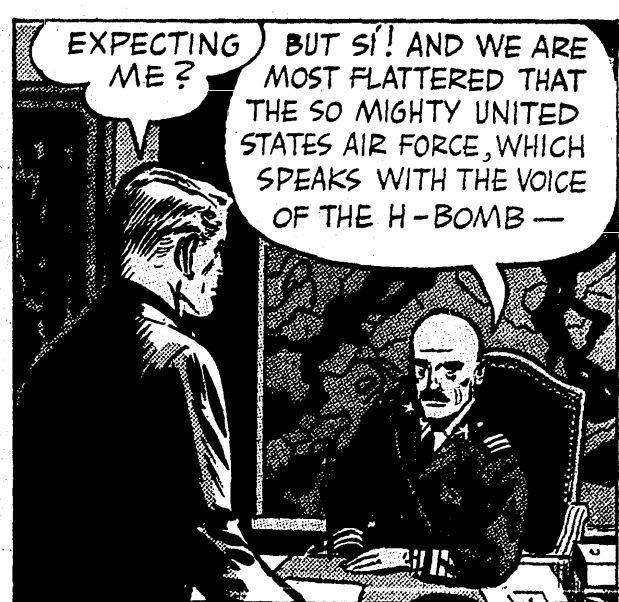

OR MAYBE IT'S THE MILKMAN!

"OPEN CAR" SHE SAYS!

OH, THE TWINS ARE UP! JUST IN TIME TO HELP ME HOUSECLEAN!

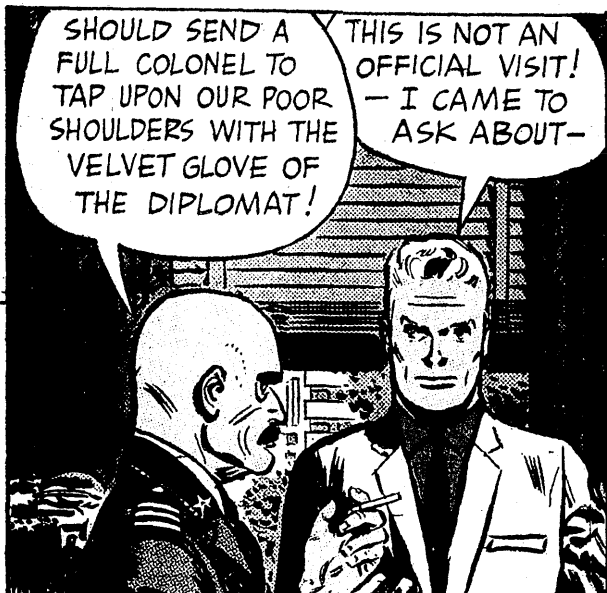

AH — WE HAVE BEEN EXPECTING YOU, COL. CANYON!

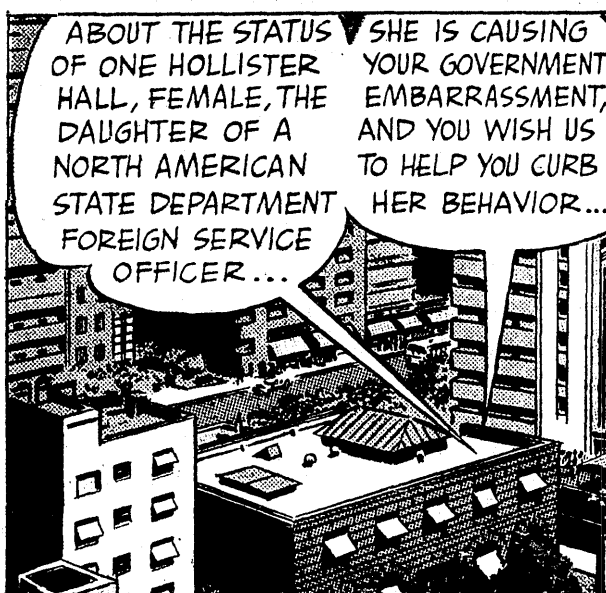

EXPECTING ME?

BUT SÍ! AND WE ARE MOST FLATTERED THAT THE SO MIGHTY UNITED STATES AIR FORCE, WHICH SPEAKS WITH THE VOICE OF THE H-BOMB —

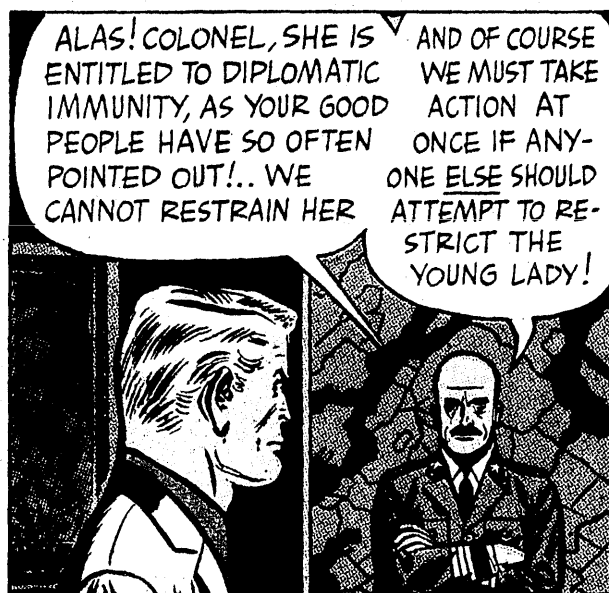

SHOULD SEND A FULL COLONEL TO TAP UPON OUR POOR SHOULDERS WITH THE VELVET GLOVE OF THE DIPLOMAT!

THIS IS NOT AN OFFICIAL VISIT! — I CAME TO ASK ABOUT—

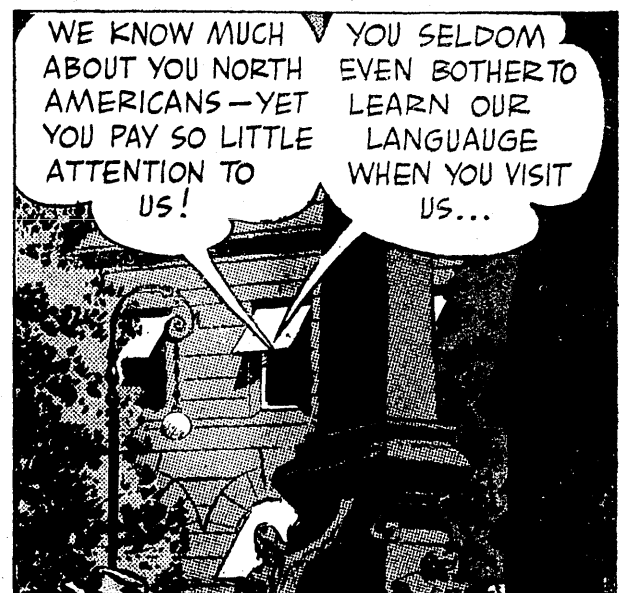

ABOUT THE STATUS OF ONE HOLLISTER HALL, FEMALE, THE DAUGHTER OF A NORTH AMERICAN STATE DEPARTMENT FOREIGN SERVICE OFFICER...

SHE IS CAUSING YOUR GOVERNMENT EMBARRASSMENT, AND YOU WISH US TO HELP YOU CURB HER BEHAVIOR...

ALAS! COLONEL, SHE IS ENTITLED TO DIPLOMATIC IMMUNITY, AS YOUR GOOD PEOPLE HAVE SO OFTEN POINTED OUT!... WE CANNOT RESTRAIN HER

AND OF COURSE WE MUST TAKE ACTION AT ONCE IF ANY-ONE ELSE SHOULD ATTEMPT TO RESTRICT THE YOUNG LADY!

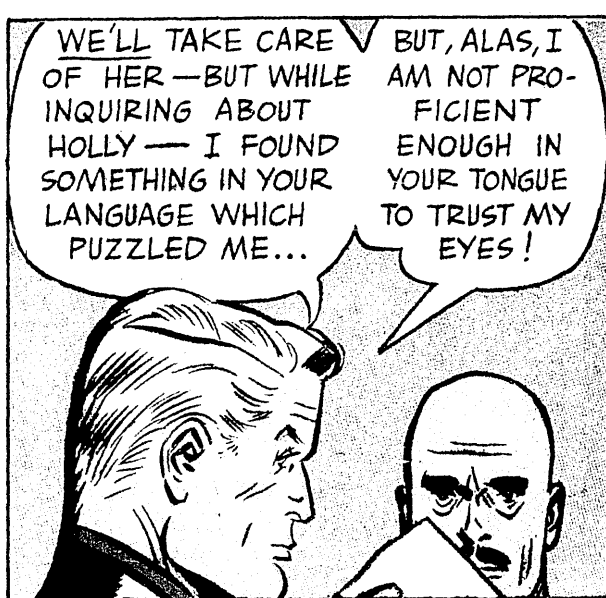

WE KNOW MUCH ABOUT YOU NORTH AMERICANS—YET YOU PAY SO LITTLE ATTENTION TO US!

YOU SELDOM EVEN BOTHER TO LEARN OUR LANGUAGE WHEN YOU VISIT US...

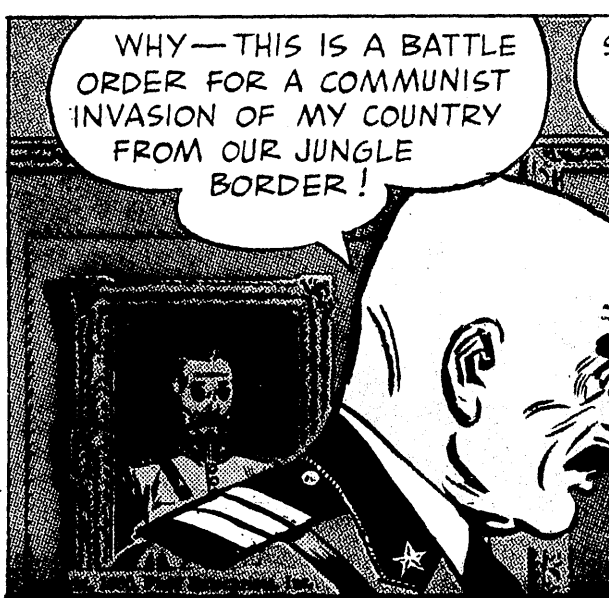

YOU ARE QUITE RIGHT, CHIEF... AND THAT IS THE REASON I AM HERE...

BUT WHAT OF SEÑORITA HALL?

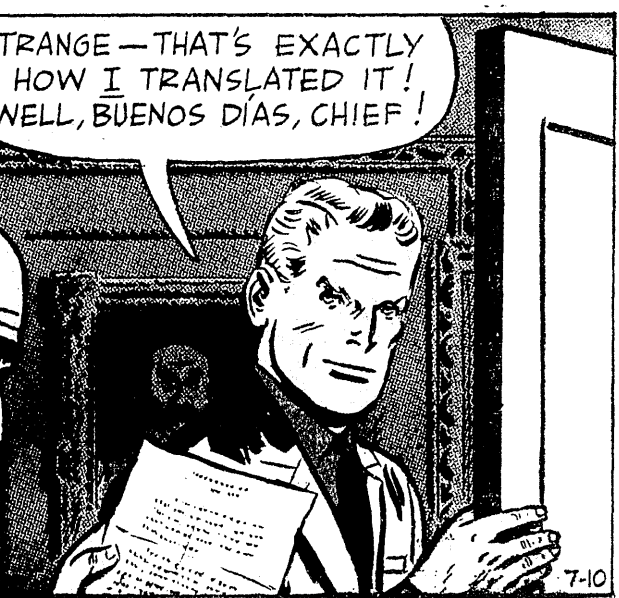

WE'LL TAKE CARE OF HER—BUT WHILE INQUIRING ABOUT HOLLY—I FOUND SOMETHING IN YOUR LANGUAGE WHICH PUZZLED ME...

BUT, ALAS, I AM NOT PROFICIENT ENOUGH IN YOUR TONGUE TO TRUST MY EYES!

WHY—THIS IS A BATTLE ORDER FOR A COMMUNIST INVASION OF MY COUNTRY FROM OUR JUNGLE BORDER!

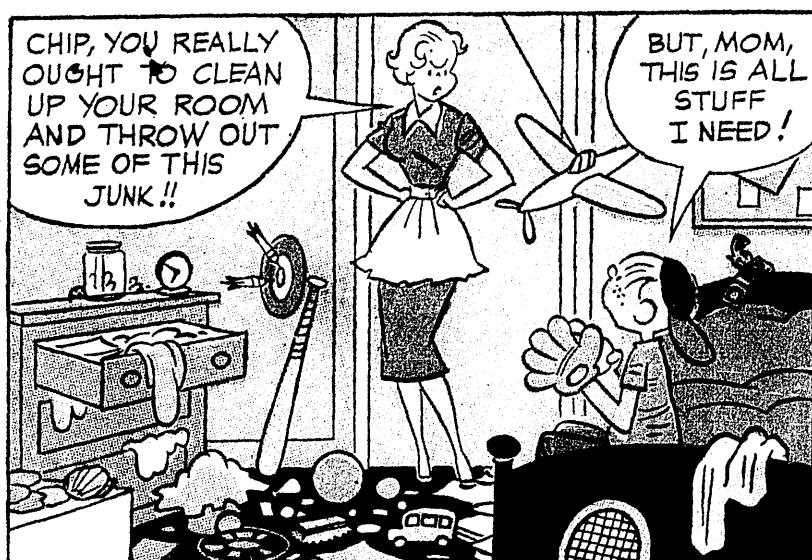

STRANGE—THAT'S EXACTLY HOW I TRANSLATED IT! WELL, BUENOS DÍAS, CHIEF!

Hi and Lois

by MORT WALKER and DIK BROWNE

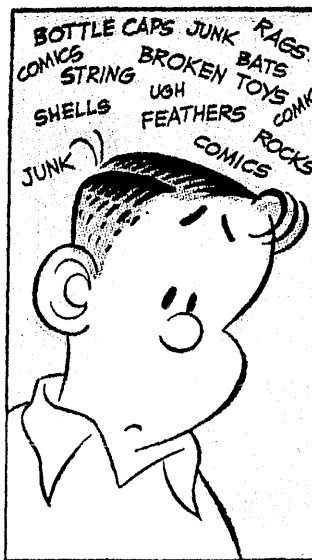

CHIP, YOU REALLY OUGHT TO CLEAN UP YOUR ROOM AND THROW OUT SOME OF THIS JUNK!!

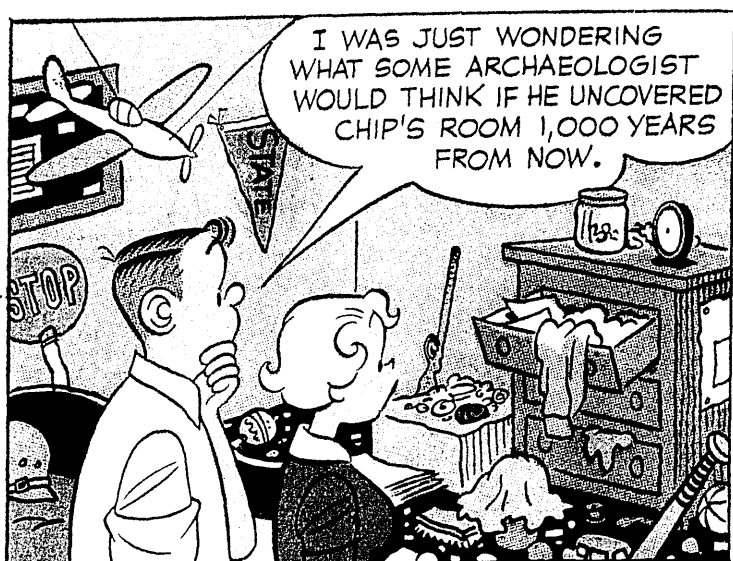

BUT, MOM, THIS IS ALL STUFF I NEED!

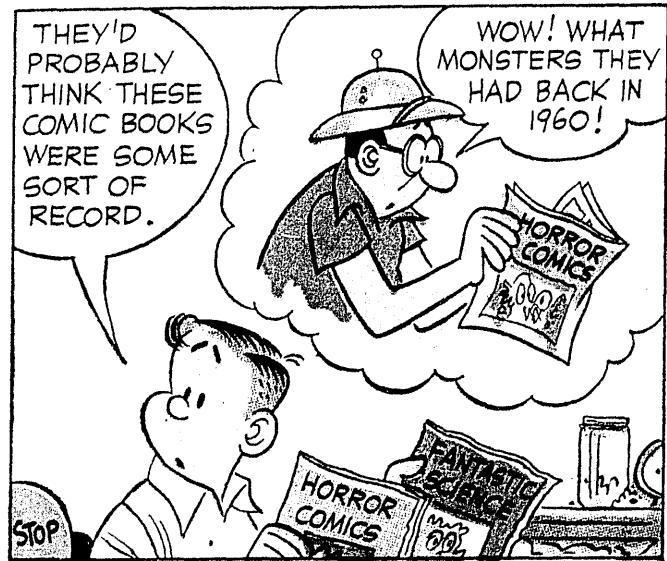

I GUESS THEY ARE HIS POSSESSIONS... MAYBE THERE'S NO HARM IN HIS KEEPING THEM... WHAT DO YOU THINK?

I DON'T KNOW...

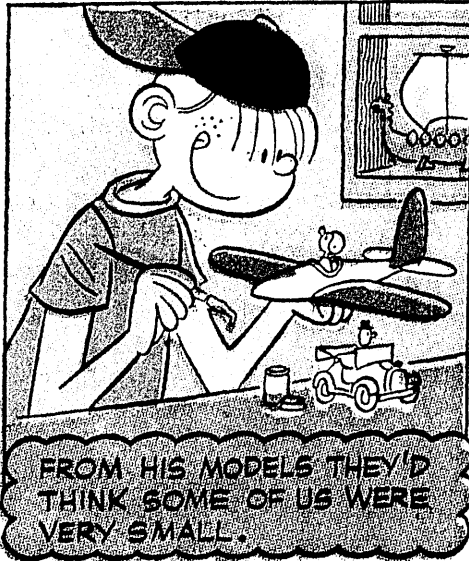

I WAS JUST WONDERING WHAT SOME ARCHAEOLOGIST WOULD THINK IF HE UNCOVERED CHIP'S ROOM 1,000 YEARS FROM NOW.

THEY'D PROBABLY THINK THESE COMIC BOOKS WERE SOME SORT OF RECORD.

WOW! WHAT MONSTERS THEY HAD BACK IN 1960!

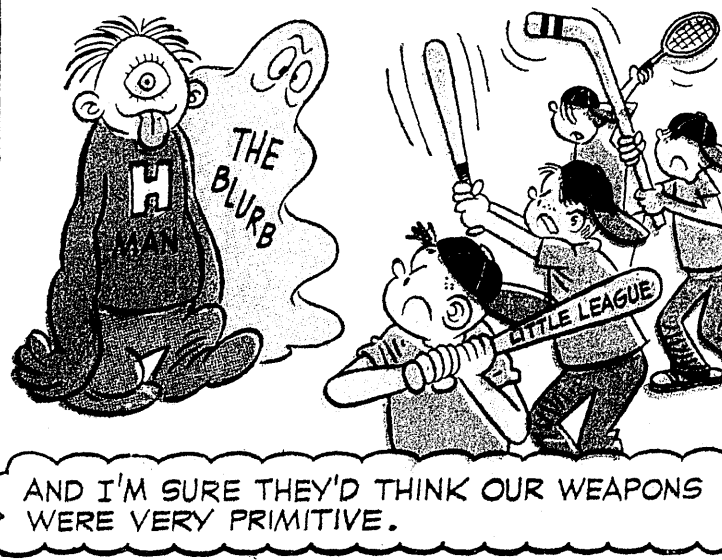

FROM HIS MODELS THEY'D THINK SOME OF US WERE VERY SMALL.

WHEN THEY FOUND HIS CLOTHES THEY'D BELIEVE WE ALL DRESSED THIS WAY!

I KNOW THEY'D ASSUME HIS BOTTLE-CAP COLLECTION WAS MONEY.

AND I'M SURE THEY'D THINK OUR WEAPONS WERE VERY PRIMITIVE.

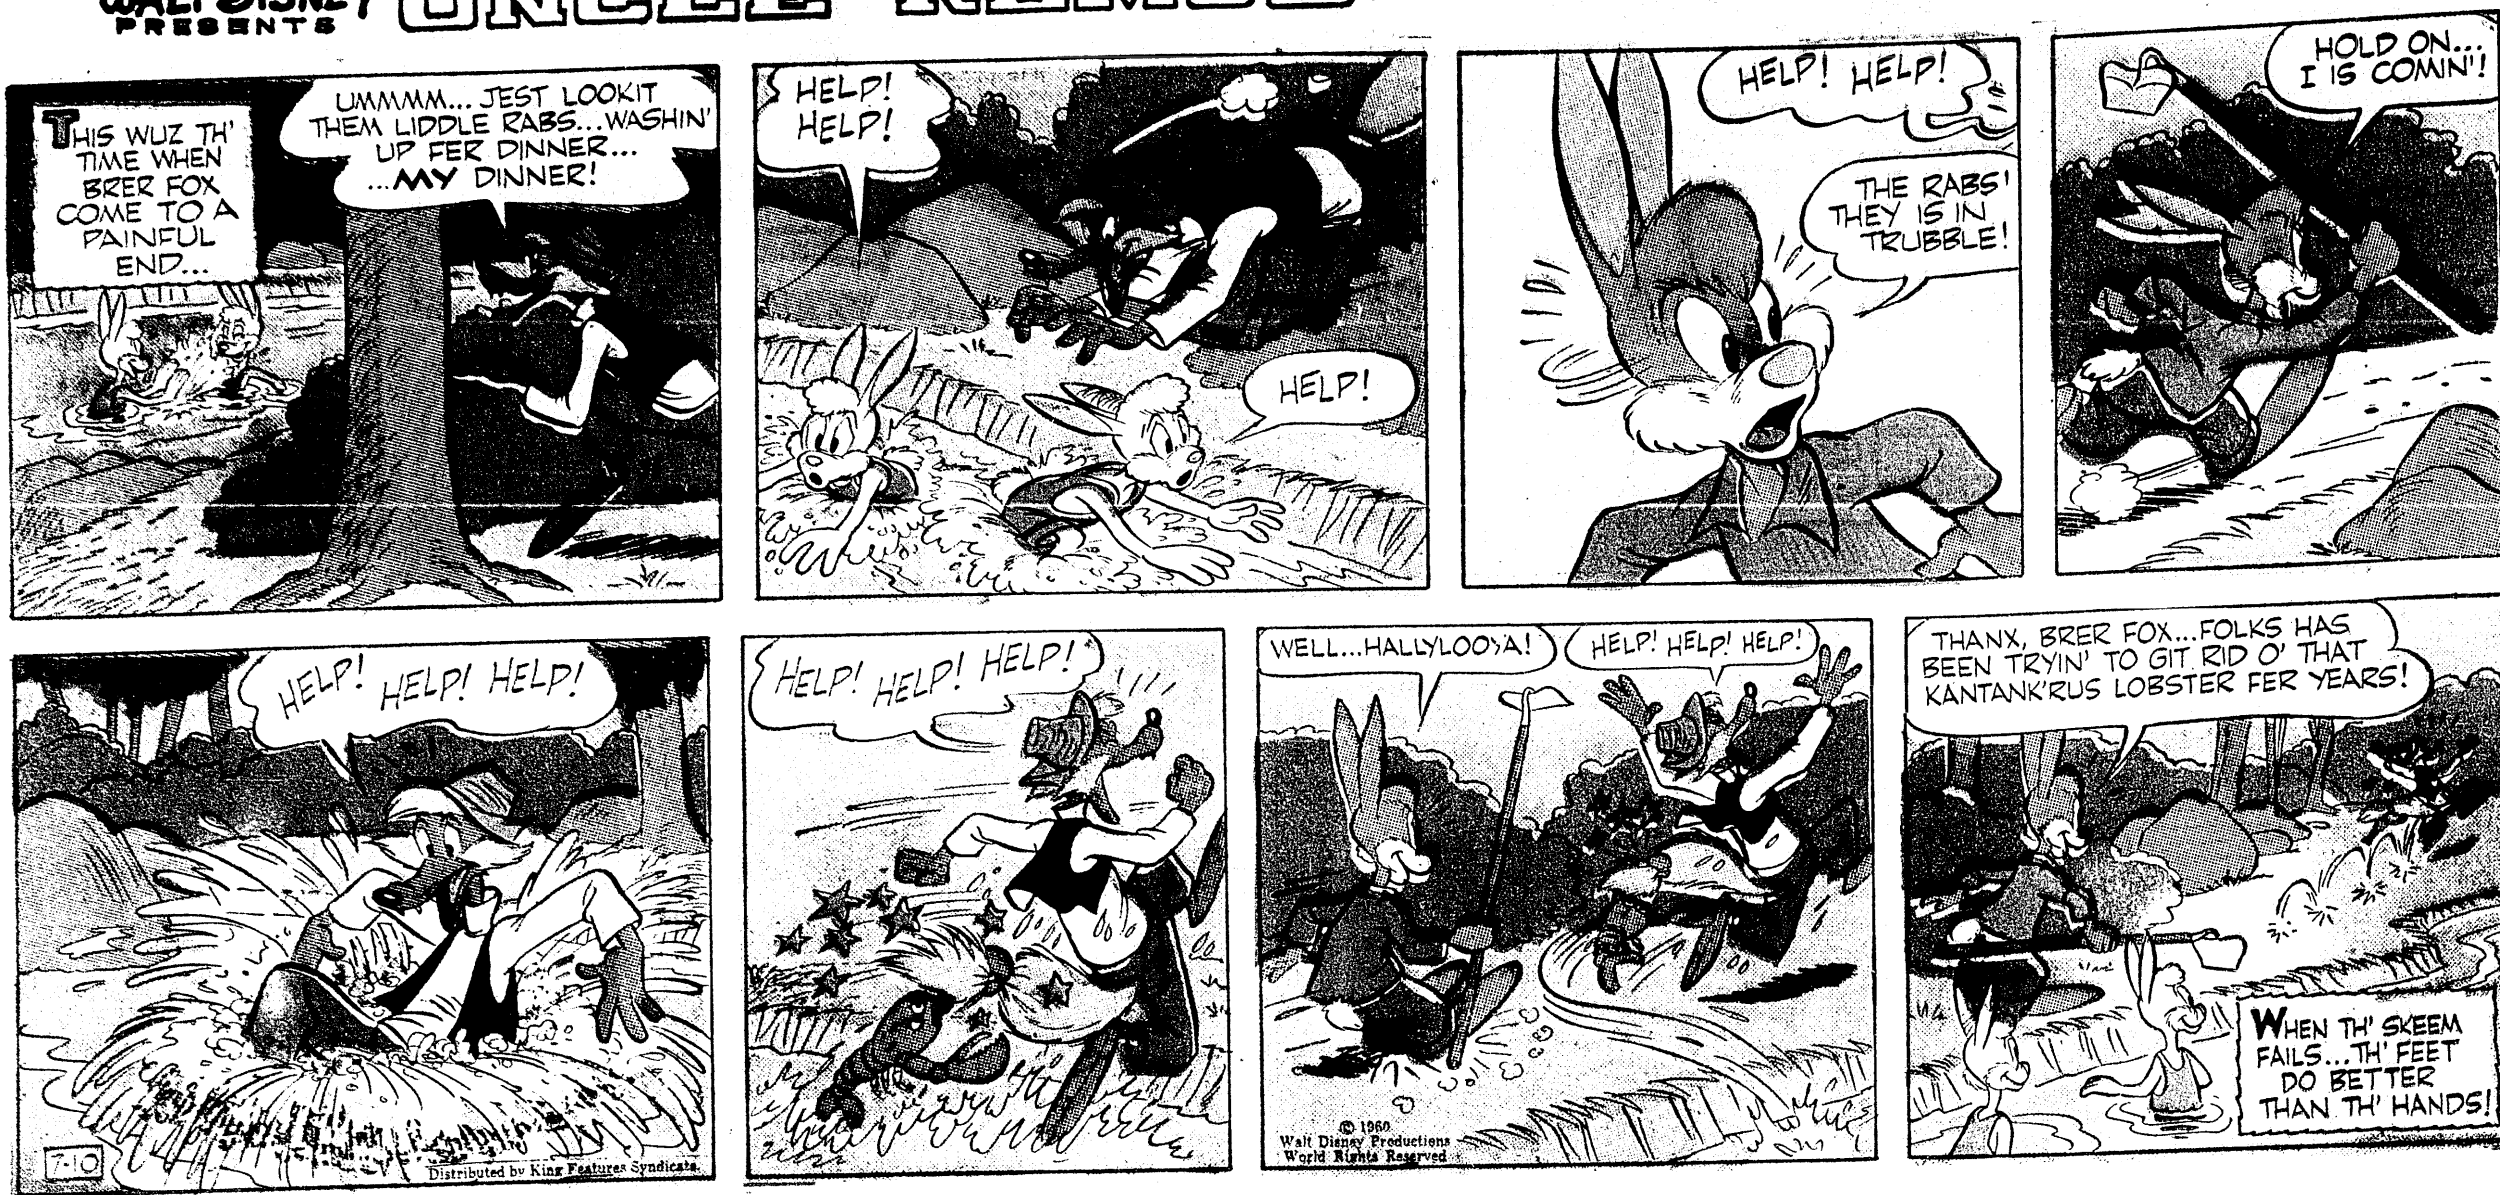

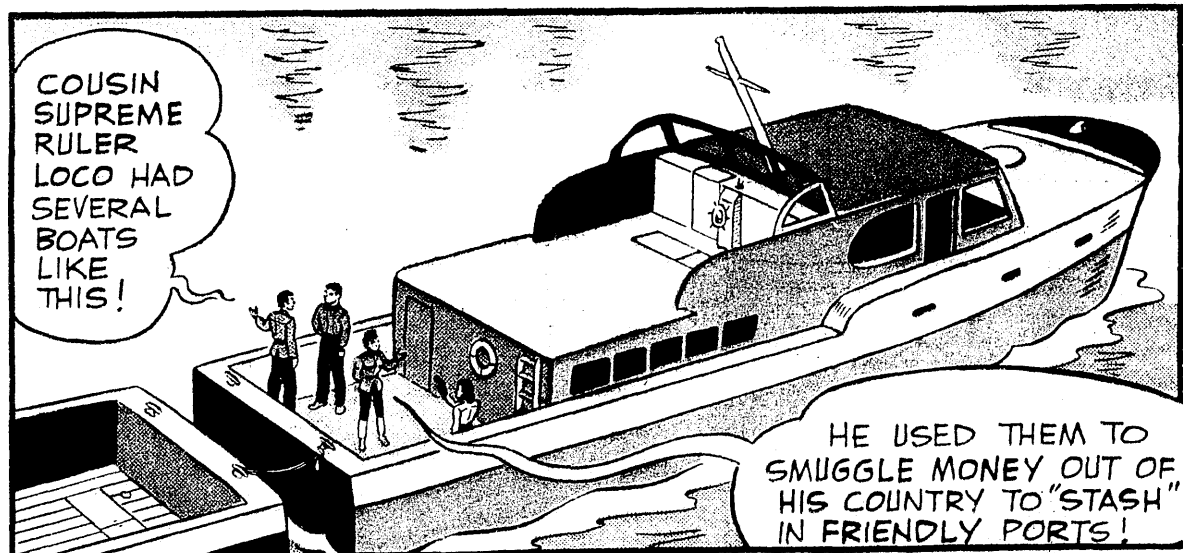

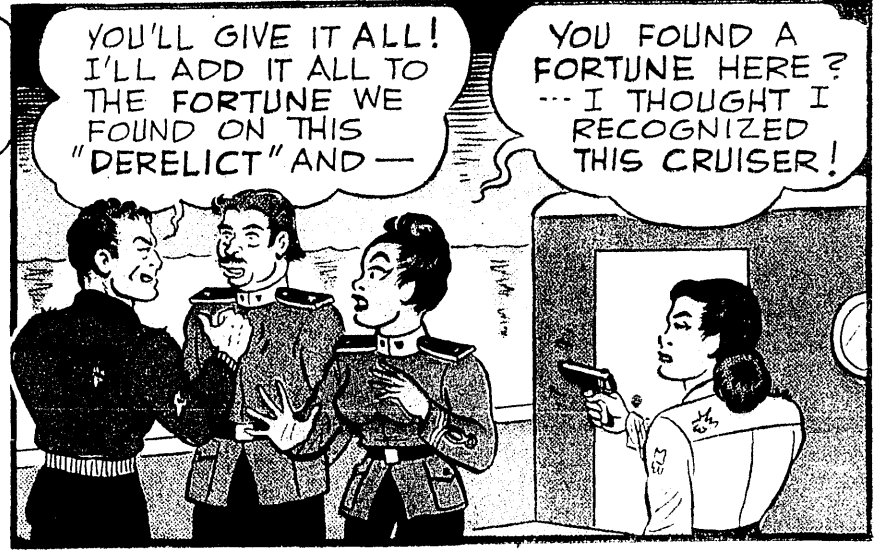

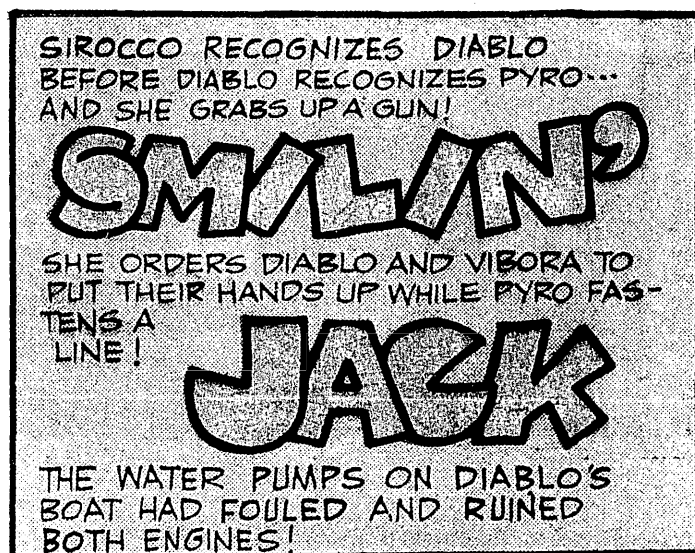

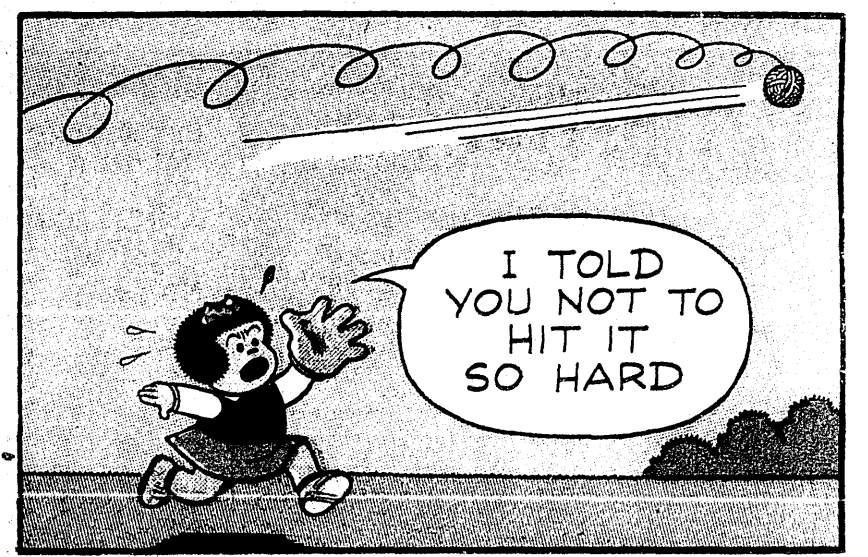

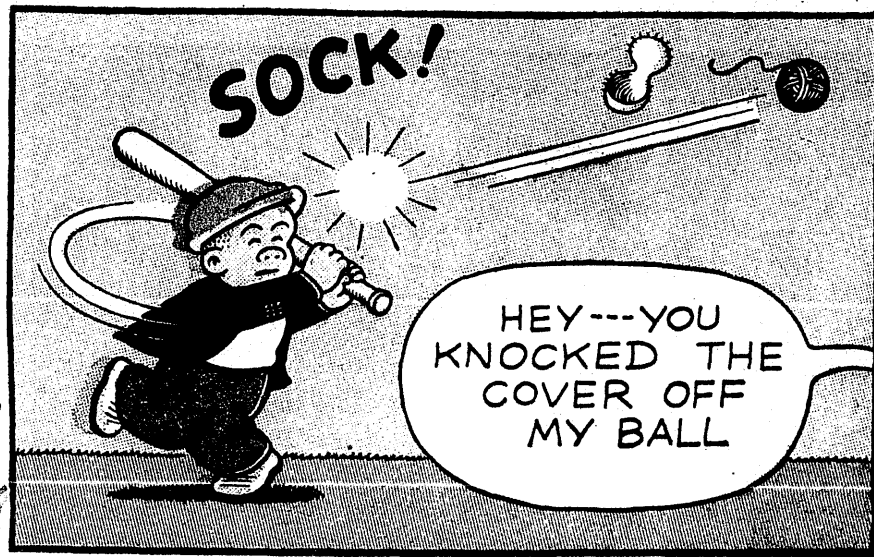

HOW COME YOU GOTTA CLEAN OUT YOUR ROOM?

IT HAS SOMETHING TO DO WITH MISLEADING FUTURE HISTORIANS.
